COUNTY COURT MEETING

A BILL FROM SHERIFF SPRECHER

Was Turned Down by the Court—Heated Discussion Was Indulged in Before Quiet Was Finally Restored.

A special session of the Pettis county court was held this forenoon and Kirk Cully, brother of C. R. Cully, the West Main street grocer, was adjudged insane and ordered removed to the Nevada insane asylum.

A rather interesting incident occurred while the judges of the court were in session, it arising from the return of James Beaty's 11-year-old daughter, Lorene, from Texas last night.

Sheriff Sprecher contended that, according to the law, he was the proper person to have gone to Texas to accompany the child here, and for doing so he would have been entitled to his fee and mileage.

Instead, the prosecuting attorney of Comanche county, Texas, at the instigation of the Pettis county court, accompanied the little girl as far as Fort Worth, where she was placed on board the Katy flyer and left to reach Sedalia by herself, the court paying the Texas officer's railroad fare to Fort Worth and return.

The judges of the court explained that they deemed it unwise to incur unnecessary expense by sending Sheriff Sprecher after the girl, when she could come here alone. Mr. Sprecher thought differently, and stated that he was entitled to what he would have had to expend for railroad fare on the round trip and also mileage.

For some little time a heated argument was indulged in, Sheriff Sprecher asking the court to grant him the money he claimed he was entitled to, but the court positively refused.

Finally both Sheriff Sprecher and Presiding Judge McAninch became angry, and Judge McAninch said:

"Mr. Sprecher, we've been called down all we expect to by you. Ever since we've been in office you have called us down, and harrangued us in regard to one thing and another, but we've stood all we intend to. We'll give you all the money that you are entitled to, but not one penny more."

Sheriff Sprecher replied in equally emphatic terms, saying he had never "called down" the court, and did not attempt to now, but merely wanted the money he was entitled to, according to law.

Soothing words followed, and the discussion ended, Mr. Sprecher leaving the court room and the judges remaining firm in their stand not to allow the money claimed.

PARDON FOR WEST

Brother of Legg's Slayer Will Not Be Fought by Prosecutor.

Sidney, Ohio, July 26.—Prosecuting Attorney Charles Marshall returned last evening from a trip to Philadelphia. During his absence Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Logan Marshall noticed in the dispatches that Howard West, alias Frank Earl, sentenced from this county for the murder of William B. Legg to be electrocuted in November, had sent an appeal to the Cincinnati workhouse officials to have his brother, John West, pardoned from that institution.

Thinking that the prosecution might want to raise some objection to the pardon the assistant prosecutor phoned to Cincinnati to have action delayed until Mr. Marshall's return.

When seen Prosecutor Marshall said he would raise no objection to the pardon of John West, as he had nothing to do with the case.

A SERIOUS ACCIDENT

John Gerken Painfully Injured While Threshing.

John Gerken, son of Fred Gerken, a prosperous farmer of near Lincoln, met with a very painful accident last Monday afternoon, which may cause him to lose a limb, says the Warsaw Times.

Mr. Gerken was threshing out his crop of wheat and the separator had become clogged up by the straw.

His son called to a boy who was near the engine to shut it down, so that he could remove the straw from the cylinder, and by accident the engine stopped on "center," so when the straw was pulled out of the machine it released the strain and the engine made two or three revolutions, catching John Gerken's foot between the cylinders, the knives tearing the flesh from the left foot up to the ankle.

Dr. Lemon was hurriedly called and dressed the wound, but experienced a great deal of trouble in drawing the wounds together on account of the lacerated condition of the limb.

TO DEDICATE A SCHOOL

THE NEW $20,000 BUILDING OF SACRED HEART PARISH ON THIRD STREET.

SEPTEMBER 22 IS THE DATE FIXED

Bishop Thos. F. Lillis, of Kansas City, Kansas, to Officiate—Many Visiting Priests Will Be in Attendance.

The handsome new $20,000 brick school of Sacred Heart parish, on West Third street, will be dedicated by Bishop Thomas F. Lillis, of Kansas City, Kan., on Sunday, September 22, when a number of visiting priests and other prominent Catholics will be present.

The new building is rapidly nearing completion, and will open for the fall and winter term on the same date as the public schools, the date of which has not been fixed.

"I have made it a rule," said the Rev. Fr. Neiberg to the Democrat-Sentinel, "to open and close our school on the same dates that the public schools open and close.

"If we were to open a week or two earlier it would be difficult to get our pupils interested at the start, as they would think they should be out if the pupils of the Protestant schools were. The same is true as regards the closing of the school.

"It was our original intention to have the school dedicated the latter part of August, before opening for studies of the fall term, but Bishop Lillis suggested it would be better to wait until the weather became cooler.

"We realized that his suggestion was a good one, hence fixed the date for September 22."

THE DEATH OF AN INFANT

Little Daughter of Rev. and Mrs. R. C. Miller Died Today.

The four-months-old daughter of Rev. R. C. Miller, pastor of the East Sedalia Baptist church, and wife, died of weakness at her parents' home, 101 East Fifth street, at 5 o'clock this morning. The child had been ill since birth.

Rev. Miller was out of town when the death occurred, being at Hannibal, and did not learn of the death until friends apprised him of it as he alighted from the train this forenoon.

Funeral services will be held at the family residence at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, and interment will be in the city cemetery.

Attorney Succombs to Heat.

Fort Smith, Ark., July 26.—John B. Latham, brother of Thomas B. Latham, United States district attorney for the central district of the Indian Territory, died at his home here today as the result of heat prostration.

FINNEY AND CLEMENTS

PICTURE OF THE TWO IS RECEIVED

F. N. Finney, Aged 76, Is Telling "Mark Twain," Aged 72, a Story That Interested Him Not a Little.

Superintendent N. J. Finney today received a letter from his father, F. N. Finney, former president of the M., K. & T. railway, in which he enclosed a picture of the retired magnate, in company with Samuel Clements, better known as "Mark Twain," the author and humorist.

The picture was taken on board the steamship "Minneapolis," on which the two gentlemen named were passengers in crossing the Atlantic ocean, en route to Europe, a few weeks ago. Mr. Finney is 76 years old and Mr. Clements 72.

Mr. Clements is looking up into the face of Mr. Finney, who is telling him a story that amused the former resident of Hannibal, Mo., when he was a pilot on the Mississippi river, not a little.

Mr. Clements' first work that won for him a national reputation was "Innocents Abroad," and it was of this that Mr. Finney was telling the author.

Mr. Finney had, years ago, met a Pennsylvanian who had crossed the Atlantic ocean on the vessel with the "Innocents Abroad," when they visited Europe in the 60s. In discussing the trip, the man from the Keystone state had been asked by Mr. Finney how he enjoyed the trip, when he made answer:

"First rate. Fact is, we would have had a delightful time had it not been for a d—d fool named 'Mark Twain,' who was impudent enough to push himself in with decent people."

It was this story that Mr. Finney was telling Mr. Clements when the picture was taken, and from the expression on the author's face, as shown in the picture, he was deeply interested.

DIED OF HYDROPHOBIA

Three Cows and Two Hogs Belonging to Mr. S. W. Coleman.

S. W. Coleman, the fancy hog dealer, residing on North Grand avenue, lost three fine Jersey cows and two registered Poland-China hogs at his place recently, the animals dying from being bitten by a rabid pug dog.

About a month ago a small-sized pug dog became mad and bit all five of the animals. Soon afterward the dog died. Its actions were noticed by members of Mr. Coleman's family, but as the bitten cows and hogs did not develop symptoms of hydrophobia at once, nothing more was thought of the matter. Two weeks later the animals were taken with hydrophobia and died later.

SHOT BY HIS BROTHER OF 11

Floyd Hackley Severely Wounded Homer, 8 Years Old.

Holden, Mo., July 26.—Floyd Hackley, 11 years old, shot his brother, Homer, 8 years old, yesterday with a revolver. The ball struck the boy in the face, but did not penetrate the skull.

Floyd says the shooting was accidental, but his companions say it was not.

NEW RAILROAD PROJECT

A Line That May Extend From Versailles to California, Mo.

J. A. Kerr, of Tippecanoe City, O., spent several days last and this week making a preliminary survey for a railway from the Monarch coal mines, twelve miles northeast of Versailles, to this city, says the Versailles Leader.

He found an easy route, a grade of thirteen feet to the mile from the mines to within one mile of the point most convenient for tapping the Rock Island. This point is between three and four miles east of Versailles.

It is the intention of the Monarch company to build this road, tapping the Rock Island as aforesaid, provided suitable terms can be made with the latter company, and if not then run the road on the Monarch's own tracks into Versailles.

The road will ultimately run from Versailles to California, as now contemplated. Mr. Kerr left Tuesday for St. Louis to confer with shareholders of the Monarch and from there he goes to Tippecanoe City to make his report to officials of the company. Versailles invites this road to come. We want all the big and little railroads contemplated.

A LITTLE BOY WHIPPED

LAD CUT TWO CABBAGE PLANTS

Alleged That His Back Was Bared and He Was Then Flogged Until the Blood Flowed From His Lacerations.

A warrant was issued this morning by Justice Leaming for the arrest of Mrs. Emma Short, wife of U. F. Short, of north of town, charging her with unmercifully beating Willie Bruce, a 12-year-old boy, who five years ago was turned over to her by the Children's Home society, of St. Louis.

The arrest was made at the instigation of members of the local Humane society who say they will furnish the necessary witnesses.

The act was committed several weeks ago. According to the statement of a member of the society, the Bruce boy was sent by Mrs. Short into the garden at her home to hoe cabbage. Owing to the high weeds, he accidentally cut two cabbage plants.

Mrs. Short noticed this and took the lad into her house, where she is alleged to have stripped his back of clothes, and with a handful of green fruit tree switches lashed the child until his skin and back were frightfully lacerated and blood flowed.

Immediately afterward the child ran away from her home and is now in the hands of members of the Humane society, who contemplate returning him to the home in St. Louis.

Witnesses who examined the child after the thrashing will be brought into court to testify against Mrs. Short.

As the Democrat-Sentinel goes to press it is said that Mrs. Short will give bond for her appearance at a later date.

STOLE FROM MR. MENEFEE

John Cornelius, a Negro, Was Arrested This Morning.

John Cornelius, a Sedalia negro, was arrested by Officer Tom Baley this morning, charged with stealing several pieces of harness and a guitar from J. W. Menefee, jr., a liveryman. He was locked in jail, pending trial in police court tomorrow.

Several days ago Mr. Menefee discovered the harness and guitar missing. Investigation revealed that about $50 worth of other articles of various descriptions were missing from the place and supposition pointed to Cornelius.

A FIENDISH CRIME

Man in Berlin Cuts and Slashes Children in the Streets.

Berlin, July 26.—A fiendish and atrocious criminal made his appearance on the streets of this city today and five little girls are his victims. The man approached the children and by a deft stroke of his knife ripped open their stomachs. One of the children is dead. Each crime was committed in different localities. The criminal has not been captured.

KIRK CULLY IS INSANE

SO ADJUDGED BY THE PETTIS COUNTY COURT AT SITTING TODAY.

TO BE TAKEN TO NEVADA ASYLUM

His Reason Dethroned at Windsor at 11 O'Clock P. M. Wednesday and Did Much Damage Before Taken in Custody.

Kirk Cully, who was adjudged insane by the Pettis county circuit court today, was written of as follows in yesterday's Windsor Review:

Kirk Cully, of Sedalia, who has been running a truck paich on Judge W. M. Allen's place, became suddenly deranged Wernesday night about 11 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. M. J. Moser, on South Main street, where he was boarding, and made things lively for a few moments.

Mrs. Moser had gone to her son's to spend the night, her daughter being away from home, and Cully was at the house by himself.

A few minutes before 11 o'clock the neighbors were aroused by hearing a terrible racket inside the Moser house, and in a short time Cully was seen to burst the screen door loose and come out on the porch dragging a large trunk.

He stood on the porch a while, rolling the trunk end over end, seemingly having a good time.

The notion then seemed to strike him to go up town, and when in front of the residence of Robert Ball, the trunk, which he had been dragging along, burst and the contents were scatered over Mr. Ball's yard.

He then walked up the street and stopped to talk to Bud Griffith and Hib Gaw, who were sitting on the stair steps of the Bowen block. He reached over and pulled Bud's shoe off and went on down the street, entering the Hotel Windsor, Bud following him to recover his shoe.

Mr. Callicotte was aroused and Cully captured on the hotel veranda, after he had broken all the lights in the up-stairs hall and kicked a bucket of water down the back stairway.

He was then locked up and a brother at Sedalia notified, who said that he had been overcome by heat during the Spanish-American war, and it is supposed that working in the sun during the present hot weather is the cause of his present mental derangement.

A brother of the unfortunate young man arrived in Windsor this morning, and will take his to Sedalia on the local this afternoon.

A CATHOLIC EDITOR DEAD

Herman J. Rodman Was the Son of a Missouri Ex-Official.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 26.—Herman J. Rodman, editor of the Catholic Tidings, died at his home here yesterday of heart disease. He came from Missouri. His father was adjutant general of that state many years.

Mr. Rodman's wife is a sister of Mrs. Geo. L. Faulhaber, of St. Louis, and of John T. Grimshaw, of Los Angeles, Cal., both former Sedalians.

WILL RESUME WORK

Mass Meeting of Citizens Guarantee Protection to Miners.

Duluth, Minn., July 26.—Three mines at Eveleth, two of them the largest properties on the ranges, will resume work Monday. All men who want to return to work may do so then.

A large mass meeting of citizens was held last night at Eveleth, which adopted resolutions condemning the Western Federation of Miners and assuring protection to all men who desire to return to the mines.

FLEEING FROM COUNTRY

When Nervy Guard Fatally Shot Two From a Wagon.

Atlanta, Ga., July 26.—By a marvelous bit of marksmanship Guard Oscar Duncan put Winchester bullets through two convicts as they fled for liberty through the streets of Atlanta.

A third convict was so horrified by the deadly aim of Duncan that he threw up his hands and surrendered when his comrades fell. The three prisoners, all white, were Ben Beasley, H. L. Hartman and Luther Gloer, serving long terms in Palmer's brick yard, on Marietta street.

They broke for liberty and fled down Marietta street. They were over 100 yards away when seen. Then Duncan mounted a wagon and opened fire on the men as they raced down the crowded street.

The first bullet brought down Beasley at a distance of 200 yards. Hartman and Gloer were 300 yards away when the former fell with a bullet through his spine. Then Gloer threw up his hands in terror. Beasley and Hartman are fatally wounded.

SENATOR BORAH SPEAKS

LINKS ORCHARD WITH FEDERATION

Claims That Conspiracy Was Proven Even By the Witnesses for the Defendant Themselves.

Boise, Idaho, July 26.—Hundreds beseiged the court room on this, the next to the last day of the Haywood trial, to hear Senator Borah in his arguments for the state. Every seat was taken early and crowds of people were turned away.

All the prisoner's family, as well as Mrs. Frank Steunenberg, the murdered man's wife, and her son, were present.

The speaker said that he would go briefly over the trail of blood left by Orchard.

"I hardly need to tell you sensible men," declared the pleader, "that the Pinkerton detectives had nothing whatever to do with the assassination of Frank Steunenberg. That accusation is one of the most absurd of the many absurd things brought into this case by the learned counsel for the defense."

In laying the foundation for his arguments as to a conspiracy the senator pointed out that Orchard went to Caldwell from Denver, fresh from association with the officers of the Western Federation of Miners, all of whom regarded Governor Steunenberg as an enemy.

"Harry Orchard left Denver with crime in his heart," said Borah, "and the impelling, compelling force came from Denver. George Pettibone helped Orchard pack his utensils of murder in his trunk. Why is Pettibone not here to deny it; his silence is a confession of his guilt, and his absence is an absolute corroboration of the story told by Orchard.

The argument on his theme of a conspiracy centered in Caldwell, but the scenes changed rapidly, each flash showing an officer, a friend or a member of the Western Federation of Miners, the confidant or intimate friend of Orchard. He concluded the morning session with a dramatic climax:

"Watch these five men, Simpkins, Orchard, Haywood, Moyer and Pettibone," said he. "Steunenberg is to die in thirty days; watch them; we have got them together. They are moving to the scene; now watch this quintet," he cried triumphantly, when having laid his foundation piece by piece, using only the testimony of the witnesses for the defense itself, picking it out from a mass of mixed material, he showed the intimacy between Orchard and the highest officers of the Western Federation of Miners.

At this time a recess until tonight was taken on account of the heat.

Rogers Not Seriously Ill.

Fairhaven, Mass., July 26.—H. H. Rogers, the Standard Oil magnate, is ill at his country home here. The reports that his condition is serious are untrue.

Hold Fair Next Week.

A number of Sedalians will attend the Lafayette county fair, which begins at Higginsville Tuesday and closes Friday evening.

CHAUTAUQUA, NINTH DAY

THE AMPHIONS HAVE MADE GOOD

At the Chautauqua Tonight.

8:00. Lecture by Dr. J. M. Kersey, "Force and Counterforce."

Saurday's Program.

10:00 a. m. Bible study lecture by Prof. F. K. Farr, "Amos and the Social Problem in Northern Israel."

2:30 p. m. Full concert by the Olof Valley company. Olof Valley, basso; Edith Adams, cellist; Agnes Doyle, reader; William Snider, pianist.

7:30 p. m. Prelude concert by the Valley company.

8:00 p. m. Rev. Anna Howard Shaw, M. D., in her new lecture on "The New Man."

Patty's lecture last night at the Chautauqua caught the audience and has set all the boys who heard it inventing. Unless something happens to stop them they will soon have the air so full of ether waves, microfarads, watts and such that every bird that flies over Sedalia will get a shock. Prof. Patty, handling with his bare hands carbonic acid "snow" at the terrible minus temperature of nearly 300 degrees below zero, treated the audience to a display of what genuine cold can do. His demonstrations of wireless telegraphy and of radium were both pleasing and instructive.

The jolly Amphions have made good in Sedalia, and will have a welcome when they return for their afternoon and evening engagements of Sunday. Yesterday afternoon they gave their first concert, and at the request of many the prelude of the evening was given extra time. They seemed to have an inexhaustible store of good humor and encore numbers.

This afternoon a very fair audience found the tent almost entirely dry from last night's rain, and was delighted with the work of Miss Helen Vickrey, whistler, and Miss Elinor Lincoln, impersonator. Miss Ruth Martin, organist of the First M. E. church, assisted at the piano. Miss Vickrey's whistling is calculated to make the best trained canary bird sit up and take notice. How she secures her effects this reporter does not pretend to know, but they are remarkable. Miss Lincoln has a delightful gift of impersonation and gives scenes from standard plays with vivid dramatic effect. Both of these artists are to be heard in tonight's preludes.

Of Dr. J. M. Kersey, the popular and experienced lecturer of the evening, newspaper critics have said many good things: "Vigorous thought and flights of eloquence," "able and logical," "easy dignity," "versatile power," "ready wit and genial humor." His lecture of tonight represents the maturity of his powers as an entertainer and a philosopher.

The coming of the Olof Valley company would be an event in the musical affairs of almost any town. In addition to Valley's peerless bass, the program of tomorrow includes the splendid cello work of Edith Adams, the Irish dialect recitations of Mary Agnes Doyle, "the little Irish girl," and the piano solo work of William Snider, a pianist of no small ability. The company gives a well balanced and interesting program. It returns Tuesday for another engagement.

By a necessary transposition Rev. Anna Howard Shaw comes to the Chautauqua Saturday night. Her lecture on "The New Man" is something every man should hear; she wins over the hostile and confirms the doubting. It is not a "woman suffrage lecture," but it is twentieth-century common-sense from start to finish.

A Picnic Next Sunday.

NOTHING LESS THAN VANDALISM

Great indignation is being expressed throughout the city at the action which has resulted in the draining, eventual filling up and extermination of the Liberty park lake.

Work to that end started yesterday and, so it is said, will continue until the only sheet of water with any possibility of beauty in Sedalia shall become a thing of the past, and the spot which could have been made into an ideal one for the healthy pleasure of the public shall be obliterated and forgotten.

Sedalia certainly is most unfortunate in many respects, especially in regard to those things which appeal to public convenience or are designated to bring comfort and pleasure to the masses.

First, the street railway company abandoned Forest park, against the protests of almost the entire community and now our city fathers are disfiguring the only outdoor public gathering place we can call our own, by destroying this pretty little lake.

Elsewhere the constant study of municipal authorities is how they can add to and beautify their park systems. Vast sums of money are spent annually in keeping up and improving these recreation and resting grounds, and every dollar spent redounds to the present and future betterment of the race.

It is known and acknowledged by all men that these places do more good and prevent more evil than any one other public establishment of the cities, and in consequence the policy everywhere is to extend and amplify their great benefits, instead of restraining them.

Poor old Sedalia, however, is going in the other direction and with the passing of this little sheet of water begins the first step toward the abandonment of the park itself.

Who, therefore, can blame the people for expressing their strong disapproval of this act of the present city administration.

THE WAR THAT FAILED.

The red and yellow newspapers that started the war with Japan, and the pink and green newspapers that suppressed it are now quarreling with each other over which was the biggest newspaper feat.

For that was all there was to the so-called war scare. It was manufactured out of the whole cloth by a little bunch of hired fire-eaters armed with second hand typewriters and sent broadcast by a news association which is said to have more or less intimate relations with men who make ship armor and deal largely in international securities.

Unhappily, adds the Chicago Dispatch, for the men who were bombarding Tokio at lone range, the war scare wouldn't take.

Certain other rainmakers who did not get in on the ground floor exposed the game. The dogs of war have been sent to the sausage factories, and the first corps of rainmakers have resumed their every day occupation as reporters.

The moral of the Japanese episode is that all is not war that has its origin in an opium joint or the office of the ship armor trust. In this respect war is a game which, were their readers wise, newspapers would not play at. Having a pack of war dogs trained to yelp a belligerent chorus is a mighty fine newspaper asset, but they should be educated not to fly off on a tangent at the sight of a jack rabbit.

The Japanese war scare only serves to show how our light minded contemporaries are spending the silly season. And this, perhaps, is the silliest season that has occurred in many years.

A SPOOL OF THREAD.

The clew to the political campaign is at hand and its name is cotton. The advance announced from New York to 10 cents a spool on thread may overthrow the party of protection and give us a democratic administration. It can be clearly shown that there is no warrant for this increased price. From time immemorial the price of cotton thread has been 5 cents and there has been no change even when raw cotton has cost more than it does at present. Middling cotton has not been higher than 13½ cents this season, and it has fallen off some since reports of better crops. The poor seamstresses whose weary fingers sing all the weary day long the monotonous song of the shirt, are the heavy sufferers. The Dingley tariff of a cent a spool makes possible this gross injustice.

England would be happy to supply the thread cheaper, and our own factories would have to meet their rates, without the protection of this tariff. As it now stands, the manufacturer abroad buys his cotton in America, ships it across the ocean, manufactures it into thread and sends it back here where an iniquitous and unreasonable tax prevents him from making a lower price than our protected manufacturers want to charge.

And yet these fatalists, whose financial assistance keeps the party in power, who are pledged to protect their endless chain of graft, seem to think there will be no hereafter.

MAY BE CORTELYOU.

Since the political gossip last week to the effect that means were being used to round up the federal officials for Secretary Cortelyou for the republican nomination for president, some further evidence has come to light that the scheme is working.

Congressman Jesse Overstreet declared, a few days ago, that the delegation from New York is fixed for Cortelyou, but as Mr. Overstreet was a Fairbanks man, he may have joined in exposing the Cortelyou conspiracy on purpose to embarrass President Roosevelt, for he said he did not expect to see Mr. Cortelyou nominated.

Then along comes Senator Elkins, of West Virginia, fresh from political conferences in New York with his Wall street railroad friends, and declares: "Cortelyou will undoubtedly have the support of the New York delegation, and you know what that means."

With Overstreet and Elkins enlisted for him and the corporation money ready to be poured out for him, Cortelyou would make a typical republican candidate.

Socialists of Cincinnati have nominated a full ticket for the coming municipal election. The platform asks eventual municipal ownership of public utilities, the eight hour day, establishment of municipal coal yard, ice plant and milk depot; free school books, bath houses, public defenders in the courts, the erection of a labor temple for working people, condemnation of the slum districts and that the unemployed shall be given labor at union wages whenever desired. It would be just as easy to pass resolutions declaring that they had these things as that they want them. It would also be just as sensible.

A recent writer has said that every self-respecting woman should fear God and love her husband, which is all very good and true. But whom are you to love when you haven't a husband? and the answer comes back: "Why not a Teddy bear?"

Rockefeller was allowed $92.20 for testifying that he really did not know anything about the Standard Oil business. Lots of people would tell what they know about the great graft for a much smaller sum.

MONEY TO LOAN
JOE DONNOHUE

ESTABLISHED 1889 —— 309 OHIO ST.

TO TRY IT OVER AGAIN

THE TOPEKA, KANSAS CHAUTAUQUA WILL BE GIVEN NEXT YEAR.

NOT A FINANCIAL SUCCESS NOW

President Holcombe Satisfied With the Program—Thinks Capital City Will Appreciate It Another Year.

It has been definitely decided that Topeka will have a Chautauqua assembly next year, says Thursday's Topeka Journal. The management is facing a deficit but is not at all discouraged at the outlook, for they did not expect too much for the first year. Next year will no doubt see a prosperous assembly in the way of finances.

President Holcombe says: "The Chautauqua was not organized as a money making affair and is willing to work hard with the money returns if they can keep the thing going. None of the officers has received any remuneration for his services and all are carrying on the work for the good of the people of Topeka. They have provided a season of high class entertainments, with which those who attended were delighted, and had the citizens at large understood what kind of talent was being presented, the crowds would have been swelled greatly. Another year the management can begin with the support that it took this year to gain."

It has been urged by some that Topeka is too large a city to support a Chautauqua, but their point is not well taken. All over the country cities as large and larger are doing this very thing with marked success, and they are being continued because the people feel that they can not afford to miss hearing such talent as is being presented. It does take longer to get a Chautauqua well started in a city of this size, but the results are far better when it once gets along well.

Mr. White, who is furnishing the circuit with entertainments, has great confidence in the ultimate success of the Topeka assembly, and in view of the deficit has made very liberal terms to the management, looking to next year for his reward. A good plan has been adopted for next year to interest all classes in the work.

A certain number of memberships will be given to each church, the Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A. and the Federation of Women's clubs, local union of young people's societies, the Grange, Good Roads association, and the R. R. Y. M. C. A. These memberships will be parceled out by each organization as they see fit. This will not only give the enterprise a splendid backing, but will also prevent counter attractions during the sessions. Certain days will be divided with organizations so desiring, thus insuring greater crowds.

The attendance this year has at times been as high as 4,000 at a lecture or concert and it is expected that this will be the rule next year. With the finest grounds on the circuit, the experience the management now has and a system such as has been inaugurated, the future looks bright for the Topeka Chautauqua.

MINISTER IS A BANKRUPT

First Case of the Kind in the History of the Court in New York.

New York, July 26.—For the first time in its history the bankruptcy branch of the United States district court has before it a petition in bankruptcy signed by a minister. The petitioner is Edward Van Fradenbergh, a resident of Liberty, N. Y. In his petition he calls himself a "retired minister."

The total of the Rev. Dr. Van Fradenbergh's debts is $3,247, and his assets are $2,150. Many bankruptcy lawyers who saw the schedule expressed doubt as to whether a retired minister's vocation brings him within the class of persons privileged to take advantage of the bankruptcy act, which provides for the bankruptcy of "professional" persons.

A SPECIAL GRAND JURY

GIRL SAYS MOTHER KILLED SELF

Lawyers for Defense Receive Photographic Copies of Disputed Letters—The Interest Is Increasing.

Clinton, Ill., July 26.—Margaret Magill says her mother, Mrs. Pet Magill, committed suicide. The 19-year-old daughter of Fred Magill, accused of wife murder, clears her father of all blame for her mother's death.

She exonerates Fay Graham Magill, her stepmother, and declares no blame attaches to her for her mother's death. Margaret's statement was made public yesterday through Col. R. A. Lemon, of the law firm of Lemon & Lemon, who have concealed the young woman in an adjoining county, two hours' ride from Clinton.

Attorney Lemon declares he is not simple enough to bring the girl to Clinton in order to give the state attorney a chance to subpoena her and obtain involuntary admissions that may favor the cause of the prosecution.

He says he wants no "third degree" for the girl.

Judge Cochran during the afternoon recognized the filing of Attorney Miller's application and ordered a special grand jury for Monday.

Col. Lemon, Magill's attorney, hurried to the court house and attempted to secure from Judge Cochran an agreement to order a special petit jury in case Magill and his girl wife are indicted. Judge Cochran refused to make this arrangement, and for a time the conference between the lawyer and jurist became heated.

The defense scored a coup late yesterday afternoon when the lawyers received a special delivery registered package from the west containing photographic copies of all the letters which Magill declares his wife wrote just before she expired. By special arrangement and to guard against any possible loss of this evidence—which the lawyers for the defense consider valuable—a duplicate set of the photographs of the letters is following the special delivery parcel on a later train.

The original letters, which Sheriff Campbell, of Dewitt county, was enjoined by Attorney Miller to secure from Magill at San Diego will be received by the lawyers for the state in a special express consignment late tomorrow.

FOR BEING LASHED

By a Jealous Husband Pastor Hawley Asks $10,000 Damages.

Paducah, Ky., July 26.—Rev. Frank Hawley, who was recently lashed and driven from the state by W. W. Meadows, of Fulton, Ky., and the latter's friends, has filed a $100,000 damage suit against his persecutors.

The defendants with Meadows are H. T. Smith, James White, Dick Thomas and H. T. Oliver. It will be recalled that the pastor was suspected of being too intimate with Mrs. Meadows, that he was taken to a vacant lot, stripped and lashed till his body streamed with blood, and escorted across the state line. Mrs. Meadows is suing for divorce.

A Reunion at Beaman.

Mrs. Silas Mathews, of Beaman, has been entertaining her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Spery, of Des Moines, Ia. Mrs. Mathews had not met her brother for forty-two years, hence it was a pleasant meeting and reunion. Mrs. M. Stone, of Warrensburg, and Mrs. J. M. Turley, of Kansas City, Mo., the daughters of Mrs. Mathews, were also down to visit with their mother. All have returned to their homes, and Mrs. Mathews is now visiting in Warrensburg.

CLASH WITH GALLAGHER

LIVELY TIMES AT INVESTIGATION OF KANSAS CITY POLICE FORCE.

GOVERNOR JOS. W. FOLK IS DEFIED

Two of the Three Members Force the Reappointment of Chief Hayes —Matter Went Over Until Next Monday.

Kansas City, Mo., July 26.—During an exciting meeting of the police board yesterday Gov. Folk was defied by Commissioner F. F. Rozzelle, one of his appointees, and that member had an open break with Commissioner Gallagher, another of the governor's appointees. Rozzelle is chairman of the board.

The meeting was one of a series which the chief and other members of the police department have been investigating. Mayor Beardsley, who is exceedingly friendly to Chief Hayes, suddenly terminated the investigation of a saloonkeeping brother of Police Lieutenant Burke, charged with keeping a cock-fighting pit in his saloon, by saying that he was ready to vote to recommission Chief Hayes.

"I am with you," promptly said Commissioner Rozzelle. "I will vote to have the chief recommissioned."

Gallagher is Surprised.

This astonished Commissioner Gallagher, who had received instructions with his colleague, Commissioner Rozzelle, not to take any final action till the governor could be conferred with. A report had reached Kansas City yesterday that Gov. Folk had said Chief Hayes must go. The fact that Commissioner Rozzelle was on the verge of voting to recommission the chief for three years threw Commissioner Gallagher into a state of alarm, and he made a stammering speech in which he begged for time.

"I have an important matter to be aired on Monday, and I ask you, mayor, to postpone your motion until then," Gallagher pleaded.

"Vote now. I am ready. Let's vote," said Commissioner Rozzelle.

"I think for the good of the department we ought to recommission the chief," Mayor Beardsley said, and again Commissioner Rozzelle said he was ready to vote with the mayor, and in favor of Chief Hayes.

Monstrous, Declares Gallagher.

Thoroughly angry by this time, Commissioner Gallagher slammed his fist down on the table and declared that it was a monstrous proceeding. "During this hearing," said Commissioner Gallagher, "we have seen detectives come in here admitting they had been sending flowers to thieves and have heard that others were receiving letters from thieves in the Fort Worth jail in connection with the $4,000 robbery and of arrangements by members of the department to get the thieves out of the city.

"We have sat here and heard how detectives have sent sheriffs to Denver to get them out of the way of thieves at the moment in custody here, but about to be liberated, and now we hear the mayor say that he is ready to vote to recommission the chief who permitted all this to be done."

The mayor said he had found the chief willing to assist the commissioners in all things.

"He is not," said Commissioner Gallagher. "All we have got out of the chief has been to have witnesses run out of town or slugged.

Plain Talk to Mayor.

"You, mayor, yourself developed that his headquarters captain had a gambling room in his own house, with trapdoors and push buttons.

"You yourself developed that the chief's headquarters detective, Brannon, lived in a house with thieves, four of whom had their pictures in the rogues' gallery. You yourself brought out that these pictures were being sold or negotiated for. You brought out that our detectives were running sheriffs to Colorado till the criminals they wanted could finish their time in jail and get out of town. If the chief knew of this he ought to be dropped, and if such things transpired and he did not know them, we should not keep him at the head of the department."

"I think we have heard enough. Let us vote," said Commissioner Rozzelle.

Gallagher made an assault upon his colleague for his haste, and a delay was taken until Monday.

PETER SELLS' WILL FILED

A certified copy of the will of the late Peter Sells, the showman, whose home was at Columbus, Ohio, was filed yesterday with R. F. Hayden, the judge of the probate court. Frank Klingaman, who is agent for the estate in this vicinity, filed the will. It was merely a formal proceeding so as to make it possible for the trustees of the estate to dispose of such property in Topeka and Shawnee county as belongs to it.

It is estimated that the property belonging to the estate in Shawnee county is worth about $120,000. It is the intention of the trustees to sell the property and re-invest the proceeds from the same in property in Ohio, where the rest of the estate is located.

Florence McCune Sells, the only child of the deceased, is the chief beneficiary under the will, practically the entire estate being left to her. Unusual care was taken in the drafting of the will to prevent any of the property from getting into the hands of Mrs. Sells, the wife of the deceased and from whom he obtained a divorce. In various places in the will she is referred to as "my daughter's mother." Miss Florence lives at Columbus, O., while her mother is now a resident of Kansas City, Mo.

SUN AND SNOW

Sometimes Help the Hair to Go.

In any changeable climate the hair is apt to become brittle and to break off stubby here and there. This makes a hair dressing almost a necessity, especially to ladies. In using a hair dressing why not get the best, one that combines with it the efficiency in killing the dandruff germ, the germ that eats the hair off at the roots, causing what is called falling hair, and in time baldness. Newbro's Herpicide is that kind of a hair dressing. You have no idea how delightful your scalp will feel, and how stylish your hair will appear, after an application or two of Herpicide. It is certainly a wonderful innovation as a scalp antiseptic and hair dressing. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Two sizes, 50c and $1. W. WEIGHT AND HEALTH

THIN, NERVOUS PEOPLE NEED THE TONIC TREATMENT.

This Woman Took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, Gained Thirty Pounds and Has Been Well Ever Since.

How many women—and men too—are suffering from a general decline in health which the ordinary remedies seem unable to check! How many husbands see their wives wasting away, steadily losing health and beauty, and are powerless to help! Consumption and other germ diseases find in these debilitated systems easy prey, for the lowered vitality is unequal to the task of fighting off the infection of these diseases to which most of us are almost daily exposed.

The symptoms indicating the decline which may have results so fatal could scarcely be better described than in the statement of Mrs. William Manley, of 92 Court street, Utica, N. Y. Her case is a typical one. She says:

"For six months after the birth of my baby, I suffered from sick, dizzy headaches, which seemed like a rush of blood to my forehead, just back of my eyes. Some days they twitched so I could hardly see and black spots floated before them. The least exertion brought on this sickness. My appetite was poor and I was often sick to my stomach.

"If I tried to work my feet soon became swollen, paining me terribly. I had sinking spells and grew pale and nervous. I was so thin that I weighed only 95 pounds.

"One day when at the drug store to get headache powders I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills instead. I soon noticed that my headache was disappearing and my nerves gradually grew stronger. The pills gave me a hearty appetite and I now weigh over 130 pounds. I believe the pills to be the best tonic and builder a woman can take, as they certainly helped me when my condition was critical and I have never been seriously ill since."

The great value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills lies in the fact that they actually make new blood and this carries health and strength to every portion of the body. The stomach is toned up, the nerves are strengthened, every organ is stimulated to do its work.

If you are ill and the treatment you are taking does not cure you, write for proof of what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done in similar cases.

Your druggist sells them or they will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

MAKE CUT OF A MILLION

Profits of Railroads on Carrying Mail to Be Reduced.

Chicago, July 26.—The revenue derived from hauling the United States mails by the railroads running west from Chicago, St. Louis, St. Paul and Minneapolis, and the Missouri river is to be further reduced approximately $1,000,000 a year as the immediate result of the reports of 12 inspectors who have been at work for the last six months determining whether the space used in railway postal cars by the government was in excess of space sufficient to accomplish the work.

Officers in charge of the mails on the western railroads having headquarters in Chicago have received notice from the postoffice department cutting down the space allotment in the railway postal cars to forty feet on various routes, making a reduction of $15 a mile, or a saving for the government of $7,500 a year in a 500 mile run for a single car.

There are likely to be six cars on the route, making a total saving of $45,000 for one postal route.

EXPERIENCE IS BITTER

MAN FROM HAYS CITY, KANSAS, WAS TAKEN IN CUSTODY IN DENVER.

HE WAS PREACHER OF THE GOSPEL

Had Been a Morphine Fiend, But Now Claims That He Has Been Entirely Cured of Pernicious Habit.

Denver, Colo., July 26.—Fully recovered from his bitter experiences of the last two weeks, the Reverend Charles St. Clare Mathews, of Hays, Kan., who was arrested on a charge of being a drug fiend, jailed, later pardoned and sent to St. Anthony's hospital, sat in his spacious pleasant room in that institution yesterday writing a lecture on "The Uuder Dog."

Within a day or two he will return to his wife and children in his Kansas home, through aid to be extended to him by William E. Collett, secretary of the Colorado Prison association. It was through the efforts of Collett that the Baptist minister was pardoned by Acting Governor Harper.

"I am a new man now," said Matthews, "and I feel certain that I never again will be subjected to the horrible experiences that I have gone through in the last two weeks. I am now writing a lecture on 'The Under Dog.'

For fifteen years I have been a Baptist minister and lecturer, and have spoken in sixteen states, my subject generally being 'The Ups and Downs of Life.' I am going slow in this new subject of mine, that the so-called 'under dog' should not be despised, scorned and trampled upon by the world, but that an effort should be made to uplift him and better his condition.

"He is not what he is, as a rule, through any criminal or degenerate mental instinct, but because of his environment and force of circumstances. Many of these poor fellows are driven to their abject state because they have no possible means to better themselves, and that is why they should be aided.

"In explanation of my arrest here and its unfortunate subsequent results, I wish to say that I was not under the influence of morphine at the time. I had left my home in Kansas, drawing what little money I had in the bank, and gave half of it to my wife.

"She had always wanted to come to Denver, and I told her I would go first to arrange a series of lectures, and after making some money would send for her and establish a home. I got to Boulder and my money fell short.

"When I reached Denver I didn't have a penny in my pocket and was actually starving. I met a man who asked me if I was sick, and he gave me a drink of whisky. My condition was so weakened and exhausted that I became dazed. Practically unconscious, and was a walking automaton. The policeman who arrested me says I had a bottle of whisky in my pocket, but if I did I don't remember how I got it. Either it was given to me voluntarily by the man who gave me the drink or I asked him for it.

"Now, I want to tell about my morphine habit. I have been one of the worst fiends possible, but am thoroughly cured, and was cured when I got to Denver. I have been in many sanitariums throughout the country, and was cured in Kansas City, Kan."

The Woman of the Period.

Hurry and excitement are the dominant features that characterize the woman of the period.

She rarely has time for anything—little duties are forgotten, little brothers and sisters overlooked, while her family is worried to death by her nervous, irritable temper.

She cannot take life quietly, but rushes up and down stairs as if pursued by a legion of horrors, and knocks at the door and pulls at the bell with force enough to arouse the dead.

Everything belonging to her is chaotic, and her memory is so treacherous that her friends have learned by experience never to depend upon it.

It is the fever of unrest, in the train of which is the demon of discontent that has entered into many homes, rendering it a prison to the woman of the period.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Mystery of Shoe Laces.

Probably no trade secrets are more jealously guarded than the modus operandi employed by manufacturers of shoe laces. The braiding process is the main bone of contention, being the most intricate end of the work. Lest counterfeiters should attempt to duplicate sections, there are no automatic shoe lace making machines placed on the market, either in this country or abroad. In order to insure protection against possible spies about the plant, different parts of the machine are wrought or cast at various distant points, whence they are shipped to headquarters and there put together. In the assembling of the divisional members the utmost care is exercised that no prying eyes are around the factory. In some instances the artisans are sworn to secrecy.

Bushy Brows a Nuisance.

Beauty doctors are now required to perform a new stunt.

"We are called upon," said one of these artists in real life, "to thin out eyebrows. That peculiar call for help comes from men, mostly from South American countries. Some of these chaps have eyebrows so heavy that they really look like a pair of mustaches shadowing the eyes. The owners of these extraordinary brows consider them a serious blemish, and they are willing to undergo torture to be relieved of eyebrows that many another person would undergo equal torture to possess."

Ball Player Who Has Pitched in Games in Sedalia.

Bennie Henderson, a Western association star of a few seasons ago, when he pitched for Fort Scott and Guthrie, seems to have gotten in bad in the baseball world.

Last season Bennie pitched for Fortland in the Northwest league. He resigned a contract with the Portland team early last spring and refused to report unless he was given a raise.

His demands were complied with, but still Henderson held out for unknown reasons. After that he jumped to the Stockton, Cal., team, which is in a small outlaw league.

Portland still claimed him and a few weeks ago he was secured by a scout from the Boston team, who was impressed with his work. The scout offered three players to Portland for Henderson's services and Henderson signed a Boston contract.

He has since, however, balked and announces that he will not go to Boston, although he signed a good contract with the Beaneaters. Now Henderson is out of baseball, at least organized baseball, as Portland has placed him on the blacklist after he has succeeded in jumping three contracts.

HUSBAND OF AUTO VICTIM

Grabbed the Former Cafe Manager and Was Assaulted.

Toledo, Ohio, July 26.—Hovering between life and death at her home on Moore street is Mrs. Harry Bellman, while the police are searching for Clarence Smith, formerly manager of the Valentine cafe, who was at the wheel of an automobile that struck a huckster's wagon in which the woman and her husband were seated at Sherry street.

The wagon was side-swept, both occupants were thrown to the pavement and the horse ran away, but Bellman, only slightly injured, leaped to his feet and caught hold of Smith. As he did so Smith, it is alleged, struck him a fearful blow in the face, leaped into the machine and drove down the street at a terrific clip.

Mrs. Bellman is suffering from internal injuries and will die, the physician says.

OLDEST BANK IN THE WORLD.

One at Nineveh Seems to Be Entitled to the Distinction.

There was a kind of public record office attached to the palace and temple at Nineveh, in which it was customary to deposit important legal and other documents, such as contracts and agreements for the purchase and sale of property, marriage settlements, wills, etc. Among these there were discovered official statements as to the history and transactions of the eminent banking house of Egidu at Nineveh. Assyrian chronology proves that these refer to a date about 2,300 years before the Christian era, when Abraham dwelt at Ur of the Chaldees, as is stated in Genesis. We may, therefore, claim for this firm the reputation of being the oldest bank in the world, at least, of which we have any record, or are likely to have. The accounts are very voluminous, and cover the transactions of five generations of the house from father to son. The firm grew rapidly in importance during this period, during which they attained great wealth; for they had succeeded in securing from the king the appointment of collectors of taxes, a position which in the east always leads to fortune. They afterwards framed the revenue for several of the Assyrian provinces, with very great gain to the fir

LAWYERS THEN AND NOW.

Old-Timers Had Little Difficulty in Entering Profession.

The young man who wants to be a lawyer nowadays has a much harder road to travel than he who wished to adopt the honorable profession in days gone by. As a rule, he has to take a several years' course in one of the law schools of the state, then pass the state bar examination, which is not planned to fill the profession with blockheads. "Formerly," said Mr. John P. Poe, now the oldest instructor—in point of service—at the University of Maryland Law School, and former attorney general, "all a young man had to do was to read law in some lawyer's office. Then he went before the examining committee, which asked him a few questions, after he had been vouched for by the lawyer under whose guidance his 'studies' had been pursued. These questions, as a rule, were kept in the pigeonhole of the judge's desk, and if the aspirant for professional honors was very ambitious he could go and see them beforehand and prepare himself for them. When my father went up for examination he was asked two questions, 'How many volumes is Blackstone bound in?' which he answered satisfactorily, and 'Can you tell the difference between whisky and brandy?' He professed ability to discriminate and was passed. The men who became great lawyers in those days did so because they were naturally lawyers, not because of the training they received."

OBEYING THE NEW ORDERS.

Conductor Tried to Soften the Blow to the Poor Senator.

Shortly after the railway companies abolished the pass privilege a certain United States senator who had held his office many years and had carried a pass all that time boarded a train for Washington. He had forgotten to provide himself with the necessary ticket. Presently the conductor came along. He was one of the oldest men on the line, and the senator, who had made many a trip with him before, cordially extended his hand. "How are you, Gregory?" he said. "First rate, senator," answered the conductor. "Glad to see you looking so well." "Thank you, Greg. But why are you offering me your left hand?" "Because I don't want my left hand to know what my right hand is doing." "What is your right hand doing?" "It's reaching for your fare, senator," said the conductor, with a grim smile —Youth's Companion.

ABOUT LID IN ST. LOUIS

MR. MULVIHILL SAYS BREWERS SHOULD BE PLEASED WITH IT.

REASON FOR THE GAIN IN TRADE

Expressions of Opinion On Some Figures That Were Printed in the Times—There is a Vast Difference in Them.

St. Louis, Mo., July 26.—The startling revelation developed through the exclusive publication in the Times of mandatory reports of St. Louis breweries to License Commissioner Alt, that $806,624.29 more beer was manufactured and sold in the fiscal year ending May 30 last than the year before, despite the most rigorous enforcement of the lid law, has aroused pronounced comment from leading temperance and religious workers.

Brewers, in explanation to the increase, declare that one of the chief reasons is the gain of trade in private homes.

One of the most effective methods of handling this exclusive trade, they admit, is through the medium of groceries all over the city. Managers of a number of leading grocery firms state that their increase in bottled beer trade, most of which is delivered Friday and Saturday for patrons in anticipation of the Sunday draught, is from 10 to 30 per cent.

Other reasons attributed by the brewers are the growth of St. Louis, general prosperity of the country, and the augmented output of bottled beer.

Interviews obtained from pronounced supporters of the lid and opponents of the liquor traffic have evoked varied explanations of the new features developed. There is a general admission that there is more drinking in homes than formerly, while several are inclined to doubt it.

All declare that even if home consumption is increased, general conditions are so improved that the lid has demonstrated its efficiency. One prominent clergyman advocates that saloons be closed until noon and opened the remainder of the day. Another says he has little faith in the so-called reforms and that change of heart is necessary to promote true temperance.

All the interviews show much originality of thought and bear interesting weight on one of the most important social questions of the present ray. They are hereby reproduced:

U. G. Robinson, state superintendent of the Missouri Antisaloon League.

You ask me as state superintendent of the Missouri Antisaloon league how we account for the increased sales of the breweries of St. Louis.

First. It is a well known fact that the brewers of America are energetic and are pushing the sale of their product with greater zeal than the distillers. The brewers are bearing less taxation and make a greater profit and are making every effort known to their craft to induce the people of America to become a beer drinking nation to the great profit of the brewers.

Second. The increased sales of the breweries do not prove at all that the beer is all consumed in St. Louis or in Missouri. The tax is levied on all the sales, matters not where the beer is sold; in a legal saloon in St. Louis or illegally elsewhere in this or other states, or shipped to indefensible peoples, to the heathen of Africa and to our island possessions to debauch and degrade the public wards.

Third. It is stated that there is a great increase in the sale of "bottled" beer since the lid went on, but this is easily explained. It it stated that eight car loads of beer were sold in open defiance of the law last Sunday at Creve Coeur Lake and the "bottles," not "kegs," were broken against trees and rocks.

There are 42 local option counties in Missouri, 30 of them made so by the Antisaloon League in the last three years. The lid would not be disturbed in these counties were it not for the criminal participation of the brewers in shipping into these, against the will of the majority of the voters, "bottled" beer.

And what is true in local option territory in Missouri is also true elsewhere. Thus the brewers in order to sustain and increase their record for sales have become anarchists in their defiance of law and are lending their powerful influence to plant schools of crime all over this and other countries.

Fourth. It is strange to me why the brewers contribute money and send beer by the carload to counties voting on local option in a frantic effort to defeat the adoption of the law, if in fact the lid and local option does not decrease sales, but only increases them. If these same brewers sell more beer in Kansas, where we have recently been declared outlaws and criminals of the worst kind, and ousted from the state, and their property confiscated by the state courts, why do they not want local option in all the counties and cities of this state? The increased sale of "bottled" beer is only another evidence of the increased criminal activity of the brewers. The people of this and other states are fast declaring the liquor traffic, generally, a disgrace to civilization, demoralizing to the home and the church and the youth of our land. Because of the criminal nature of the traffic and of those who engage in it, and the debauching and debasing influence on those who indulge in it, the liquor traffic is doomed to utter destruction in the near future. Yours very truly.

Commissioner Mulvihill says that he is not aware of the increase in the sale of beer in St. Louis, but if such is the case the brewers should be satisfied with the lid law. Commissioner Mulvihill says that figures of sales can easily be juggled.

Following are some expressions of opinion:

Mrs. William M. Kinsey, W. C. T. U. I do not believe the lid should be held responsible for increased drinking in the homes. In my work among the people I have not found this to be so. I find the men are becoming accustomed to doing without their beer on Sunday. There may be a great deal sold on Sunday for home use, but it is among a class of people who are not seriously affected by it.

Miss Fanny D. Robb, recording secretary W. C. T. U.: If it were not that the figures quoted in the Times were required by law I would think they were given by the brewers with some hopes of killing the lid. Increased beer sales may be due to increased population. In my work among poor people I have found that there is very little beer brought home on Saturday by fathers and husbands who used to spend half their week's wages in the saloon on Sunday.

Instead, the men are spending their money on their families. There may be a great deal of home drinking among the well-to-do, but in this class I do not think the women join. They can provide better drinks than beer. The men may drink a great deal of it among themselves, but not the women. The lid should be given a longer trial.

Rev. Father D. S. Phelan, editor of the Western Watchman: The public barroom must go. Human beings have been convivial since the time of Adam, and when men come together they drink intoxicants to promote good fellowship. Treating is a bane to Americans. It is an excess of geniality and should be discouraged.

In Paris Sundays there is a general exodus of people to Versailles and other beautiful resorts. The Pasisians carry their lunches and wines. They take as much as they think is needed, and do no treating. Drunkenness is rarely seen, and is regarded as a disgrace.

I'm for the lid, first, last and all the time, not only on Sundays, but until, by course of elimination, the public drinking place is no more. Let those who desire intoxicants purchase them from wholesale dealers, then, with the removal of the barroom, drunkenness will be lessened.

I have noticed that the consumption of beer in homes has greatly increased since the lid went on.

Rev. Dr. A. P. George. Putting on the lid has no doubt increased home consumption of beer. Home consumption means increased family consumption. The wives, seeing their husbands enjoying it, will taste it themselves. This applies to the children also. The trouble is that we have begun our prohibitive laws in the wrong place.

As long as the government, with its licenses, enters into partnership with the manufacturer, nothing can be accomplished by nailing on a lid every seventh day.

The manufacturer of beer and other intoxicating beverages should be limited by the law to a quantity sufficient for the medicinal needs of the country. America would be a different country if provided with legislation of that sort instead of laws to regulate the sale of such beverages.

Rev. E. Sharp, presiding elder, St. Louis M. E. church, South: I am opposed to an open saloon on the Sabbath. I believe that the statement that wives and daughters are becoming habitual drinkers of beer because of the lid is made in the brewery interest.

It can be nothing more than a supposition. I know that since the lid went on men have been in the habit of buying beer and taking it home Saturday for Sunday consumption. That is better than for them to stand before a bar on the Lord's day and disgrace the city and themselves. The sins people commit in private have not the sinister power of example they would have if committed in public. I say keep on the lid.

Mysterious Fire In Tree.

New York had a mysterious fire the other day, which attracted the attention of a multitude of people, and for a short time blocked travel and traffic on Broadway. An old linden tree near the Rector street side of Trinity churchyard began to emit volumes of smoke, and in a minute more a tongue of flame shot up out of the hollow trunk and ignited the scant foilage and old twigs. What started the tree to blaze up is a matter of guesswork, but no doubt it was caused by spontaneous combustion. The old tree, or what is left of the original trunk, is only 12 feet high, and long ago all else but the trunk and what remains of the old roots under the ground have disappeared.

Lightning Splits Big Tree.

The peculiar pranks played by a bolt of lightning on an oak tree attracted hundreds of people yesterday to Wissahickon avenue near Lincoln lake, says the Philadelphia Record. The tree, which was fully 125 feet tall, was struck during the electric storm recently and was split down a distance of 75 feet, the halves falling in opposite directions. Fifty feet of the upper part was stripped of bark, and a most peculiar thing was that the roots were torn completely out of the ground and hurled a considerable distance, while a circle of bark four feet high was left standing.

Enthusiastic.

A five-year-old boy recently commenced attending Sunday school, and became deeply interested in the teachings he received. After one or two lessons had been given him he expressed a strong wish for a "sling-shot." His fond mother was rather astonished at the request, and asked the young hopeful why he wanted such a thing. His reply was prompt and to the point. "At Sunday school," said he, "they told a story of a little boy that killed a big giant with a sling-shot, and I want one."

Answered.

The would-be suffragette was having the usual dinner-table argument with her alleged lord and master, relates Harper's Weekly, when that unhappy individual, finding himself in a close corner, ventured the unfortunate query: "How on earth would you earn a living if it wasn't for me?" "I don't know, John," the lady replied. "If I lost you I don't know where I'd get another job."

AMUSEMENT FOR THE BOYS.

Scientific Playthings Which Are Not Hard to Make.

"It is a great wonder to me," said an old chemist to a Philadelphia Record man, "why more boys do not take up chemical experiments as an amusement. Why, I can do things with the common materials of everyday life which really seem to be more magical to the uninitiated than any of the wonders that are ordinarily performed by magicians on the public stage. Some of them are so simple that by carrying them out at a parlor entertainment a bright boy could achieve the reputation of a magician. Now, there are those curious little bubbles of glass known variously as 'Prince Rupert's drops' and as 'Dutch tears.' Apparently they are little globules of glass with elongated tails made by heating a small glass rod in a flame and allowing the molten drops to fall into water. After they have cooled you may pound the thick part with a hammer or mallet, yet you cannot break them. On the other hand, if you break a little piece off their tails, or touch any part of them with a quartz crystal, they will disappear into the surrounding atmosphere quicker than snow will melt on a hot fire. To the person who does not know how this has happened the performance is so astonishing as to seem uncanny."

"THE WEARING OF THE GREEN."

Good Joke on Official Who Had Prohibited the Song.

"The Wearing of the Green," which Dion Boucicault used to sing in one of his Irish dramas at the old Adelphi theater, was sung for the first time in the house of commons last week on the occasion of the dinner given to the colonial premiers by the Irish nationalist party, says the Pall Mall Gazette. It reminds one of the joke practiced by the late Sir William Wilde (father of Oscar Wilde) on the then attorney general for Ireland, who had prohibited Boucicault from singing this same song when performing in Dublin with his company. It must be remembered that there is no licenser of plays in Ireland, but the "Castle" has often put its foot down in the case of songs with a seditious reputation. Shortly afterward Sir William invited Boucicault to dinner to meet "a friend." The dramatist came, and sang the terrible tune to the friend, who that morning had officially prohibited it at the old Theater Royal, being none other than the attorney general himself.

Production of Oil.

Although the production of crude petroleum in America is making enormous strides every year, the bulk of this comes from new territories which yield heavy oils containing little or no spirit. In fact, the fields which have in the past supplied the world with petroleum spirit and high-class illuminating oils are, it is said, failing, so much so that the center of production is no longer in the eastern states, but lies equally between the gulf states and Calafornia. Recent work in the midcontinental fields shows, however, that there is a prospect of the supply of high-grade oils being increased.—Engineer.

TO VOTE ON LOCAL OPTION

Preliminary Steps Are Being Taken in Benton County.

A meeting of citizens of Warsaw and Alexander township was held at Davis opera house last Monday night for the purpose of ascertaining the feeling of the two communities on the question of local option, says the Warsaw Times.

Short addresses were made favoring the movement by S. M. Calbert, J. F. Davis, N. B. Petts, J. E. Bailey, Judge J. B. Davis and W. S. Davis.

On a motion by N. B. Petts, a committee was named to prepare and distribute petitions in every school district in the county for signatures, to be presented to the county court at the August term, asking for a special election to vote on local option.

The movement has been discussed in nearly every part of the county in times past, but no definite action was taken until now.

Petitions will be mailed out within the next few days to those favoring the cause, and it is hoped they will give it all the time possible between now and the next meeting of the county court.

WAS SHOT IN THE BACK

J. F. Edwards, of Audrain County, Sued by Widow of Victim.

The defendant claims they will have ample expert testimony to prove the man could not have been shot in the back.

The case will not likely reach the jury before Saturday. Many witnesses are here from a distance and the hotels are crowded. Prof. Crockett Edwards, of St. Louis, a son of the defendant, is here with his family

Mrs. Harvey Burks, Harrisburg, Illinois. Cured by "ZEMO" After Five Years' Torture.

WHY? SUFFER THE TORTURE OF ECZEMA OR ANY SKIN DISEASE WHEN THIS GOOD MEDICINE
+ZEMO+
HAS NEVER FAILED TO CURE

E. W. ROSE MEDICINE CO., St. Louis, Mo. HARRISBURG, ILL., May 12th, 1905.

DEAR SIRS: Believing that "ZEMO" saved my arms, if not my life, I will gladly tell all sufferers from eczema what your good medicine did for me. I suffered six years from a torturing case of itching eczema of both arms. I tried eight different doctors, and every eczema cure I could hear of without relief. The disease grew worse and spread to my neck and breast; my arms had great holes eaten in them; I soon became an invalid and was confined to my bed part of the time. My husband bought a bottle of "ZEMO"; the first application stopped the itching, and I began to improve; in six weeks and one day the disease had disappeared, and my arms were clean and smooth as my picture will show, before and after using "ZEMO." My arms were so bad some of my friends wanted me to have them taken off, but I would not agree. I am now entirely cured and have gained ten pounds in weight, and feel better than I have felt in many years. I consider my quick recovery by using "ZEMO" nothing short of a miracle. I will gladly answer all inquiries and recommend "ZEMO" to all persons suffering from any itching skin disease. Yours gratefully, Mrs. Harvey Burks.

ONLY GERMAN IS TAUGHT

In the Public Schools at Hermann, Gasconade County.

There is one town in Missouri where English is considered a foreign language and where German is taught in every grade of the public school. The local lodge of Odd Fellows conducts all its ritualistic work in German, and even the few negroes who live in the town easily talk the German language, says the Cole County Democrat.

The place is Hermann, the judicial seat of Gasconade county. It is the greatest wine producing town in the state, if not in the Union. Of the three million gallons surplus exported from the state last year, 2,94,000 gallons were sent from Hermann.

WHOLE PLOT REVEALED

RUSSIAN GOVERNMENT IN POSSESSION OF FACTS REGAPDING RECENT CONSPIRACY.

WOULD HAVE KILLED THE CZAR

Scheme Was Led by Women and All the Details Were Most Carefully Planned for the Assassination.

St. Petersburg July 26.—The authorities will soon be in a position to issue indictments in the matter of the recent plot against the life of the emperor. It is now known that a woman took the leading part in the conspiracy. The principals are:

Madam Foodossief, wife of a well known St. Petersburg lawyer; a woman called "Comrade Nina," alias Petrova, who escaped to a foreign country; Boris Nikitenko, a retired naval lieutenant; Necunoff, a mail clerk; Emme, an instructor in the Imperial lyceum, and three lawyers, Brussoff, Chiabroff and Savadzky.

The man actually chosen to kill the emperor is named Klossovsky.

The plan was to have Klossovsky make his way into the presence of the emperor clad in the uniform of a sergeant of the Imperial guards, and then to kill him instantly.

Entertained at a Lawn Party.

Miss Ethel Mabelle and brother, Lester Mathis, delightfully entertained a number of friends Thursday evening at a lawn party given at their home, 312 East Sixteenth street. The lawn was beautifully decorated with Japanese lanterns, and music and games of various kinds furnished amusement for all. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served.

Aldrich and Whitman.

T. B. Aldrich knew Walt Whitman and liked him personally, although he would never admit that Whitman was a poet except in here and there a single phrase. Many a time has the present writer endeavored to convert Mr. Aldrich from this state of heathen blindness as to Whitman's genius, but the debates used to end illogically with Mr. Aldrich's delightful story of a certain $9 which Whitman once borrowed from him—magnificently, but, alas, irrevocably—in Pfaff's restaurant in Broadway.—Atlantic Monthly.

Taking No Chances.

Marion, aged five years, was quarantined with the measles when a new baby arrived at her auntie's next door. A week later when taken to visit the little stranger her aunt, lying in bed, asked: "Aren't you going to kiss me, Marion?" "No," replied the late victim of the measles, "I might catch what you have."

Worship of Snakes.

Snakes, the objects of terror to most Europeans in eastern lands, are worshiped in many parts of India. In some districts there are from 15,000 to 20,000 shrines dedicated exclusively to the worship of snakes. These shrines, which are invariably in honor of one of the minor divinities of the country, possess, in some instances valuable properties for their maintenance and for the cost of the numerous ceremonies which their keepers have to perform. In these shrines the Hindus set up fantastic idols of serpents. The devotees of this strange religion make periodical offerings of dough and milk and cooked rice to the serpents living in the shrine in order to receive their favor.—Detroit News-Tribune.

A "Too Fat" Hint.

If you have afternoon tea with a friend and she serves only one lump of sugar to a cup pretend it's all the same to you; that is, unless you want her to know that you see she is hinting that you are taking on that arch enemy of womankind—flesh. King Edward took that way of showing the duchess of Roxburghe, the once stylish-like Miss Goelett, that she was guilty of acquiring too many pounds, and that the libelous term "fat" soon might be applied to her if she did not accept advice concerning her diet.

Winded.

"Good morning, Mrs. Miggins, I was just coming to see you. We want an organ blower at the church and I thought the post might suit your son, John." "Lord bless yer, sir, 'e wouldn't do for it, I know, 'cos his lungs ain't strong enough. He ain't got no more puff than a broken bellows."—Ally Sloper.

A Hopeful Future.

"Our boy Josh don't seem to be satisfied with anything around the place," said Mrs. Corntossel regretfully. "Let him alone," answered her husband. "Mebbe it's a good sign. You can't tell but what he'll grow up to be one o' these reformers that cause a sensation in politics."

The Get-Away.

The race is not always to the swift, but it cannot be denied that the man who gets started first has a big advantage.

Cough Caution

Never, positively never poison your lungs. If you cough—even from a simple cold only—you should always heal, soothe, and ease the irritated bronchial tubes. Don't blindly suppress it with a stupefying poison. It's strange how some things finally come about. For twenty years Dr. Shoop has constantly warned people not to take cough mixtures or prescriptions containing Opium, Chloroform, or similar poisons. And now—a little late though—Congress says "Put it on the label, if poisons are in your Cough Mixture." Good! Very good!! Hereafter for this very reason mothers, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine, else it must by law be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance then, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and note the difference. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding

WHAT CHARLES DICKENS SAID.

Great Writer's Remark to Small Boy Lingered Long in Memory.

Mr. Henry C. Robinson, a witty lawyer who used to live in Hartford, Conn., once told the following anecdote one evening when he was introducing an English author to a Hartford audience. "The first famous Englishman whom I ever saw was Charles Dickens, who lectured here in Hartford when I was a young boy. I had read some of the stories of this great writer, and I was most anxious to catch a glimpse of the man himself. So on the afternoon when he was expected to arrive I walked up and down the street in front of the hotel where I knew he was to stay. The hotel was built close to the sidewalk, and the long windows of the parlor were so low that the passerby could easily see into the room. I soon realized that a gentleman was sitting within, reading a paper. I stepped close up under the window and pressed my face against the glass, eager to get a good look at the stranger. Yes, it was he! It really was! I had seen his picture often, and couldn't be mistaken. I stared and stared, anxious to impress every feature upon my memory. After a few moments he turned and saw me there, the little, eager Yankee boy, gazing up at his face; and then the famous man, laying aside his paper, actually spoke, so that I really heard the voice of the great Charles Dickens himself, and he was really talking to me!" Here Mr. Robinson paused impressively, and some one on the platform inquired, "What did he say, Mr. Robinson?" "He said,' replied Mr. Robinson, in subdued tones, "Go away, little boy! go away!'"

PAPA'S IDEA OF ECONOMY.

All Right When It Only Affected Pleasures of Others.

Not long ago we heard a man's little daughter say to him: "Papa, can't I have a nickel to buy some gum?" He was a good, kind man, and he didn't refuse her roughly. He patted her on the head and said: "Daughter, your old dad can't afford such things. It takes all our money to buy bread and meat and keep you and mamma in shoes." She looked disappointed and walked away. Presently he started home. He felt as if a hot one would help his appetite and put him in a more cheerful frame of mind in which to greet his family, so he walked in and put his right shoe upon the foot-rail. "What'll you have, boys?" he asked. Some of them took 'er straight; some took it diluted with seltzer. Nobody condescended to take beer. Our friend planked down a dollar. When the barkeeper rang up the register it showed 65 cents.—Lamar Democrat.

Haydn's Grave.

The city council of Vienna has made formal overtures to the authorities of Eisenstadt looking toward the removal of the bones of Josef Haydn to Vienna, "where," the city fathers say, "a fitting resting place will be provided by the city." This will be near the graves of Beethoven and Schubert. Haydn was 77 years old when he died in Vienna in 1809. He was buried in a little cemetery near the Hundsturm line, and at the head of the grave was placed a small stone at the expense of his pupil, Sigmund Knight of Neukomm. The stone bore only the name "Haydn," and the inscription "Non omnis moriar." In 1820 Prince Esterhazy had the body removed to Eisenstadt, where Haydn had been music director from 1760 to 1790, and there an elaborate monument with ample inscription was erected.

Hard Water.

A farm woman in Pennsylvania once said: "I never hear anyone sing 'The Old Oaken Bucket' without a shudder." For 15 years she had done the cooking and washing for a family of six with no other water supply than what she had hauled out of a well nearly 30 feet deep by means of a bucket. Baths in winter were almost out of the question, and even in the summer they were regarded as an occasion of more than ordinary importance, for which preparations had to be made hours ahead of the great event. A cubic foot of water weighs 62½ pounds, and in all these years the number of tons this woman had lifted had made poetic allusions to "ironbound" and "moss-covered" buckets a good deal like saying "rope" to a man about to be hanged.—Farming.

Man's Walk Shows Age.

"You can tell a man's age by his hands," said one of the girls. "They get knotty and veined and terrible. They get old sooner than his face." "You can tell it most of all, I think," said the woman, "by his walk. I know a man who has been one of the brightest minds of his time, who is still the best company I know; but the other day when I saw him come toward me at his home along the hall it made me awfully sad to see the heavy, old, old way in which he walked."

Honeymoon Literature.

The young couple drove to the railway after the wedding, accompanied by the best man, who had once been in love with the bride. Just before the train started he handed a book to the bride, saying: "You will find that a capital book to read on your honeymoon." After the train had started the young husband said: "What book is that Tom has given you?" Together they looked at it. It was Stevenson's "Travels with a Donkey."

LOST LOVE OF HIS WIFE

BECAUSE OF THIS FACT HERMAN OERKE WANTS $10,000 DAMAGES.

SAYS HIS HOME HAS BEEN RUINED

E. S. Hadley, the Defendant in the Case, Is Said to Have Once Been a Methodist Minister in Oklahoma.

Herman F. Oerke, whose wife was granted a divorce Saturday, yesterday filed suit for $10,000 in the district court against E. S. Hadley on the charge of having alienated his wife's affections, says Thursday's Wichita Eagle.

The suit filed yesterday is the culmination of the divorce case and promises to unearth one of the biggest scandals ever aired in a Sedgwick county court. The petition filed by Mr. Oerke's attorneys sets forth some very startling charges against Mr. Hadley.

In his petition Mr. Oerke states that he married Alice M. Stonechecker in Sumner county, Kan., on July 2, 1902, and that they lived together until May 8, 1907, when she left him and since then they have been living separate. He applied for a divorce in the early part of this month. When the case came up an agreement was reached whereby she was given the divorce. The decree was issued on July 19.

The petition states that during the time of their marriage, in February, 1905, Mr. Hadley became acquainted with Mr. Oerke and his wife and became a frequent visitor at their home in this city.

After reciting these preliminary facts the petition recites that "the defendant contrived and wilfully intending to injure the plaintiff and deprive him of the comfort, society, aid and assistance of the said wife, did heretofore, sometime in May, 1906, the exact date this plaintiff being unable to state, begin to visit the wife of this plaintiff at their home in the city of Wichita in his absence and continued to visit the wife of this plaintiff almost daily from that time until the plaintiff and his wife separated."

Mr. Oerke goes on to state that Hadley visited his wife while he and his child were at Sunday school. He also asserts that Hadley induced Mrs. Oerke to remain away from church and to give up her religion. He states that prior to Hadley's interference they were Methodists and fully agreed on religious matters.

He states that he was employed at Rorabaugh's dry goods store and was compelled to work on Saturday nights until 10 o'clock. It is charged that on Saturday nights, while her husband was working, Mrs. Oerke was visited by Mr. Hadley and that he continued these visits for a period extending over nine months prior to May 8, 1907.

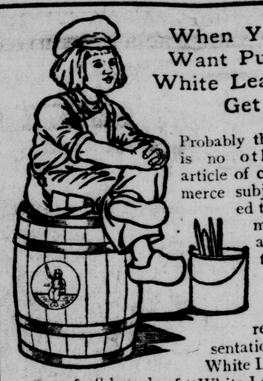

Continuing along this line, the petition says: "That it was through the influence, suggestion, advice, procurement, persuasion and assistance of the defendant that the plaintiff's said wife left him on the 8th day of May."

Mr. Oerke frequently ordered Hadley to stay away from his place, but this Hadley did not do. The most sensational charges made by Oerke against Hadley are that the latter told Oerke's wife that her husband dressed too shabbily and that he did not support her well enough. He is also charged with having furnished her money to spend upon herself and to have done other things calculated to win her affection and love and to disgrace and humiliate Oerke.

Oerke charges Hadley with having broken up his home and with having deprived him of the comfort, society, affection, aid and assistance of his wife. He asks the court to give him judgment in the sum of $10,000 and costs.

It is reported that Mr. Hadley was formerly a Methodist minister in Oklahoma, but that he retired from the ministry and since that time has not attended church.

THROW AWAY A BISCUIT

Any Day for a Kiss, Believing Osculation Necessary.

Chicago, Ill., July 26.—Kisses are a necessity in this world, according to Rev. W. A. Quayle, who spoke at the Methodist camp meeting at Desplaines.

"Kisses are as much of a necessity as dessert," said the speaker. "I would throw away a biscuit any time for a kiss."

He also offered some other epigrams:

"The woman who does not care a lot about her bonnet has lost a lot which she ought to have kept. Piety is like a bonnet for anybody having sense enough to wear it."

"The man who does not care how his wife and children dress is mean, not pious."

"Mary never asked how much Christ's coat cost Him, because she saw it was a seamless coat."

"Who am I that I should not get my shins skinned? I am not a bric-a-brac. I am as breakable as any of my church members."

BRYAN ON ROOSEVELT

Neither Taft Nor Foraker Will Be Named, Says Nebraskan.

Springfield, Ill., July 26.—As W. J. Bryan passed through Springfield en route to cover a Chautauqua engagement he stated that it was his opinion Roosevelt would not be a candidate for renomination.

He declined to state who he thought would be the republican nominee, but expressed the opinion that it would not be Taft or Foraker.

Mr. Bryan intimated that he might be able to whisper the name of the "dark horse" in Roosevelt's ear if the president wanted to know.

Meeting of Eagles.

"Something new" in either home or office furniture means no more room and no more use for the "old things"—the things that were serving you only the other day. AND THIS ALWAYS MEANS "MORE WORK FOR THE WANT ADS."

OHIO COW A HIGH DIVER

She Ought to Get First Prize as a Bovine Swimmer.

Chillicothe, Ohio, July 26.—President Roosevelt may shout "Nature faker" when he hears that Chillicothe has a high-diving cow, but nevertheless 'tis true.

The fine Jersey cow of B. and O. S. W. Yardmaster John Manning was being driven to pasture when it became frightened and blinded by the flickering of an arc light out of order, and, in making a rush for the river bridge, missed the structure and plunged headforemost from the pier down 50 feet into the deep channel of the Scioto.

The animal went down like a flash, and came up out of the water like a cork, uninjured, and swam to the shore. The bank was so steep, however that it was impossible to pull her out.

Manning and some friends worked most of the night and part of the next morning trying to arrange an apparatus that would lift the animal, but they only succeeded in almost drowning her two or three times when they got her feet entangled.

Finally she got disgusted and struck out for the far bank of the swollen stream. It was a long swim, and she went down twice, but managed to reach the other bank safely. She is now valued highly.

WANTS $10,000 DAMAGES

One Kansas Citizen Charges Another With Slandering Him.

Iola, Kan., July 26.—Hadden Bettes has filed suit in the district court here to recover $10,000 damages from F. M. Ball for alleged slanderous remarks. Both parties live at Elsmore.

Mr. Bettes charged that on July 20, at Elsmore, Mr. Ball made the following statement with reference to him in the presence of a number of Elsmore people, who names appear in the petition: "You burned the store buildings belonging to your brother, Thomas, and I can prove it."

Another statement which he alleges Mr. Ball made is: "You stole a $50 overcoat belonging to your brother, Thos. Bettes, and I can prove that you burned the buildings and stole the coat and you can't prove an alibi."

Mr. Bettes also alleges that Mr. Ball had previously said that he, Bettes, had kicked, struck and abused Mrs. Mary Bettes, his sister-in-law, while she was sick.

The fire which is referred to in the statements alleged to have been made by Mr. Ball is the Elsmore fire which occurred January of this year, in which a number of buildings in Elsmore were burned, with a total estimate loss of $15,000, the most of which was not covered by insurance.

ATTACKED BY A DOG

Ex-Secretary of State of West Virginia Badly Lacerated.

Parkersburg, W. Va., July 26.—Major Randolph Stalnaker, an official of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad and former secretary of state, is in great fear of developing rabies and will take the Pasteur treatment as the result of an attack made on him by a bulldog.

The dog, owned by Senator Tom Brown, jumped at Major Stalnaker's throat when he entered the senator's yard.

The major fought him off for a while, but the animal finally got a hold on his arm, and before Senator Brown could beat him off had torn out the coat and shirt sleeves and badly lacerated the flesh.

MISSOURI SNAKE STORY

Reptile Had No Terror for a Russellville Woman.

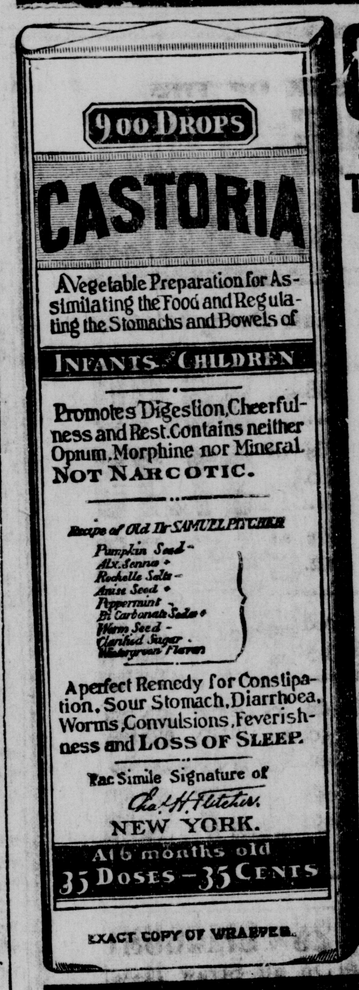

The snakes driven from Ireland must have gathered near Russellville, down near Jefferson City.

A man there who had killed a few reptiles the other day was awakened that night by a commotion in his hen house. He investigated and found a seven-foot blacksnake making himself at home. He laid a hoe handle across the snake's back and told his wife to stand on this till he secured a club to kill the marauder.

The wife was game and though another snake was discovered nearby stuck to her hoe handle till the man returned and killed the snakes. The larger snake had swallowed twelve eggs and two chickens.

O'Donagan's Fact.

A story Earl Stirling, of the Players' company, repeats frequently is of an Irishman who prided himself upon his delicacy and tact. One day when a boy was killed in the quarry where the Irishman worked, he told the men to leave everything in his hands; he would break the news to the boy's mother as it should be done. He went home, put on a black suit and tie, and started for the mother's shanty. "Good mornin', ma'am," he said. "'Tis the sad accident yer boy's gold watch has met wid." "Why," said the mother, "Tom never had a gold watch." "Sure, an' that's lucky," said the diplomat, "fur twinty tons uv rock just fell on him."

Charcoal an Antidote.

Japanese physicians declare it is impossible for internal poisoning to occur if powdered charcoal be swallowed as soon as the gastro-intestinal disturbance is felt. French physicians have tested the power of charcoal, and proved that it is the most active of all known antidotes. The charcoal must be taken as soon as the poison taken begins to show its effect, and the doses must be large. Charcoal is in no way injurious, and as much as a soupspoonful may be taken in divided doses mixed in water.

Glued Clothes.

"In Korea," said a tailor, "needle and thread are unknown to tailoring. Their place is taken by glue." "Glue?" "Glue. A peculiarly fine, strong glue made of fish. Making Korean clothes the tailor does not bring two edges of cloth together and then slowly and painfully unite them with fine stitches of the needle. No; he overlaps the edges slightly, brushes on a little glue, presses the seam together and sets the garment away to dry. I wore glued clothes in Korea and found that they lasted almost as well as sewed ones."

The Real Grip.

Pat had been very ill all winter. An old friend meeting him on the street one day asked what had been the matter with him. "I've had the grip," answered Pat in a weak voice. "The grip? Begorry, and phwat's that?" asked his friend. "It's a disease that makes you sick six months after you've got well," explained Pat.

"FOUR-FLUSH" BAND

The Latest in the Musical World, Declare the Unionists.

Chicago, July 26.—The Chicago Musicians' Union, which some time ago raised a fuss about a "Simian Band" being imported to play in a local amusement park, only to discover that the members of this band were monkeys as well as foreigners, has just discovered a real grievance in a number of "four-flush" bands, which it declares are infesting local amusement parks and other places where music soothes Chicagoans.

The "four-flush" band, explain officials of the union, is composed of a few good musicians, just good enough to "put up a front," they say, and the rest of the members don't know one note from another. The latter are provided with musical instruments, however, and pretend to play them. In reality they contribute nothing to the music, the mouthpieces of their instruments, in some cases, being stopped with cotton. The purpose of this deception is obviously to increase the salary paid the band.

The local union is going after each band, determined to put them out of business and announces it has asked that similar action be taken by musicians' unions in other cities.

TOLD OF OLD-TIME HEALERS.

When Gold-Headed Cane Was Indispensable Paraphernalia.

A gold-headed cane used to be considered a necessary part of the physician's outfit, as indispensable to the profession as the medicine bag or the general air of wisdom. In the rooms of the London College of Physicians there is preserved a gold-topped staff, which is famous as having been carried by a succession of prominent doctors whose lives extended over a period of nearly a century and a half. Dr. William Macmichael has published an account of it in a quaint little book in which the story of the various owners and their characteristics is told.

The cane originally belonged to the great Dr. Radcliffe of the seventeenth century. The doctor himself rather quick as to temper, was once treated to a biting bit of repartee. Radcliffe's garden adjoined the grounds of Sir Godfrey Kneller, the king's chief painter. A door in the wall made easy communication between his majesty's doctor and the artist. Some of the doctor's workmen, however, littered up the artist's beautiful flower beds and aroused his anger. He sent word that if the thing continued he would have the door bricked up.

"Sir Godfrey can do what he pleases with that door so long as he doesn't paint it!" retorted Dr. Radcliffe.

"Did my good friend say that?" remarked Sid Godfrey, when the slap at his profession was repeated to him. "Well, go tell him that I'll take anything from him but physic."

The cane passed in succession from Dr. Radcliffe's hands to those of Mead, Askew, Pitcairn and Baillie, all famous in their day and generation. Of Baillie the following incident is told:

He was a gentle and patient physician by nature, but his immense practice and crowded hours sometimes made him hasty with the importunate.

At one time, after listening to a long story of her ailments from a lady who was so little ill that she intended to go to the opera that night, the doctor left the room with a sigh of relief. He had just got donwstairs when he was called back.

"Doctor," feebly asked the lady, "may I, on my return to-night, eat a few oysters?"

"Yes, madam," roared the doctor, "shells and all."—Youth's Companion.

Some English Stage Records.

By appearing 600 times in "The Scarlet Pimpernel" Fred Terry and Miss Julia Neilson have achieved a feat they may well be proud of, but they are still far from rivaling the long distance records of some of their predecessors on the stage.

Mr. Penley personated "Charley's Aunt" 1,466 times in London, Mr. Hawtrey appeared more than 1,000 times in "The Private Secretary," and Mr. James convulsed the house 1,362 times in "Our Boys." Auguste van Biene's appearances in "A Broken Melody" now number several thousand, and "Dorothy" and "A Chinese Honeymoon" can furnish several records far exceeding 600 performances of the same role.

How to Get Rid of Prejudices.

There is nothing like getting well acquainted to knock erroneous notions out of people's minds. At least two-thirds of the complications of the past which led to serious disagreement, if not to open hostility, have been traceable to the differences due to distance and lack of close intercourse. Modern methods, which by means of steamship and cable lines are bringing everybody into touch, are steadily doing away with causes of misunderstanding. Intelligent and unbiased men and women, no matter what their own beliefs, political, religious and social, who travel about the world and learn to know the natives of other regions, have most of their prejudices removed and find that there is a great common humanity where all can meet on fairly equal terms.

Wanderings of a Seagull.

On Oct. 28 last there was shot at Oushy, on Lake Leman, a seagull, aged about 16 months, which was found to be wearing on its claw a silver ring engraved with the words "Vogel Station, Rossiten 20." Rossiten is situated on the Lido of the Courland lagoon, between Konigsberg and Memel, in the Baltic, 1,500 kilometers from the Lake of Geneva. M. Florel, of Lausanne, communicated with Dr. J. Thienemann, director of the ornithological station at Rossiten. According to the latest notes the full No. 20 was hatched there and was marked with the ring when a few weeks old, before it could fly, on July 4, 1905. It seems probable that it had thus made two winter migrations before it fell a victime to the human barbarian.—New York Herald.

In Days of Old.

"Oh, pa," he exclaimed, breathlessly, "I just saw a pterodactylus catch a big glyptodon and swallow him whole."

Father Adam shook his head.

"Better be careful, my son," he warned, "or some one will accuse you of being a nature faker."

For even in those days it was not wise to exaggerate about the habits of big game.

Great Pigeon Cities in the Swamps.

Each spring, in May, all the rosy gulls of a wide region somehow agree to resort to a particular one of various marshy lakes for the purpose of rearing their young. Just how they decide this important question is not for us humans to know. At any rate, what they do select is a great area of grass, reeds, or rushes growing out of the water, and there, out of the abundance of dry stems, each pair builds a partly floating nest, side by side with others, thousands upon thousands of them. These great "cities" of the prairie pigeon present one of the most dramatic, spectacular sights in the bird-life of this continent, comparable in a way to the former breeding "roosts" of the real wild pigeon.—Herbert K. Job, in Outing.

A GIRL SENT BACK HOME

SHE HAD ELOPED FROM PUTNAM COUNTY WITH A MARRIED MAN.

WAS OVERTAKEN AT HANNIBAL, MO

Fellow Who Wronged Her Made His Escape, and the Girl Was Then Returned to the Home of Her Parents.

Yesterday morning's Journal contained an account of the elopement of Dan Baldock, a married man of Mendota, Putnam county, and Miss Mamie Thompson, an unsophisticated young girl of that town, says Thursday's Hannibal Journal.

As stated in the Journal the couple arrived in Hannibal at 5 o'clock Monday evening and immediately went to the South Side hotel, where they registered as man and wife, and roomed together Monday night.

They intended to go to St. Joseph Tuesday and Baldock had already purchased a ticket to that city for the girl and himself, and both of them would no doubt have taken the noon train for that city had not Officer Gee interfered.

Baldock was not seen by the officer, for he kept in the background, but the girl had not left the Union station in company with Officer Gee five minutes when Baldock called and took his valise. That is the last seen of him here and it is presumed that he took some other train.

After the girl had told the officer that she had been abducted by Baldock Marshall Ritchardson wired the girl's father at Mendota, telling him of the girl's detention and asked for instructions.

No response to this message was received until yesterday morning, when Marshal Ritchardson received a message from the agent of the Western Union stating that 13 cents was due on the telegram and that Thompson did not have the money to pay it and that it must be paid for at the office in Hannibal.

Thompson, the girl's father, sent no reply whatever, so Marshal Ritchardson sent the girl home yesterday at his own expense. Judging from the fact that Mr. Thompson could not raise 43 cents to pay for a telegram that, seemingly, should be so very important to him, one would naturally conclude that the Thompson family does not amount to much in Mendota.

THE LENGTH OF ETERNITY.

This Man Had His Own and Peculiar Ideas on the Subject.

Mrs. C. W. McCulloch, of Chicago, on taking up her new office of justice of the peace, told a Chicago reporter that in the performance of marriage ceremonies she proposed to omit the word "obey." "In these enlightened days," said Mrs. McCulloch, "the word 'obey' has lost its meaning in the marriage contract. The best wife does not propose to 'obey' her husband, any more than the best husband proposes to 'obey' his wife. Obedience is for dogs, horses—creatures without reason. So I think that we should drop this meaningless word. For it is meaningless. As meaningless as a certain other word was to a certain boorish husband. The husband had been particularly nasty one rainy Sunday at home, and his wife finally began to cry. 'Eight years ago,' she sobbed, 'you swore eternal love, and now—' 'Oh,' growled the man, 'how long do you expect eternal love to last, any way?'"

A Countess' Schedule.

The following division of the day made by the countess of Sheffield after she was the mother of four children may be profitably accepted by untitled mothers: Eight hours for bed and sleep, no more, no less; one hour for communion with myself; four hours to all necessary household duties, for if they cannot be finished in that time they may wait a day; four hours to the comfort and companionship of my children; four hours with my husband, music and books and the fresh air; three hours to friends and pleasures in which all may participate. So I have lived for 20 years, and so I hope to live until the end.

Japanese Flower Decoration.

In the Japanese method of flower decoration—to become a master in which a man must study for at least 14 years, seven years of hard work making him only fairly proficient—only few flowers are used. One beautiful bough is considered ample esthetic food for a day. The Japanese know that only one beautiful object at a time can be appreciated, and they aim at placing that object in perfect relation to its surroundings. A vase of flowers in a Japanese house is the principal thing in the room, near which the chief guest of the evening is seated.

Size of Central-American States.

Very few people have a correct impression of the size of Central America as a whole, or of its states, taken separately, says a writter in the Review of Reviews. California seems like a large state. It extends 770 miles along the Pacific and has an extreme width of 375 miles. If California were laid end for end on Central America it would cover it with the exception of Salvador, which is just the size of New Jersey and occupies a little over 7,000 square miles. Stated in another way, if Central America were lifted bodily and laid down on our Atlantic coast it would just hide all New England, New York, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey. In short, it has a combined area of approximately 167,000 square miles. Individually, aside from Salvador, already mentioned, the states could be compared as follows: Honduras to Pennsylvania, 45,000 square miles; Gautemala to Mississippi, 47,000; Nicaragua to New York, 49,000; Costa Rica to Vermont and New Hampshire, 18,000.

Smoke From the Sea.

One of the peculiar phenomena of the arctic regions is "sea smoke," the boiling kettle which rises from the water when the temperature is 15 degrees below zero.

At 40 degrees the snow and human bodies emit this vapor, which changes into tiny icicle particles which fill the air and make a light noise like the rustle of silk.

At 40 degrees tree trunks burst with a loud report, rocks break up and streams of smoking water flow from great cracks in the earth's surface, knives break in cutting butter and lighted cigars go out by contact with the ice upon the beard.—Philadelphia Record.

Love's Magic Power.

George had been away on business for a whole long week, and during that time he had sent Clara ten letters, six postal cards and 42 picture postcards.

Why, then, was there a touch of coldness in her greeting when he flew to her arms on his return?

"Dearest," he whispered, "what is the matter?"

"Oh, George," she said, "you didn't send me a kiss in your ninth letter!"

"My precious," he replied, "that night I had steak and onions for dinner, and you wouldn't have liked a kiss aftter onions, would you?"—Stray Stories.

Be Not Afraid.

He has not learned the lesson of his life who does not every day surmount a fear. If you have no faith in a beneficent power above you, but see only an adamantine fate coiling its folds about nature and man, then reflect that the best use of fate is to teach us courage. If you have no confidence in any foreign mind then be brave because there is always one good opinion which must always be of importance to you—namely, your own.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

What It Sounded Like.

USES FOR POISON IVY.

Dreaded Weed Is by No Means Utterly Without Merit.

There are few summer boarders in the eastern part of America who are not familiar with the common poison ivy—its sinister three-fingered leaves creeping alongside the harmless five-fingered woodbine or Virginia creeper. Some persons are immune, and may pick the leaves at will, but others are so susceptible that the wind will carry the poisonous vapor and bring discomfort without contact with the plant itself.

Cows and horses feed with impunity upon the vine, but it is terribly poisonous to dogs, producing convulsions which result in death. A volatile substance which forms salts when combined with alkalies has been isolated from the leaves, known as toxicodendric acid. This resembles formic acid, and is the source of the poisoning. More interesting to the many sufferers is the fact that a certain cure for the painful skin blisters is found in a solution of potassium permanganate.

This blistering effect on the skin was taken advantage of by old-time doctors and administered in cases of skin disease. One reads that in 1640 the poison ivy was introduced into England, and in 1798 was used as a medicine in Europe. Even before this, the juice of the plant had been used as a marking ink, and is to-day widely employed for that purpose. It resists soap, acids, alkalies, and bleaching powders, and yields only to ether. So when the nature writer is out in the wilds, away from stores and human dwellings, and his ink gives out, a splendid substitute may be found in the juice of the poison ivy—which will guarantee the physical permanence of the record of his observations—if not the veracity of the facts themselves. Another commercial use for the juice of this plant is in the manufacture of a blacking fluid for boots and shoes.

Newest Cooling Process.

A new artificial cooling apparatus just installed by a prominent New York interurban banking house, and believed to be the only one in the financial district, had its first trial in the hot weather recently. The apparatus combines ammonia pipes and other artificial freezing apparatus with a ventilating system calculated to keep the air dry and also in circulation. It dispels humidity as well as heat, beating the barometer to death and getting the better of the thermometer outside from 8 to 15 degrees, according to the pressure applied. The same house last year tried a system which supplied nothing better than a musty, disagreeable atmosphere. The new one has worked perfectly up to the present, and is supposed to draw the attention of employes entirely away from thoughts of vacation, for the firm sweeps them with cooling breezes at their desks in the city. Though the apparatus is declared to be successful, it is hardly likely to be popular. The cost of installation is reported to have been $30,000, and the expense of operation is considerable.

An Appetite Cure.

How appetite subsides before a well filled menu card was shown in a city restaurant recently. The dramatis personae were two well dressed women fresh and hungry from the bargain counter.

"How would roast turkey do?" asked A, glancing at the list. "Cranberry sauce goes with that."

"Excellent!" commented B. "But here's 'sirloin steak smothered in onions.' Shouldn't we try steak?"

"Why, they have fried kidneys," suggested B; "they'd be tasty enough."

"My dear," softly whispered A, "I notice there's lamb stew on the bill."

"Lamb stew," repeated B, "is it possible?"

"No, dear," replied B with a sigh. "I don't feel like eating to-day."

Then "Let's make it pie!" came in chorus from the women, and pie it was.

Domain of White Vests.

"I know several places," said the Washington salesman, "where the white shirt waist has its nose put out of joint by the white waistcoat. That is in the sections of the city peopled mostly by our colored citizens. If you want to see white vests in such numbers that you can't count them just take a stroll through those districts and look at the laundry windows. In place of the lacey shirt waists that fill the window space in other laundries you see there dozens of waistcoats of linen and pique. All belong to the colored beaux of the neighborhood. There is nobody on earth who has quite such a strong predilection for a white waistcoat and who wears it with such obvious pride as your gentlemen of color. From early spring until late in the fall he arrays himself in washable garments and thus becomes the launderer's best patron."

Human Ant-Eaters.

There is a Chinaman in New York who has a sign over his door that reads, "Strange Food Exotics." What to Eat says that he sells a hundred of the funny little gray biscuits that he keeps with his other odd stock every month at $2.50 each. The biscuits are made from the dried and compressed bodies of African white ants, and there are people who can eat them without saying "ugh!"

THEFT OF BICYCLES

Mania for Riding and Leaving Them on the Streets.

Richmond, Ind., July 26.—The local police department is making a strenuous endeavor to lay hands on a "near thief," whose acts stamp him as a most extraordinary individual, but whose identity has been well concealed.

Within the past ten days no less than a dozen bicycles have been stolen and in each instance the stolen property has been found within a day or so, the "near thief" leaving the wheels on the street near the point where they were taken.

The wheels give evidence of having been ridden many miles. The police believe the thief is the victim of a peculiar dementia which impels him to steal a wheel, ride it vigorously for a day or two and then return it.

HEAT HATCHED THE EGGS

Driver Finds Little Chickens Instead of Eggs After Trip in Sun.

Atlanta, Ga., Juyl 26.—So hot was Wednesday in Atlanta that seven little chickens were hatched in the city without the aid of a mother hen.

The eggs had been brought to an Atlanta produce house from a Tennessee firm and had just arrived in the city. The crate was placed upon a dray and a negro driver started on his route to the store.

Before arriving there he heard a faint chirp or two and on investigation found that seven of the eggs had turned into chickens. The heat on Wednesday in Atlanta reached a maximum of 98, the highest of the summer in Atlanta.

CHILD WAS MISTREATED

Little Daughter of Jas. Beaty Is Home From Texas.

Some two years ago, the Pettis county court took away the children of James Beaty and awarded them to different families, who promised to rear and educate the children. Among the number was Mr. Beaty's 11-year-old daughter, Lorene, who was given into the custody of a family now residing in Comanche county, Texas.

Recently reports were received here that the family was cruelly treating the little girl, and Prosecuting Attorney Dow was asked to investigate the case, and, if so, have the child returned to her father, who is now better able to care for her.

Mr. Dow did so, corresponding with the prosecuting attorney of Comanche county, and a reply verified the report.

REGARDING RAILROADS

COACH, CAB AND CABOOSE ITEMS

Matters of Interest Picked Up From Various Sources for the Benefit of Democrat-Sentinel Readers.

M. J. Donovan, superintendent of terminals of the Kansas City Southern railroad, was arrested at Pittsburg, Kas., yesterday on complaint of two telegraph operators, who charge that he required them to work more than eight hours a day, in violation of the new law passed by the last legislature.

Donovan says that he wanted to comply with the law, but was unable to hire enough telegraphers to do the work, when each works only eight hours.

Donovan was arraigned in the criminal court and released after furnishing a $1,000 bond.

Could Have Averted Crash.

At the opening session of the inquest on the Salem wreck before Justice Joslyn in Northville, Mich., Marcus Bonzell, the Pere Marquette train dispatcher, admitted he had ample opportunity to stop the excursion train at South Lyons, and thereby avoid the collision, knowing the trains were rushing toward each other.

Asked why he did not do it, Bonzell said: "Why should I stop them when I knew the freight crew had their orders given in the special schedule?"

This is the order that was misread by four trainmen and has been shown to have been illegibly written. The operator at Plymouth who wrote the order testified that the dispatcher showed gross carelessness.

The inquest will last a week and the road's officials are endeavoring to shoulder the entire responsibility on minor officials.

PRAISE FOR SEDALIANS

HANNIBAL COURIER-POST HAS COMPLIMENT FOR LOCAL GOLF PLAYERS.

HANNIBAL WON BY 107 STROKES

Visitors Took Defeat Gracefully and Cheered the Victors—Souvenir Spoons for the Sedalia Visiting Ladies.

The Hannibal Courier-Post of Thursday afternoon has the following in regard to the Sedalia golf players' visit to that city Wednesday:

Gone but not forgotten. Such is the case of the Sedalia golf team. They came, they saw and were conquered. One match to Sedalia and one to Hannibal, and now for the rub. It has been said that the next thing to victory is being able to take defeat gracefully. In golf this shows the real golfer. Sedalia lost the match yesterday in the second meet between the Sedalia golf team and the Hannibal golf team. A few weeks ago Hannibal sent a team to Sedalia and went down to defeat. Yesterday the tables were turned. Each team has honors, but it will take another match to settle the contest this year.

The enthusiasts from the neighboring city of Sedalia showed themselves to be "real spinorts" by taking defeat gracefully and cheering the victors. The day was fine, the grounds were the best and the players showed a feeling of good fellowship that is seldom excelled, making everything "just right." The first pair started at 2:30 and by the time the sixteenth pair were started many of the players were settled down to hard work. When the 18-hole match was finished and all had turned in, the Hannibal team had won by 107 strokes.

The results of the individual matches were as follows:

Herring, of Hannibal, beat Reynolds, of Sedalia, 4 up.

Hixson, of Hannibal, and Barnett, of Sedalia, tied.

Chilton, of Hannibal, beat Sturges, of Sedalia, 9 up.

Roberts, of Sedalia, beat Hill, of Hannibal, 7 up.

Yeater, of Sedalia, beat Dulany Mahn, of Hannibal, 2 up.

Rodes, of Sedalia, beat Brown, of Hannibal, 5 up.

Dunmire, of Hannibal, beat Cannon, of Sedalia, 4 up.

Moore, of Hannibal, beat Finke, of Sedalia, 14 up.

Settles, of Hannibal, beat Carter, of Sedalia, 11 up.

Vandiver, of Hannibal, beat Stafford, of Sedalia, 7 up.

Collins, of Hannibal, beat F. Carter, of Sedalia, 15 up.

Northam, of Hannibal, beat Ramsey, of Sedalia, 10 up.

T. G. Dulany, of Hannibal, beat Mackey, of Sedalia, 6 up.

By the above score it will be seen that the Hannibal team were easily the victors.

After the last pair were in and rested, supper was served on the spacious club house porch. The tables were ably presided over by the following ladies:

Mrs. George A. Mahan.
Mrs. T. G. Dulany.
Mrs. J. C. Chilton.
Mrs. James A. Herring.
Mrs. John E. Jones and Miss Elizabeth McKinley.
Mrs. John J. Conlin and Mrs. Will Moore.
Miss League and Miss Mary King.
Miss Ethel Bacon.
Miss Effie Shyrock.
Miss Neva Northam.

The supper was fine and the visitors were "shown" what the ladies of the Hannibal golf club could do besides play golf.

There were only three Sedalia ladies present. In honor of these fair visiors, ex-President George A. Mahan, in behalf of the Hannibal ladies, in a few appropriate and well selected remarks presented each visiting lady with a beautiful souvenir spoon, with a picture of the Hannibal club house in the bowl. This was entirely unexpected and brought forth short speeches by Will Mackey and J. T. Montgomery, of the visiting team. The remainder of the evening was spent at dancing and visiting. The special car left for Sedalia at an early hour this morning.

The visitors left Hannibal feeling that they could well go down in defeat at the hands of such royal entertainers as the officers and members of the Hannibal Golf and Country club.

The Sedalia club extended a cordial invitation to the Hannibal club for a return match on the Sedalia links early in October. The visitors were delighted with Hannibal, her people and her golf club.

They expressed themselves as delighted with the visit of the Hannibal players, as it had worked up considerable enthusiasm among the less active members of the club.

Sedalia is welcome to come to Hannibal any day in the week, whether winners or losers, they are true golfers in every sense of the word. When they play they play to win by honorable methods only, and that's golf.

We are certainly excelling ourselves and everybody else in the present quality of Arbuckles' Ariosa Coffee.

No such quality of coffee can be sold out of a bag, bin or tin, or under any other name by anybody in this town, for anything near the same price.

That's a strong statement, but you can take our word for it, and we are the largest dealers in coffee in the world. Another thing---the egg coating on ARIOSA COFFEE does not improve its appearance but preserves the flavor and aroma.

NEW YORK SLAYER VIOLENT

Shooting of Sweetheart by Warner Not Remembered by Him.

New York, July 26.—Following the death of his friend and second victim, John C. Wilson, Frank H. Warner, against whom two murders are now charged, made a rambling statement to Coroner Acritelli yesterday. He denied any knowledge of having shot Miss Esther Norling, but recalled the shooting of Wilson.

Warner became violent and attempted to tear the bandages from his head. It was necessary to tie him to the cot. He appeared rational this morning. He declared that he shot Wilson because the merchant made no move to get the $10 he had demanded.

Warner's recovery is doubtful.

GIRLS THUMB TORN OFF

Children Meet With Bad Accident in Cooper County.

The two little children, Vincil and Beryl Davis, who were seriously injured at S. H. Groves' farm, southeast of Bunceton, yesterday, are in a serious condition, says the Boonville Democrat.

The left hands of both children were drawn into a pulley by a rope leading to a hay fork and were horribly mangled. Reports from there this morning say that the little girl's thumb was torn off and her hand otherwise lacerated, and that her little brother had already had his forefinger amputated and might lose his hand.

Both children were also bruised. It was not known they were at the barn until the accident happened.

SEDALIA DIVINE'S SERMON

The Rev. L. J. Baughman Preached in Morgan County.

Rev. L. J. Baughman, of Sedalia, filled his regular monthly appointment at Ritchie Baptist church, seven miles southwest of Versailles, last Sunday, says the Versailles Leader.

In the forenoon at 11 o'clock Rev. C. C. Marriott filled the pulpit. At night Rev. Baughman delivered a splendid discourse upon the subject of Baptist church policy, in which he set forth clearly, forcibly and logically the Baptist conception of the church, its powers, duties, government, etc.

Rev. Baughman is one among the old preachers of this section of the state and has given this matter a great deal of study and investigation, and is good authority on the subject. His sermon received a very careful hearing and will doubtless do much good.

SEDALIA PLAYERS LOST

WERE OVERWHELMINGLY BEATEN BY THE HANNIBAL "GOLFERS."

ONLY THREE OF LOCAL TEAM WON

Sedalians Entertained Most Royally, and Warm in Their Praise of Treatment On Return Home This Morning.

(From Thursday's Daily.)

Nineteen members of the Sedalia Country club returned this morning from Hannibal, where they spent yesterday as the guests of the members of the Hannibal Country club.

The Sedalia party consisted of Mrs. Jas. T. Montgomery, Miss May Hawkins and Miss Emma Longan, and the following gentlemen: O. M. Barnett, W. B. Mackey, G. A. Sturges, Jas. T. Montgomery, J. H. Rodes, Lawrence Yeater, Newton Cannon, Dr. J. S. Rogers Dr. W. M. Carter, Dr. Fletcher Carter, W. H. Reynolds, Wm. Courtney, E. M. Stafford, H. R. Finke, W. H. Ramsey and Lee Montgomery.

Their car was attached to the north bound M., K. & T. train Tuesday night. Upon arrival at Hannibal the car was sidetracked and the party continued to occupy it until their return this morning.

The members of the Hannibal Country club met the Sedalia delegation at breakfast time and from that moment the Sedalia crowd were their guests. After breakfast they were driven out to the beautiful links of the Hannibal Country club, where they spent the forenoon getting the lay of the land and practicing for the matches in the afternoon.

In the afternoon the matches were played. As was expected, the Hannibal team defeated the Sedalia team overwhelmingly. Out of the sixteen matches played by the menonly three Sedalians won. These were Dr. J. S. Rogers, Lawrence Yeater and J. H. Rodes.

After the matches were over, dinner was served at the club house, and after dinner a dance was given in honor of the guests.

All of the Sedalia party are enthusiastic in their praise of the hospitality of the Hannibal people and also of the beauty of the golf links and the skill of their golf players.

The Hannibal links are beautifully situated upon a bluff overlooking the Mississippi river. The ground is quite rolling and each hole presents a variety of problems to be solved by the golfer. The greens are a beautiful bluegrass turf. The course is shaded by splendid forest trees. The club house is beautifully located upon the highest point of the links.

The members of the Hannibal club did every thing for the comfort and entertainment of their Sedalia visitors, and the Sedalia party had a royal good time.

CHICAGO BANK WRECKER

THE CASE OF PAUL O. STENSLAND

It Is Said That His Imprisonment at Joliet Has Brought a Physical Collapse That May Result Fatally.

Chicago, July 25.—With less than ten months of his ten year prison sentence to his credit on the records of Joliet penitentiary, Paul O. Stensland, who wrecked the Milwaukee Avenue State bank and then fled to Tangier, where he was captured, may be released on parole.

Friends of the banker are circulating a petition in his behalf, alleging that imprisonment has caused him to suffer a physical collapse. A counter petition objecting vigorously to such action, signed by nearly all of the 20,000 depositors who lost their funds through the bank's failure, has been prepared. The movement to free Stensland has aroused a storm of protest among the victims of the banker's financial operations and this will probably be sufficient to prevent any action being taken at this time.

It is just thirteen days over one year since Stensland fled from Chicago, proceeding to New York, where he sailed for England. This was twenty-five days before news of the bank failure became public, when great crowds of enraged men and women swarmed about the bank building, demanding the return of their money and crying loudly for Stensland.

At that time the absconding financier was enjoying himself in Tangier, where he had arrived on July 28. While his victims were weeping and wailing about the doors of the bank he had looted, Stensland was carrying on a desperate flirtation with Mme. Yvette, an actress, in the Moorish town. Later he transferred his affection to Senorita Vittoria, a Spanish dancer, when she heard of her lover's crime.

Stensland was tracked by a Chicago newspaper man and was captured September 3, making a full confession, in which he charged Cashier Hering with being the sole forger and looter of $1,500,000. He pleaded guilty in Chicago on September 26 and the following day donned stripes at Joliet prison.

RIOT OVER BEEF

Jewish Women Vehemently Protest Over Raise in Price.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 25.—A number of the women in the Jewish quartere of this city this morning invaded the shops of the Kosher butchers, who have increased the price of beef, and drove out all prospective customers, broke windows and poured kerosene oil over the meat.

Several of the women were arrested and taken to the police station, and the others followed, making such demonstrations that it was necessary for the police to use force in dispersing them.

CHAUTAUQUA, EIGHTH DAY

WIRELESS TELEGRAPH AT 8:30

Prof. W. B. Patty in Popular Lecture on Modern Scientific Marvels—This Is One of the Big Cards of the Chautauqua.

(Thursday's Daily.)

Prof. W. B. Patty, who comes tonight to the Chautauqua, delivers a lecture which is wholly unique. He sets up and operates a complete wireless telegraph plant, showing how messages may be sent wirelessly, machinery controlled or mines exploded from a distance and with no wire connection. Samples of radium are exhibited, and every one in the audience has an opportunity to see how the wizard metal sends forth forever its streams of force. By means of liquid and solid gases, the effects of extreme cold are shown; familiar objects change their nature and properties entirely. Prof. Patty uses no magic, save the magic of science, but his performances are as wonderful as any magician's. He introduces into his lecture some startling predictions of the possible future application and extension of the principals which he illustrates.

The Amphion male quartet, which gave its opening concert this afternoon to a well pleased audience, will sing again tonight and return Sunday for afternoon and night preludes.

At the request of music lovers who can not attend in the afternoon, tonight's "prelude" will be extended to a generous length.

Sedalia music lovers have had an opportunity to compare the singing of three sterling quartets on successive days, and each one of the three has its ardent supporters. The audience of yesterday afternoon was much pleased with the program rendered by the Boston Ladies' quartet. The singing and reading of the second alto in the quartet was especially pleasing, and the concert singing was noticeable for for its beauty of expression and "shading."

The lecture of Morimoto, the Japanese professor and wit, last night drew a good crowd, though it deserved an even better one. Dr. Morimoto's description of the customs of his countrymen and the beauties of his country were much enjoyed, as were the many stereopticon pictures illustrating what he said. His plea for continued friendship between the United States and Japan won a response of enthusiastic applause. American styles and American editors were made the target of his wit, to the great enjoyment particularly of the ladies and the editors present. All seemed in sympathy with the spirit of his closing picture, which showed the stars and stripes in union with the sunflag of Japan. One of his many striking utterances was to the effect that a triple alliance between England, Japan and the United States, would bring peace to the whole world.

Those who compare the printed prospectus of the Chautauqua with the program announced above for Friday will observe some changes. We are assured by the management that the program has been much bettered thereby. Miss Vickery, the whistler, was already on the program. Miss Elinor Lincoln is a gifted impersonator, rendering dramatic scenes from standard plays, and vividly delineating each and every character. Dr. J. M. Kersey is highly recommended as a popular lecturer of the best type.

The Rev. Farr to Preach.

The Rev. F. K. Farr, D. D., of Lebanon, Tenn., whose Bible school lessons and teaching at the Chautauqua have proved so entertaining and instructive, will preach for the pastor, Rev. S. S. Martin, at the First M. E. church at 11 o'clock next Sunday morning, and a treat is in store for all who may be fortunate enough to hear him.

ANGRY WITH 'RED' DAVIS

FORMER SEDALIA BALL PLAYER MIXED WITH HIS CAPTAIN AT SPRINGFIELD.

HURLBURT WAS ON THE WARPATH

The Latter Was Arrested for Disturbing the Peace and Was Fined Five Dollars and Costs in Police Court.

"Red" Davis, a former Sedalia ball player, now with the Topeka White Sox, must be having a strenuous time of it in the Western association this season, judging from the following dispatch of the 24th from Springfield, Mo.:

After a disgraceful brawl with some of his players Monday night, Captain Hurlbut, of the Topeka team, was arrested by two officers and arraigned in police court, where he was yesterday morning fined $5 and costs, which brought the amount up to about $15.

Monday night after the game Officers Hooper and Noe were passing by the Ullman hotel, where the Topeka team was quartered, and noticed that the men were engaged in a fierce quarrel among themselves, but passed on, thinking little that they would come to blows.

Hardly had they passed by when a stream of profane abuse fell from the lips of Captain Hurlburt which was directed at "Red' Davis. The stormy outburst ended in the challenge: "Just come up stairs, and I will whip the devil out of you." This sentence sounds mild when contrasted to some of his utterances.

Immediately Captain Hurlburt rushed for the stairway, and the other members of the team tried to head him off and reduce his temperature, but he pushed his way through the crowd, saying: "I've got a room up there and I'm going up there to whip somebody."

Davis followed, and when the head of the stairs was reached Davis received a blow in the face. Two officers were on the scene immediately and attempted to arrest the belligerent captain.

Hurlburt resisted arrest and it was necessary to subdue him at the point of arms. The patrol wagon was called into action and Hurlburt was taken to the police station, followed by the band of Topeka players, who were wondering what would become of their frenzied leader.

Secretary Fred Robbins, of the Topeka team, appeared and went on Hurlburt's bond, and the Topeka captain was released until Tuesday morning, when he appeared at the police station and was fined $5 and costs. The Topeka management made efforts to suppress the story.

May Be Mr. Whitson's Horse

(From Thursday's Daily.)

Acting Chief of Police Wood today received a letter from Henry Kempf, a blacksmith of Pilot Grove, who gave a slight clue that would lead to the finding of the runaway horse of ex-Policeman Frank Whitson, which has been lost for over two weeks.

Mr. Kempf says in the letter that an animal answering the description of the lost one was seen near there on the 13th or 14th of this month, but has not been seen since.

BAR ON SHORT SLEEVES

PEEK-A-BOO SHIRTWAISTS ALSO SHUT OUT OF CATHOLIC CHURCHES.

THE EDICT HAS BEEN RECEIVED

Costume That Is Barred Is Fit Only for the Kitchen and the Wash Tub, According to the Rev. Father Kuhls.

Kansas City, Mo., July 25.— The edict recently issued by the archbishop of Toronto, placing a ban on the peek-a-boo waist and short sleeves of the women parishioners of Catholic churches, has been received and adhered to in the two Kansas Citys.

Henceforth, regardless of the flight of mercury, the woman who enters a Catholic house of worship can expect at least a word of criticism from the officiating priest. It has been decreed that short sleeves are entirely out of place at a sacred service.

While the edict issued by the Toronto archbishop is not necessarily mandatory on all Catholic churches in this country, yet his abhorence of the peek-a-boo and short sleeve waist at religious services is felt by a majority of the Catholic clergy, and the "boycott" threatens to become general.

Fr. Anthony Kuhls, pastor of St. Mary's church, Kansas City, Kan., says that while he has not warned his congregation against the wearing of the abbreviated summer raiment, yet he heartily endorses the stand taken by the Canadian bishop.

"The short sleeve is all right and proper in its place, but that place is in the kitchen and at the washtub at home," said Fr. Kuhls.

"The real modest housewife will even roll down the sleeves of her waist when within her own home at the knock of the door. She realizes the immodesty. I can not conceive how the same woman, possessed with like modesty, can enter the church at sacred services with less refinement."

Fr. Kuhls states that he has no objection to the short sleeve, providing that the arm and hand is clothed with a long glove. He intimates that hereafter confirmation and holy communion will be denied those who appear in the peek-a-boo and short sleeve.

Bishop Thomas Lillis, of the diocese of Leavenworth, was asked last night as to his opinion of the edict. He replied that he had not read the letter from the archbishop, but his faith in that dignitary is such that he does not question the good judgment of the edict. Of female attire, its uses and abuses, he expressed the greatest ignorance.

"I don't doubt," said the bishop, "that the Catholic women understand what is properly worn inside a church during divine services. But I had never thought of the subject before it was called up by the archbishop's letter. I believe the suggestion is a good one and it will stand."

Rev. Fr. McNamee, pastor of St. Patrick's church of this city, stated today that the edict in question had not yet been received by him, and no ban will be placed upon his parishioners.

In fact, Fr. McNamee is of the opinion that the much-talked of edict "should be permitted to simmer down until we know just what there is in it."

Rev. Fr. Christian Daniel, assistant pastor of Sacred Heart church, stated that no such edict had been received by the pastor, Rev. Fr. Nieberg, and he was of the belief that the newspapers had made a mountain out of a mole hill.

DEATH OF MRS. REESE

The Funeral at Miller's Chapel, Near Lookout, Friday.

(From Thursday's Daily.)

Mrs. Henry Reese, wife of a well-known farmer living a mile west of Lookout, died Wednesday night of heart trouble, aged about 50 years.

Besides her husband, she is survived by five children. Mrs. Reese was a most estimable Christian woman, and all who knew her will read of her demise with sorrow.

The burial services will be conducted at Miller's chapel, two miles northwest of Lookout, at 11 o'clock Friday morning.

Mr. Blair Growing Weaker.

Dill Blair, former owner of the cigar stand on East Second street, who has been laid up for months with locomotor ataxia, is now confined to his room at the residence just west of the Windsor bar. Mr. Blair is gradually growing weaker, although he is able to move around a little with the aid of a cane.

(From Thursday's Daily.)

Miss Skillman, who has been a student at Hill's Business college for the past eight months, accompanied by Mr. Holt, the traveling manager of the school, left for her home at Rockville, Mo., on the morning train today. They will attend a picnic tomorrow and expect to have a fine time and also secure many new students.

DEATH WAS THREATENED

BLACKMAILING LETTERS ARE SENT TO ARMENIANS IN NEW YORK.

A WOMAN IS BOUND WITH CHAINS

Her Picture Is Drawn on the Missives, With a Dagger Through Her Wrists—The Case Is Being Investigated.

New York, July 25.—Repeated efforts were made to induce the assassin of H. S. Tavshanjian, the millionaire rug dealer, who was shot in Union Square Monday afternoon, to name the men who are believed to be at the head of the secret society which ordered the assassination.

Although the prisoner insisted that he alone was responsible for the crime, it is known that the police expect to arrest a prominent Armenian.

The arrest may be delayed a few days, so that the police here can cooperate with the authorities of Chicago, Boston and Providence in trying to capture all the leaders of the secret society.

The district attorney's office learned that the rug dealer was only one of ten wealthy Armenians in this city who were to be killed unless they contributed $10,000 each to a demand made upon them in the name of the "Huntchak."

Tavshanjian was the first to die because he had used his influence to keep the other merchants threatened from contributing.

All of the leading Armenian merchants in the city held a meeting and agreed to aid the police in reaching the headquarters of the blackmailing band, but so great is the fear among the merchants that they begged that their names be not mentioned in connection with the case.

Samples of the blackmailing letters have been turned over to the authorities. These are marked by a roughly drawn figure of a woman in chains, with a dagger stuck through her wrists.

The Armenians declare that the leader of the blackmailers in this country is living in luxury in Providence, but that his wealth is nothing compared with that of the real leader of the blackmailing and murder schemes, who is said to travel about and have no settled residence in this country.

SET HERSELF AFIRE

Angry Because Husband Wouldn't Praise Her, Chose Terrible Death.

Little Rock, Ark., July 25—Angered because her husband, a laborer, refused to praise her for saving money, Mrs. Anna Lowe today poured a gallon of coal oil on her head, told her little daughter to watch the show, and then set fire to the oil.

The woman's body was burned to a crisp in the sight of the daughter and other relatives, who were attracted by the child's screams.

Ice Men Are Working Extra.

Owing to the severe hot weather, which has made an increased demand for ice, employes of the Sedalia Ice, Light and Fuel Co. are putting in much extra time these days.

For the past ten days the force has been working all day and a part of the night, and still the demand is not satisfied. The call for ice is not alone local, so the management of the company states.

IT IS SLOW BUT SURE

THREE NEW SUSCRIPTIONS TODAY

One of $25 From Frank B. Meyer and Brother, One of $10 From W. H. Powell and Another of $10 From Dorn & Cloney Co.

Convention Hall Subscriptions.

Democrat-Sentinel	$25.00
Citizens' National Bank	25.00
Moerschel Brewing Co.	25.00
Huckins Hotel	25.00
E. G. Cassidy	25.00
Porter Real Estate Co.	25.00
Sedalia National Bank	25.00
Third National Bank	25.00
Antlers Hotel	25.00
John T. Collins Fur. & Car. Co	10.00
John T. Heard	10.00
Jule Schmid	5.00
Grant Crawford	10.00
J. D. Donnohue	5.00
W. H. Powell	10.00
Frank B. Meyer & Bro.	25.00
Dorn & Cloney Laundry Co.	10.00

While the raising of the convention hall fund has not gone forward as rapidly as was first expected, the Democrat-Sentinel is not in the least discouraged, but on the contrary still believes that the people of Sedalia will not permit this splendid opportunity to get away from them.

While the confidence as to the ultimate success of the endeavor continues, still it would look much better for the people if the entire fund could be raised quickly and spontaneously, thus showing that the business and professional men of the city are alive to the advantages offered and eager to seize upon them.

Right now there ought not to be a business firm in Sedalia whose name in not on the list for a generous amount, nor a professional man, nor a public official, nor a real estate owner not in active business.

It might be different if the amount necessary was a large one, if an entire building were to be paid for. But here is a $70,000 structure offered gratis—practically given to the city—and only an insignificant $790 is required to put us in full possession.

Three more subscriptions are reported today—one of $10 from W. H. Powell, whose bank has already given $25; one of $10 from the Dorn & Cloney Laundry Co., and another of $25 from Frank B. Meyer & Bro., who, although they have very few investments remaining in the city, are always more than ready to help every enterprise along. Messrs. Meyer in sending their contribution wrote the following encouraging letter:

"Manitou, Colo., July 23, 1907. Democrat-Sentinel, Sedalia, Mo. Gentlemen—We sincerely hope that you will be successful in raising the amount necessary for convention hall. It will afford us pleasure to contribute $25 to the fund. Very truly yours.—Frank B. Meyer & Bro."

Only $790 is now all that remains to be raised. Who will be the first to start toward making it an even $700?

HANGED A WOMAN

Attempted Lives of Two Officers and Would Not Plead for Mercy.

Moscow, July 25.—Madam Fromkina, who in March last attempted to assassinate Gen. Reinbot, ex-prefect of police; and later wounded the inspector of the political prison here, was hanged at sunrise today.

The authorities made every effort to persuade the woman to plead for the mercy of the emperor, but she obstinately refused to the end. Her parents interceded with the throne, but their pleading was without avail.

Strike Nearly Broken.

Duluth, Minn., July 25.—It is the general impression among the business men in the range towns that the backbone of the ore men's strike is broken, and the men appear to be gradually going back to work today.

THE LATEST BAD WRECK

The wreck on the Pere Marquette railroad last Saturday was one of the worst railroad disasters that has occurred in this country. It belongs, like most of the others which have preceded it, to the class caused by criminal carelessness. It is a repetition of the old story of negligence and faulty management which has made American railways the terror of the world.

There was no more excuse for the slaughter of a coach load of passengers and the maiming of two or three other coach loads than there would be for a company of soldiers to "forget" and fire loaded instead of empty cartridges at each other in a sham battle.

The railroad company says the collision was caused by the conductor of the freight train disobeying orders. This may be true. It is evident that the men in charge of one of the trains erred, provided others connected with the operation of trains did their duty. A railroad company is quick to place the blame for accidents where it results in the least censure for the executive department. An employe or a minor official is made to bear the brunt of responsibility for catastrophes in practically every instance.

No matter how weak, careless or inefficient may be the management of the company, those in higher authority seldom are brought to account or punished for what in reality is a monumental crime. Broadly speaking, it may be said there is never an excuse for a wreck costing a large number of lives. There should be no bad wrecks at all, and there would be none if railroads were better regulated by law and made to provide the proper safeguards in equipment and signals.

WRETCHED PERE MARQUETTE DISCIPLINE.

There are higher authorities than mere employes responsible for railway wrecks when railroad discipline permits station and rail signals to go unlighted, watchmen and agents to desert their posts, conductors and engineers to forget orders simultaneously and train dispatchers to loaf at their duties. This is the record against the Pere Marquette company for two days of railroading, revealed by two of the most inexcusable, unpardonable disasters that ever disgraced American railway managements.

Both the accident at Salem, which cost thirty-three lives, and that at Sebewaing, which, though it killed but two men, contained all the possibilities of a great catastrophe, reek with criminal negligence which does not stop with those directly involved.

What kind of a system is the Pere Marquette operated under? Is there any system at all? What kind of discipline prevails on a railroad where the petty quarrels of a station agent and a bridgetender, causing signal lights to go unlighted and abandoned night after night, are ignored and unpunished by the company officials? Do the Pere Marquette officials imagine they are operating a stage coach or lumber camp?

These questions are not to be answered by employes. They stand out in large, incriminating letters against the management. The agent or the night watchman at Sebewaing are directly guilty of the killing of Conductor Kelley nd Engineer O'Leary, it is true. Likewise, the engineer and fireman of the freight which crashed into the Ionia excursionists, are immediately to blame for the awful sacrifice of life which their negligence entailed.

But back of this guilt there is a deeper, darker, heavier responsibility which falls on officials, on the officers under whose direction employes execute their duties, and on still higher officers who hold to account their inferiors, and who in the last analysis are the authors of the discipline and system in vogue, whether it be good, bad or indifferent.

In the case of the Pere Marquette, it is plainly evident that the system is bad and the discipline deplorable. It comes as near being demorilization as anything could be and still retain the title of a railroad. But with characteristic cunning, the company has already set about to cover up the glaring evidences of managerial guilt and to shift the blame entirely upon the shoulders of irresponsible employes. Such official criminality, however, as has been exposed should not be allowed by the state to pass. Grand jury investigations are demanded and the indictment of officials who, hiding behind the weakness and vulnerability of others, are the real culprits to blame for these crimes.

TARIFF EVASION.

The apparently authorative announcement is made by Senator Hopkins, of Illinois, following a conference with President Roosevelt, that the administration will make no attempt to have the tariff revised until after the next presidential election. This was to have been expected even in the absence of a formal announcement, but it has the effect of making the issue sharp as to when the tariff is to be revised and by whom. It informs the country and those commercial, industrial and agricultural interests which are especially concerned, that the stand pat policy inaugurated following the passage of the Dingley pill is to be consistently preserved throughout the term of President Roosevelt. There is to be no change now. Whether there is to be a change in the immediate future, provided the republican party were returned to power, the administration refuses to say. The future must take care of itself.

The stand taken by the republican party has all the earmarks of opportunism. It is adopted in the hope of being able to continue to those special interests, with which its inner organization is closely allied, the protection they have so long enjoyed at its hands, and in the belief that the greater interests of the country at large may be inveigled into acquiescence by the exploitation of policies turned more deferentially to the popular ear.

The announcement from Oyster Bay is to pave the way for a repetition of the vague and insincere utterances of the platform of 1904 by the convention of 1908, masked by the intangible promise to revise the tariff "when the country demands it," or when the republican party is convinced that it will promote the welfare of the nation. It represents a disposition to trifle with public opinion so long as its forbearance can be traded upon to advantage.

It means that the same evasive policy will pe pursued after the election that was in force before.

MAY INDORSE HEARST

Thomas L. Hisgen Boomed for Governor of Massachusetts.

Springfield, Mass., July 24.—Thomas L. Hisgen, of this city, will be boomed for governor of Massachusetts, with a possibility of the indorsement of Willian Randolph Hearst for the presidency, at a monster banquet to be held tonight at the Highland hotel under the auspices of the Massachusetts Independence league. Many of the most prominent lights of the democratic party in the New England states will speak.

In Western Massachusetts the Independence leagues, which are organized among the mill and shop men, appear to have agreed as a unit on the effort to nominate Mr. Hisgen for the governorship, and it is certain he will be a great factor in the conventions of the league and the democratic party in the fall.

His nerve and audacity in waging an independent warfare against the Standard Oil company have made him the choice of all foes of monopolies and trusts. Hisgen was the author of the anti-monopoly bill which created such a stir during the recent legislature, but his efforts to curb the trusts were nullified by the state solons.

Willing Workers' Social.

"The Willing Workers" of the Dunksburg Christian church will give and ice cream supper on the church lawn on Saturday evening, July 27th. All are invited to this supper. Come early, stay late, bring friends and spend a pleasant evening.

ONE DEAD; SIXTEEN HURT

THE ROADMASTER WAS A VICTIM

Traffic Is Delayed Eleven Hours—Poplar Bluff Sends Medical Aid to Suffereres—Freight Wreck Ties Up Traffic.

Poplar Bluff, Mo., July 24.—Fifteen passengers were injured in a wreck near Neelyville at 9:03 o'clock Monday night when Iron Mountain passenger train No. 1, due here at 8:05 p. m., was derailed. The train was in charge of Engineer Culver and Conductor J. W. Buckler.

A mile this side of Neelyville the passengers were aroused by a jar, breaking glass and crashing timbers. The baggage car, chair car and smoker had been overturned and the sleeper derailed.

Passengers Wedged Under Seats.

Many of the passengers were wedged under seats. Those fortunate erough to escape rescued their companions. No one was killed, the injuries consisting of minor cuts and bruises. Word was sent to this city, and Drs. Eskew and Norwine, with the officials of the road, left on a special train. The following is the list of passengers injured.

G. W. Courtwell. Mulkytown, Ill.
S. B. Brown, Newark, Ark.
Jesse Rogers.
Mattie Lamar, Neelyville, Mo.
Margaret Rogers, Walnut Ridge, Ark.
Samuel Dickerson, Corning, Ark.
W. T. Sawyer, Munger, Mo.
W. H. Hudson, St. Louis.

William Ashley, Ash Hills, Mo.
John Mixon, Magnolia, Ark.
O. C. Hammill, DeSoto, Mo.
L. L. Hilton, Rosehill. Mo.

Cause Not Definitely Known.

The cause of the wreck is not known positively. Railroad men say a broken shoe on one of the tourist cars became loose and dropped on the rail.

The wrecker was sent from Hoxie and cleared the tracks in eleven hours. All southbound trains were held here and all northbound at Neelyville.

Collision Kills One.

A rear end collision on the Butler County railroad at 7:30 yesterday morning resulted in the death of George Baker, roadmaster, and serious injury of Charles Sutt, a laborer on the work train. Two trains started out yesterday morning, one closely following the other. Near Baileys, a small station about fifteen miles south of this city, the safety plug on the forward engine blew out and the rear engine collided with the caboose.

Roadmaster Baker was standing on the pilot of the rear engine, and seeing that a collision could not be prevented, tried to jump, but was caught between the engine and caboose. One leg was cut off, the other was mangled and he received internal injuries, dying an hour later.

To Illinois for Burial.

Sutt was in the caboose and was cut and bruised about the head. Baker lived in Marshall and is survived by a widow and five children. His former home was at Raleigh, Ill., where his body will be taken for burial. The Masons will take charge of the funeral.

J. R. Baker, a son, is night operator at the Iron Mountain depot in this city. He was at the wreck of No. 1 at Neelyville, and on receipt of the news of his father's death left for his home at once.

Freight Wreck Ties Up Traffic.

Whiteside, Mo., July 24.—Traffic on the St. Louis and Hannibal railroad was resumed yesterday after a tieup of twenty four hours.

Freight train No. 8, northbound, was wrecked three miles north of this place yesterday morning, five cars being derailed, tearing up the track for 100 yards.

FIVE SHOTS WERE FIRED

By Turnkey at His Father, One of Which Will Prove Fatal.

One of the wounds inflicted a puncture of the lower lobe of the right lung and will prove fatal. Both men were drunk.

They had not been on speaking terms for some time, and when the father told the son to see what an umbrella mender was doing in the front yard the son became angry and made a remark which caused the father to go after him with a ball bat.

SHE WAS PART NEGRESS

THE FIGHT ON FOR TWO MILLIONS

Illinois Man Sets Forth That Ante-Nuptial Contract Cancels All Interest in the Woman's Dower Rights.

Clinton, Ill., July 24.—Commissioner of Pensions Vespasian Warner, one of the prominent members of President Roosevelt's official family, has gone into court in this city and sworn that his stepmother, Mrs. Isabella Robinson Warner, is of negro blood.

The climax in the Warner will case, in which the commissioner of pensions is vitally interested as an heir of the late John Warner, came yesterday with the filing by the respondents of an amended answer making the charge.

The estate of John Warner, who was Commissioner Warner's father, is valued at nearly $2,000,000, and the widow is fighting for her dower rights.

Vespasian Warner, who is executor, alleges, however, that an antenuptial agreement made by Isabella Robinson, later, Mrs. John Warner, and his father, stands in the way of the widow's claims, and that, furthermore, his stepmother deceived his father by concealing from him the fact that she was part negress.

The attorneys for the commissioner of pensions have secured depositions from some parts of the United States, principally in and around Norwalk, Ohio, where Stephen Robinson, father of Mrs. Warner, originally resided.

Mr. Robinson was a farmer and is said to have been of swarthy complexion. In the late 50s his neighbors circulated the story that he was an octoroon. The election officials of Norwalk refused to allow Stephen Robinson to vote.

He indignantly denied the charge, hired an attorney, who is now spending his last days in California, and fought the case in the courts. The aged lawyer has made deposition that the court found in favor of Stephen Robinson.

ROAD BED IS NOT SO BAD

MISSOURI PACIFIC TRACK IS ABOUT AS GOOD AS THAT OF OTHER ROADS.

SO SAY MEN WHO INSPECTED IT

President Sheppard, of the Trackmen's Union, Wanted Commissioners to Look Only After Bad Pieces of Track.

"There will be no formal report on the condition of the Missouri Pacific tracks in Kansas until Mr. Kanavel, the chairman of the board, is able to prepare it."

This is the statement given out by the state board of railroad commissioners.

Commissioners Frank Ryan and C. A Ryker arrived in Topeka Tuesday, but Mr. Kanavel, who was taken sick as a result of overwork while on the inspection trip, is still unable to be about.

"We certainly had a hard trip, and did a thorough job," said Commissioner Ryan, who is nursing a pair of badly sunburned wrists. "We tramped over mile after mile of that right of way, and saw good track, bad track and indifferent track.

"Those places where the track is in dangerous condition are marked, and the trains are all given 'slow orders' when passing over that track. The track is being put in shape, and the railroad people are repairing it as fast as possible."

"What did Sheppard think about the inspection.," was asked

"He said it was a blankety-blank outrage," said Mr. Ryan. "He didn't want us to look at any portions of the track except the bad portions.

"Mr. Sheppard seems to have some motives in this matter which are other than to bring about the improvement of the road. He wants some publicity for his trackmen's union, and I guess he is getting it.

"He seems to be trying to force the officials of the road to recognize the existence of his union. As a strict legal proposition, he had nothing to do with the recent investigation. It was made solely on the initiative of the board.

"We could not take up Mr. Sheppard's complaint because the issues had not been made up. But we had the authority to make an investigation on our own initiative, and that's what we did.

"I think it is likely that the Missouri Pacific track is in no worse condition than the tracks of other roads. I looked at some Frisco track while we were out and found it to be in as bad condition as the Missouri Pacific. However, we expect to examine the tracks of other railroads. It will not be limited to the Missouri Pacific.

"I don't know when we will resume our investigation We want Mr. Kanavel to recover from his illness first."

WANT TO PAY THEIR DEBT

That of the Epworth M. E. Church is Less Than $1,000.

The members of the Epworth M. E. church have set out to pay off the debt on their church, less than $1,000, in a truly novel manner. Here is the reading on a strip of paper the ladies are circulating:

"The members of the Epworth M. E. church, of Sedalia, Mo., propose to pay off their church debt. They can get the required amount by going one mile, or a little more, after it, but must travel this mile one foot at a time.

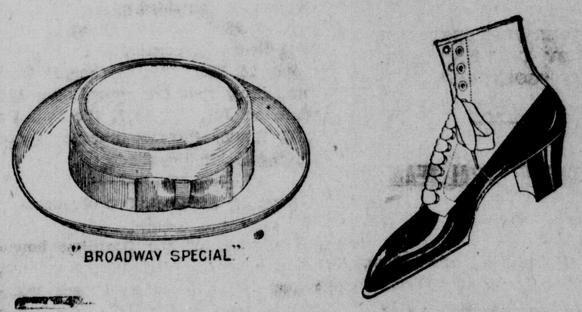

"Sixteen pennies side by side will cover one foot. Will you travel one foot for them by filling this strip with pennies? Your assistance will be greatly appreciated.

"Directions: Stick sixteen pennies on the other side of strip, fold in center so that pennies come together, place in an envelope and return same to person who gave you this strip."

Muskegon, Mich., July 24.—Cherry growers of Michigan have made young fortunes this season, realizing the highest prices for their crops that they have had in many years.

While the crop is only an average one, the quality is excellent and the high prices offered have made the owners of fruit groves exceedingly prosperous.

In many instances outside buyers contracted for the entire crop.

There were pitiful scenes when it was learned that the Elder had picked up none of the Columbia's life boats or rafts. Indeed, the vessel had not even sighted any of the missing rafts or boats and had picked up none of the victims after leaving Eureka.

All night long an eager throng waited on the docks here for the arrival of the Elder, hundreds of persons coming from Portland and various other towns in Oregon and Washington in the hope of greeting their loved ones. Among the crowd, however, were many sad-faced relatives, hoping against hope that their dear ones would come on the steamer. Cheer upon cheer was given when the steamer was sighted and touching scenes of joy were enacted when the survivors finally landed and embraced their waiting relatives. Happiness was mixed with the grief of those who at last turned away, knowing those they sought had indeed been lost.

SPECTACLE OF A NEGRO

He Had Hanged Always Before the Sheriff's Eyes, He Shot Himself.

Lake Butler, Fla., July 24—Because the hanging of a negro in the line of his official duty preyed on his nerves Sheriff Joseph B. Bennett, of Starke county, blew out his brains at his home here in the presence of his wife.

About two weeks ago the sheriff adjusted the noose and sprung the death trap for a negro who had been convicted of murder. Although a brave man, Sheriff Bennet could never bear the sight of suffering, and he could not rid himself of the memory of the negro dangling and choking at the rope's end. He got so he could not sleep, and told friends he would never again have peace of mind.

Yesterday morning, after a sleepless night, he rose, secured his pistol and shot himself, while his wife was still in bed. Mrs. Bennett awoke just as her husband's body fell across the bed.

A SLEEPING BRIDE

Wheeling, W. Va., July 24. — Mrs. Margaret C. Ore, wife of a guard at the Moundsville penitentiary, arose in her sleep about 5 o'clock yesterday, and in her night robe walked into Chautauqua lake and was drowned. Her body was recovered.

They had been married only three weeks and had taken a cottage at the Moundsville camp grounds for the summer. The husband, half asleep himself, saw his bride leave the room, but supposing she had forgotten to attend to something before retiring had paid no further attention.

About an hour later her absence frightened him and he went out in the yard. Just then a policeman rushed up and said that a watchman had seen the woman leap into the lake a few minutes before.

A GREAT CARD TONIGHT

SEVENTH DAY OF CHAURAUQUA

The Amphion Male Quartet at 2:30 Tomorrow Afternoon—It Is the Biggest Quartet on the Road This Year.

(From Wednesday's Daily.)

Prof. Kokichi Moromoto is tonight's attraction at the Chautauqua. Having made a great success on the same circuit last year, he has been brought from Japan, where he is a professor in the Imperial University, Sapporo, to lecture again this season at the Bartell Chautauquas. Last night at Emporia, Kan., he was heard by nearly 5,000 people. Prof. Moromoto completed his education in this country and was a member of the University of Chicago faculty for a time before accepting his present position in Japan. His lectures are enlivened by touches of wit which men of his nation know how to employ as deftly as their artists do the brush and pencil. The Chautauqua representatives here who have heard him elsewhere regard him, they say, as one of the strongest attractions of the whole course.

The Boston Lady quartet, which gave a concert this afternoon and will furnish the prelude concert tonight, is a group of young singers from the east, whose voices, separately or together, are very good. Among their selections are many of a high order of music. The work of their reader, the second alto, in the quartet, is especially pleasing.

Last night an interested and attentive audience heard the farewell concert of the Lyric quartet. (Outside the fence there was observable also an interested "gallery" of spectators in vehicles. Manager Casey should send a ticket seller round there evenings.) The Lyric ladies repeated by request several selections, and had saved some of their best music for the last.

The lecture of Prof. J. N. Tillman, of the University of Arkansas yesterday afternoon was something of a disappointment. President Tillman does not fall short in appearance and delivery, but his brief address lacked unity and left no very definite impression. He was greeted after the lecture by several old friends here in Sedalia, some of whom were heard to speak enthusiastically of the work he is doing at the head of the University of Arkansas.

A splendid male quartet comes tomorrow afternoon and the prelude concert in the evening—the Amphions. Four big, jolly singers who know all the quartet "stunts," they are said to be.

BUILDING AND LOAN

Fifteenth Annual Meeting of the United States League.

Chicago, July 24.—A welcome address by Mayor Fred A. Busse and the annual address of President Charles F. Bentley, of Grand Island, Neb., constituted the opening features of the fifteenth annual meeting of the United States League of Local Building and Loan associations at the Palmer house this morning.

Reports of the treasurer, John K. Gamble, of Philadelphia, and the secretary, H. F. (Wednesday's Daily.)

Mrs. W. D. Wallace, for many years a resident of Sedalia, who removed with her family to Denver, Colo., several years ago, died in that city last Saturday. The Denver Republican of Sunday had the following account of her death, and it will be perused with sorrow by a legion of friends in Sedalia:

Wallace, proprietor of the Grant hotel, 1922 Grant avenue, died yesterday at St. Luke's hospital of tumor of the brain after an illness of several months. She is survived by her husband and two sons, Dr. Gurney G. Wallace, of Denver, and Professor J. K. Wallace, of Los Angeles, Cal. She was born in Missouri, but had lived in Denver a number of years and was widely known here.

She was a sister of Mrs. John W. Smith and Mrs. Harry B. Tudor, of Denver, and Miss Belle Kipper and Mrs. John MacArthur, of Monte Vista.

CHARGES JURY TAMPERING

Murder Case Dismissed and New Information Filed.

Nevada, Mo., July 24.—A sensational turn was taken yesterday in the trial of Harlow Humble, charged with killing F. W. Whipple, a photographer of this city, at Horton last January.

When court met yesterday Prosecuting Attorney Coil succeeded in inducing Judge Thurman to allow him to dismiss the case. The county attorney declared that the jury had been tampered with. The court said he would allow the dismissal because there was a suspicion in the mind of the prosecutor.

Mr. Coil at once filed a new information against Humble, charging the same offense and including John Humble and August Shell, relatives of the defendant, charging them also with the killing. The three were released on $10,000 bonds and the case continued to the next term of court.

WAS BURNED TO DEATH

Sawdust Was Smoldering and the Boy Leaped Into It.

Pikeville, Ky., July 24.—Not knowing there was a smoldering fire beneath a pile of sawdust at Fuller's mill, on Dry Fork, this county, Frank McCownan, the 11-year-old son of Wesley McCownan, jumped into the sawdust, and his legs were burned to a crisp below his knees.

He was rescued by the mill hands, who were attracted by his screams, but he died in agony a few hours afterward. The fire was hidden by the fresh sawdust that had been thrown on the pile.

THREE MEN NOT TO HANG

THE EXECUTIONS WERE ALL TO HAVE TAKEN PLACE JULY 25.

ONE WAS ON WAY TO DEATH CELL

News of Commutation Received After the Sheriff Had Started With the Prisoner—Case of Brooks Brothers.

Salem, Mo., July 24.—Sheriff H. L. Fitts, of Reynolds county, accompanied by four deputies, having in charge William Spaugh, who was under sentence of death for the killing of Sheriff Polk, of Iron county, and was to have been executed at Centerville Thursday, left this city for their home town yesterday, ignoring all requests to defer starting until the governor could be heard from as to his death sentence.

The Reynolds county officials had gone about ten miles when the prosecuting attorney of Dent county received a message from the governor, directing the return of Spaugh to the Dent county sheriff, where he had been for safe keeping since his conviction.

That order was at once forwarded to Sheriff Fitts, who complied with it, and Spaugh is here waiting transportation to Jefferson City, to enter upon his sentence in the penitentiary.

Brooks Brothers Not to Hang.

Jefferson City, Mo., July 24.—Gov. Folk yesterday afternoon commuted the death penalty imposed upon Amalek and John Brooks, of Iron county, to life imprisonment in the penitentiary. The brothers were to have been executed Thursday of this week for the murder of John Clemonds, in Iron county, two years ago.

The killing was largely the result of a drunken quarrel. While Amalek Brooks and a man named Mead were fighting some one shot the former. John Brooks, thinking Clemonds had shot and killed his brother, shot and killed the latter.

While the Brooks brothers were inmates of the Ironton jail, ex-Senator Burton, of Kansas, was committed there on a sentence from the federal court. He became much interested in these brothers and has ever since been writing to Gov. Folk in their behalf.

As a reason for granting the commutation, Gov. Folk says that a careful examination has led him to the conclusion that it is not such a case of cold-blooded murder as would justify the infliction of the death penalty.

$45,000 SHORTAGE ALLEGED

Ousted County Clerk at Louisville Is Arrested.

Louisville, Ky., July 24.—William J. Semonin, retiring county clerk, was arrested yesterday afternoon on a charge of embezzlement, it being alleged that he is short in his accounts as clerk of Jefferson county in a sum approximating from $45,000 to $53,000.

Semonin's office was declared vacant by the court of appeals in the election contest cases.

When interviewed last night, Semonin said a full examination of the books would show that he did not owe the state over $22,000, his collections for June and July, which he had the legal right to withhold until he had been given his quietus, and which will be paid in full.

Want to Compromise.

Lincoln, Neb., July 24.—The five express companies doing business in the state today offered to reduce their rates 15 per cent instead of complying with the recent reduction made by the railroad commission and the latter have taken the matter under advisement.

SUIT FOR COMMISSIONS

MAJOR B. AND PROF. G. L. COLEMAN ARE PLAINTIFFS IN THE CASE.

BUICK MOTOR CO. THE DEFENDANT

The Sedalia Gentlemen Ask for $525 and Interest as Commission on Autos Sold Messrs. Cloney and Crouch.

(Wednesday's Daily.)

Major B. Coleman and his brother, Prof. G. L. Coleman, through Attorneys Barnett & Barnett, today instituted suit for $525, with 6 per cent interest from March 6, 1907, against the Buick Motor company, of Kansas City, in the Pettis county circuit court, alleging that defendant is indebted to them in the sum stated.

In their petition plaintiffs state that in February, 1907, they went to Chicago, where an automobile show was being held, for the purpose of securing the agency for selling the defendant's automobiles in Pettis county.

According to the allegations of the petition plaintiffs were directed to meet defendant's representatives at Kansas City in March 1907, which they did and closed a contract whereby they were to be the sole and exclusive agents for selling automobiles for the company in this county, to receive as pay for their services 15 per cent of the sum realized from the sale of machines.

Accordingly, so the petition states, plaintiffs induced W. H. Cloney and W. J. Crouch each to purchase one of the defendant's automobiles for the total sum of $3,500.

Later, however, other representatives of the company sold Messrs. Cloney and Crouch their automobiles, and the defendant soon after canceled their contract with the plaintiffs, wherefore, plaintiffs ask the court to grant them their 15 per cent commission amounting to $525, coupled with interest.

HIS TROUSERS STOLEN

St. Louis Man, Charles L. Newcomb, Taken Home in a Barrel.

St. Louis, Mo., July 24.—Charles L. Newcomb, vice president of the Newcomb Bros. Wall Paper company, knows how it feels to be abroad in the land without any trousers. Mr. Newcomb's trousers were purloined yesterday while he was swimming, and he went home in a barrel.

Business along the route was suspended while Mr. Newcomb was homeward bound. The distance he traversed was half a mile.

Later he found the trousers nailed up near the pool with "For Sale" placarded on them.

She has expressed a desire, for this reason, and her great interest in the property, that it shall be the permanent home of the Teachers' college, and that women shall always be admitted to its privileges.

WROTE ORIGINAL 'DIXIE'

COL. WILLIAM HAYS, OF LOUISVILLE, KENTUCKY, IS DEAD AT 70.

HIS NAME WILL LIVE IN HISTORY

For Years Veteran Editor and Song Writer Had Been With Courier-Journal—Correspondent in Civil War.

Louisville, Ky., July 24.—Colonel William S. Hays, author of the original "Dixie," veteran river editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, poet, song writer and musician, died last night at his home in this city at the age of 70. He was stricken with paralysis ten days ago.

Colonel Hays was born in Louisvile July 19, 1837, and, with the exception of his college days and the time spent in the south as a war correspondent in the civil war, all of his life was spent here. He wrote more than 500 hundred ballads, many of which became famous.

While in the south as a war correspondent Colonel Hays became captain of the Gray Eagle, a steamboat on the Mississippi river and while engaged in this work he wrote the song, "My Southern Sunny Home." For this work he was arrested by General Butler, who was in command of New Orleans. He was soon afterward released, however. On his return to Louisville Colonel Hays again took up newspaper work, in which he continued until his recent illness. He is survived by a widow and two children.

The plantation songs of Colonel Hays, who wasn't colonel of anything except Kentucky, are sung throughout America. "Roll On, Heave Dat Cotton," "Keep in the Middle ob de Road," "The Old Log Cabin in the Lane," "Mollie Darling" and "Way Down Yonder in de Co'nfield" are heard often.

He rarely published his plantation songs, but composed them and gave them to popular minstrels. All he wanted was the name of being the author. Of his more than half a hundred published songs less than half had a heavy sale after publication. Next to "Evangeline" was "Molly Darling," and the latter ones are mostly local in sale.

Several years ago he entered into a contract for a year to compose a song for each month and write a poem for each month. "Old-Fashioned Roses Are Sweetest" was the only ballad that made a hit and his writings showed plainly mechanical construction. During all this time he edited his river department with a weekly negro dialect department, "Old Ike," and edited the weekly edition of the paper.

Editorials written especially for the weekly had frequent references to the "latest sweetest song of the gifted song writer, Colonel Will S. Hays." He would not hesitate to write at any time a complimentary notice of himself, and the happiest day he ever knew was when the magnificent Ohio river steamer, the Will S. Hays, was launched.

Colonel Hays always claimed the authorship of the original words of "Dixie," and said that he was responsible for the arrangement of the music. His version of Dixie was written before the outbreak of the civil war, but the words were considered so seditious that the writer was arrested and compelled to change them. By that time "Dan" Emmett, the minstrel, had written his song and his publisher had it copyrighted.

OPERATION IS DELAYED

LONG ENOUGH FOR KENTUCKY MAN TO MARRY AND THEN MAKE HIS WILL.

OCCUPIES WARD WITH HIS BROTHER

Immediately After the Marriage Ceremony Bridegroom Called for a Stenographer and His Will Was Made.

Louisville, Ky., July 24.—Ten minutes before going on the operating table at St. Joseph's infirmary, Ben H. Dvis, a well known young business man of this city, was married to Miss Maud Voris, of Burgin, Ky.

Immediately after the ceremony he called for a stenographer and dictated a will, leaving all his property, both real and personal to his wife, and after the will had been attested in the proper legal form, he notified the physicians and surgeons that he was ready.

Davis had been a sufferer for several weeks from an attack of appendicitis, but the trouble had not been considered serious until last Monday as he was en route to Burgin to call on his fiance.

So great was his suffering upon arriving at Burgin that arrangements were made for a quick return to Louisville, and, accompanied by Miss Voris and her parents, the sufferer arrived here.

Shortly after the operation the young bride was notified that it had been successful.

Davis' brother, Tyler Davis, was operated upon three weeks ago for an attack of appendicitis and the brothers now occupy the same room at the infirmary.

New York Sport Gossip

Special to Democrat-Sentinel.

New York, July 20.—"Terry" McGovern, the former featherweight champion who was reported a few months ago to be hopelessly insane, has returned to his old home in Brooklyn, where he will likely engage in business with his father-in-law. He has spent several months at Stamford, Conn., since his release from a sanitarium and has almost entirely recovered his shattered health. Booze was the downfall of "Terry," and he is not ignorant of this fact, having steadfastly stuck to the water wagon since his release from the shokum house. He declares to his friends that he will never enter the ring again, but he says it in a half-hearted way that is not very convincing to his admirers, who are already talking of a possible match.

A battle between Gunner Moir, the English heavyweight champion, and Sam McVey, the young negro fighter from Bakersfield, Cal., is now being arranged and will probably be pulled off in September before the National Sporting club of London. McVey is now in Paris as the protege of Frank Bernard, the millionaire South African diamond merchant and sporting man. Bernard first met McVey in a Bakersfield dance hall and induced the colored giant to accompany him on a tour of the world. Although Sam is not yet a pugilistic wonder, he would probably find Moir "easy picking."

Tommy Murphy and Bert Keyes have been matched to fight in Brooklyn next Thursday evening. The lads will settle their differences in a six round battle before the Crown Athletic club. Both are clever boxers and the fistic engagement ought to be the best pulled off by the trolley dodgers in many years.

Benny Yanger and Walter Little, the Chicago scrapper, are slated to go ten rounds before the Summit Athletic club, of Fort Wayne, Ind., in the near future, the exact date to be somewhere between July 25 and August 1. The men will weigh in at 128 pounds at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of the fight, which will probably be pulled off in the open air.

Jaw Grim, the Italian pugilist with the jaw of iron, which he insists is proof against knockout blows, has filed a suit against George Young, of Philadelphia, in which he asks $20,000 damages for false arrest. About a month ago Grim was arrested when about to board a steamer for Europe, where he was slated for several boxing contests, on the complaint of Young. The charge was that of taking some jewelry belonging to the Philadelphia man. Young failed to show up at the hearing and Grim was discharged. He has now countered with a suit for damages.

Tony Caponi, the Chicago Italian boxer, has been offered matches with either Joe Thomas or Kid Ketchell, who came near defeating Thomas on the Fourth of July. Down in Quakertown Caponi is also a drawing card and the promoters there have offered to arrange a meeting with either Harry Lewis, Honey Mellody or Sailor Burke. The latter will probably meet Joe Blackburn, the colored welterweight, in Philadelphia next week.

New Haven fans will have what promises to be a stiff contest Monday night, when Willie Riley, of Boston, meets Jeff Doherty, of New Haven. The men have signed to fifteen rounds at 135 pounds at 3 o'clock on the day of the bout, which will be under the auspices of the Eagles, who will hold a big field meet in New Haven Monday. Willie Mangold and Jimmy Murray, of New York, will fight ten rounds in the preliminaries.

That a "faking" fighter can collect his share of the purse is the decision of the Pennsylvania courts. Harry Greenfield, the English pugilist, sued Billy McCarney, manager of the Washington Sporting club, Philadelphia, for $426 due him for boxing Willie Fitzgerald. Greenfield was beaten in two rounds and McCarney alleged that the Englishman deliberately laid down and was not entitled to any share of the receipts. Greenfield sued McCarney and the courts decided in his favor.

John L. Sulivan and Jake Kilrain have been matched to meet each other again! What a front page scarehead this would have made in the good old days when both men could fight. Nevertheless, John and Jake have really formed a partnership and will go on the road on an exhibition tour in which they will illustrate, as nearly as the disabilities of age will allow, the blows and different happenings of their great Mississippi battle of July 8, 1889. The rival gladiators, who have combined to chase the nimble sixpence all over this fair land, will begin their tour in about a month. Kilrain is said to have balked on the deal when it was first broached by John L., but after a further pow-wow the pair shook hands and the contract was closed. They declare they will attempt to show just how the blows were struck, and they are both under the impression that they have not forgotten any important features of their most effective wallops. The stunt should make a great hit, as every fight fan is interested in that historic tussle for supremacy.

RUSSIANS WERE SLAVES

THEY TELL A FEARFUL STORY OF ABUSE IN A COAL MINE IN OHIO.

BUT FINALLY MADE THEIR ESCAPE

If What They Tell of Experiences Is True, It Is Likely Their Employers Will Be Vigorously Prosecuted.

Cleveland, O., July 25.—Clad only in ragged shirts and overalls, their poor shoes worn almost to shreds, footsore, weary and famished, two miserable creatures painfully dragged their way into the Hebrew Shelter home here.

They were Sam Goldberg, 22, and Charles Silberman, 26. They had tramped from a coal mine near Canton, where they claimed to have been held practically as prisoners. They had not had a mouthful to eat en route. Goldberg and Silberman are natives of Odessa, Russia. To escape the massacre about nine months ago they came to New York. A man offered them work.

"Want a nice, easy job in a lumber yard at $3 per day and free transportation?" he asked.

They hired out. Instead of being shipped the short distance they expected, they found that upon alighting from the train they were at a coal mine near Canton.

Goldberg and Silberman can not recall the name of the place. They were badly treated. A guard was placed over them and their railroad fare was deducted from their pay, with other minor expenses.

They were forced to buy supplies of the company store, where exorbitant prices were charged. The men claim that bread was sold at 10 cents a loaf and other supplies proportionately high.

At night they say that guards were placed over the men to prevent any attempted escape. Unable to stand such treatment longer, Goldberg and Silberman finally escaped.

Observatory at Greenwich.

In the year 1675 King Charles II. of England founded the Royal observatory at Greenwich, in order that astronomical observations might be made for the assistance of sailors. The history of the observatory has been the history of chronology and of the practical side of astronomy. Its work and its standards have become distinctly international. The meridian of Greenwich now determines the longitude of the world.

TO DEDICATE A SCHOOL

THE NEW $20,000 BUILDING OF SACRED HEART PARISH ON THIRD STREET.

SEPTEMBER 22 IS THE DATE FIXED

Bishop Thos. F. Lillis, of Kansas City, Kansas, to Officiate—Many Visiting Priests Will Be in Attendance.

The handsome new $20,000 brick school of Sacred Heart parish, on West Third street, will be dedicated by Bishop Thomas F. Lillis, of Kansas City, Kan., on Sunday, September 22, when a number of visiting priests and other prominent Catholics will be present.

The new building is rapidly nearing completion, and will open for the fall and winter term on the same date as the public schools, the date of which has not been fixed.

"I have made it a rule," said the Rev. Fr. Neiberg to the Democrat-Sentinel, "to open and close our school on the same dates that the public schools open and close.

"If we were to open a week or two earlier it would be difficult to get our pupils interested at the start, as they would think they should be out if the pupils of the Protestant schools were. The same is true as regards the closing of the school.

"It was our original intention to have the school dedicated the latter part of August, before opening for studies of the fall term, but Bishop Lillis suggested it would be better to wait until the weather became cooler.

MAN SLAIN; WIFE SILENT

IT IS SAID SHE FEARS ASSASSINATION IN THE EVENT SHE TALKS.

A SENSATION MAY BE UNEARTHED

Mrs. Joseph Loth, of Pittsburg, Kas., Says That Her Husband Was Shot by Accident—Will Investigate Case

Pittsburg, Kan., July 24.— While driving along the public highway between Yale and McCormick camp yesterday afternoon, Joseph Loth, of McCormick camp, aged 80, was shot and killed, the ball passing through his heart.

There is a mystery in connection with the cause of the tragedy. Loth was accompanied by his wife and she declared he shot himself, but there are suspicious circumstances connected with the affair which lead to the belief that Loth was the victim of an assassin, and that his wife possibly knows who committed the deed, but for fear of being killed herself, dares not tell.

Loth was, it is said, mixed up in the riot and tragedy at McCormick camp Sunday evening, and yesterday of Charles Secomb, one of the victims afternoon he had gone to the home of the Sunday tragedy.

It was while on his way home from the Secomb home in Yale to McCormick camp that he was shot.

A man and woman who drove along the road, passing Loth and his wife, state that they were out of the buggy and that other parties were with them, evidently quarreling or talking. The shooting occurred shortly afterwards.

Mrs. Josie Bassert, of McCormick camp, a sister of Joseph Loth, states that her brother was on the way back from the Secomb house, and that while he was taking his revolver out to shoot a dog it was discharged accidentally and the ball killed him.

Haggard Tells a Story.

In a letter to the London Times concerning a statement recently made that he was responsible for the land policy of the British government, H. Rider Haggard, the well-known novelist, tells the following story:

'I am reminded of a story of a certain Daniel Lambert of a Boer who, being caught napping by savages, rushed to his horse exclaiming, 'O, Lord, help me mount!' So abundant and vigorous was the heavenly aid vouchsafed that he not only reached the saddle, but flew right over it to the veldt beyond, and as the Zulus came up and speared him was heard to declare reproachfully, O, Lord, thou has helped too much!' In like fashion I may say, 'O government, thou has helped too much!' for I have always aimed, not at revolution, but reform."

Intoxicated Insects.

Citizens of Pasadena, Cal., have made complaint to the authorities that bees and flies, intoxicatted on fermented orange juice, have become a nuisance that should be abolished. They say that the proprietors of a nursery near the town have a large force of Japanese employed extracting seeds from partly decayed oranges, and in the process of squeezing the seeds from the oranges a small stream of orange juice flows from the place, which attracts millions of flies and bees, which become intemperate. The nursery uses the seeds for planting.

Be Singular.

Are we growing too much alike? Some one has asked this disturbing question, and some one else—evidently in a panic—has been rushing about "taking stock" of the appearance of people in general. They may be prejudiced when they record that we have no higher ambition than to be mistaken for our neighbors; still, it cannot be denied that few of us are content to rest in a condition which marks us as singular among the many, even though it may be singularly beautiful, healthy, happy, or wise.—Lady's Pictorial.

Churchyard Under the Sea.

When the coast erosion commissioners visited Walton on the Naze yesterday they were shown a spot north of the pier, and about a mile from the shore, which was formerly a churchyard, says the London Daily News. A quarter of a century ago the tombstones could be seen under water at ebb tide, but since then the sea has further encroached, and even when the tide is extraordinarily low and the sea clear the old burying ground is scarcely discernible from the sea level.

THE LID BOOMS DRINKS

WOMEN AND CHILDREN DRINK NOW

As They Never Did Before, According to the Brewers—Sales of Beer Have Been Increased Very Largely.

St. Louis, Mo., July 25.—Despite the most stringent application of the lid for two years, reports received by License Commissioner Alt from all breweries in St. Louis show that more beer was manufactured and sold in St. Louis for the year ending May 30 last than for any previous year.

These reports are mandatory as the city receives a revenue of one dollar tax on every thousand dollars of beer sold. The reports show that the sales of St. Louis breweries aggregated $13,778,219.97 for the year 1906-7 as against $12,971,595.68 for the preceding year, a gain of $806,624.29.

Brewers and their sales agents interviewed by the St. Louis Times assign these reasons for the increased consumption of beer:

Primarily, the strict enforcement of the Sunday closing law.

The increase in population of St. Louis.

The increase in manufacture of bottled beer.

Better shipping and storage facilities.

Cheapness as compared with other beverages.

When the lid was first clamped down brewers were doubtful of the effect it would have on their business. There was a decrease for a short period, and then, they say, the sales began to augment.

The first result, they say, was to increase the amount of the amber flued handled by the numerous groceries throughout the city. Men who had been accustomed to dropping into a saloon on Sunday for a few drinks, denied of this privilege, began to stock their refrigerators and icechests with a few bottles to last them over the Sunday drought. This practice grew.

Instead of drinking a bottle or two as formerly, they drank three and four. When friends dropped in to spend a few hours it was necessary to lay in a larger supply for emergencies. Heads of families who had never kept any kind of liquors in their homes also began the custom.

In this way beer found its way to the table at meals. Women who had never drank before learned to take a glass or two and the children came in for their share.

This preparation for the Sunday drought was quickly realized by grocers. With the orders of edibles for Sunday dinners customers included the number of bottles of beer needed and the breweries were compelled to put on extra teams and drivers to handle this additional trade for the grocers.

The beer feature of the grocery business has grown to such immense proportions that it is seriously considered by Excise Commissioner Mulvihill and his deputies.

One of the most stringent regulations being enforced by Commissioner Mulvihill is that no grocer may keep open his place of business Sunday if he has any display of liquor in his windows. The penalty is revocation of the offender's license.

Only two breweries show decrease in sales for the past year, the Home and Obert companies. These are the corporations which operate Forest Park Highlands and West End Heights, where the receipts for Sunday sales of beer were unusually heavy. The lid is held directly responsible.

Brewers say that the enforcement of the Sunday closing law has a tendency to put the small saloon out of business, especially on the north and south sides, where the laboring elements live. The masses have no refrigerators in which to store bottled beer and in these sections the consumption of draught beer was heaviest.

Since the excise commissioner has begun a drastic crusade against the many "social clubs" that sprang up like mushrooms even the laborer has taken to providing chests in his home and laying in a stock of beer like his wealthier neighbor.

C. W. Staudinger, general sales agent for the Anheuser-Busch Brewing association, declared Wednesday that the brewers, speaking from a purely business standpoint, are not opposed to the lid.

In fact, they favor it, and have instructed their agents to warn saloon keepers whom they supply to live up to the law relative to Sunday closing and selling to minors lest they lose their licenses.

TRUE LOVE'S ROUTE

IS IT ALWAYS THROUGH THE HEART?

Sometimes "Py the Stummick," According to Philosopher Who Backs Up His Assertion with Conclusive Individual Proof.

Max, the Washington Heights saloon keeper, sat in his cheerful back room the other night and defied the weather. Being Sunday the chain was on the door, and the presence of two policemen in uniform, who had dropped in for a little something warm to offset the effect of the uncharitable elements, contributed to the general atmosphere of security and comfort. Half a dozen of Max's most neighborly patrons added to the homelike tone.

Max himself smacked his lips and sighed a large and comprehensive sigh of satisfaction as he arranged the trayful of delicacies which had just been brought down from his cozy flat and constituted his Sunday evening meal. He had let the bartender go for the day and was on duty himself; hence he could not join his family at supper. He carefully preened his long blonde mustache, hid the brilliance of the big diamond that glowed like a headlight on his spotless shirt front, and then when apparently about to tackle the repast, smacked his lips yet again and paused to remark:

"Lofe comes py the stummick. Yes, mine friends, lofe iss not py der head or py der heart, but py der stummick. I prove it 14 years ago, und mine vife upstairs, she would tell you der same.

"Fourteen years ago I wass a bartender, und for six monts I keep company py a girl what wass der sister of mine vife upstairs. I get T'ursdays off, und I take supper mit mine girl und her mudder. Dis vun, mine vife, wass a cook mit a private family, und so for six monts I nefer see her on T'ursdays. But ve hat goot suppers; mine girl, she cook 'em.

"But vun T'ursday I find mine girl iss not home. Her sister, mine vife, is home, und she cooks der supper. Ach, Gott; vhat a supper! She hass all mine favorites—Hungarian goulash, home mate peach pie and French coffee mit cream. Ach, such a cook! Such a supper! Py and py I say:

"'Vhere iss your sister?'

"'She's gone mit a girl py a play,' she says.

"'I hope she staye there,' I says.

"Well, mine friends, dot night I propose to my girl's sister, der cook. Lofe comes py der stummick. She says: 'O, vhat vill mine sister say?' 'You tell her I say for her to go py der devil,' says I. In one week we wass married, und dot is mine goot vife uptsairs dere 14 years.

"Now, I always have goot food, und I am der boss. Vhen I speak eferyboty in der house shuts up. I say lofe comes py der stummick."

"Good for you, Max," chorused the listeners.

"But one ting I vill not do," continued the saloon keeper between bites. "I vill not vheel der baby carriage. I vill valk alongside, mine hants behint mine back, und smoke my cigar. I vill not hantle der milk pottle. What does mens know about such t'ings? Noddings. I am a practical mans like mine fader and mudder.

"Plenty vifes send der husbands oudt on Sunday mit der babies und der milk pottles. Der babies cry und der mens stuff 'em mit milk. In der night they get sick. On Monday comes de doctor. All der veek it takes to get der babies well again. I vill not push der baby carriage."

And the audience, in tones of conviction chorused:

"You're all right, Max, ol' feller; we wouldn't, either."—Washington Post.

War Bills.

War is not only hell, as Gen. Sherman said, but it is an expensive hell. The world is to-day paying for the cost of two recent and highly expensive wars, and yet some persons wonder where all the money goes. The South African conquest cost Great Britain a cool $1,200,000,000, and the Boers must have spent a sixth as much in defending their little republics. To get a foothold in Manchuria and drive back the Russian armies took a tidy $1,100,000,000 from the Japanese treasury, while ambitions for a greater empire cost the czar $1,500,000,000. In these two wars, not counting the many millions which Germany is still paying out in southwest Africa, the stupendous total of $4,000,000,000 was expended. A large part of this may be set down as utter waste of capital.

Preachers Still Needed.

The crusades are out of date, but the spirit which prompted them—the spirit of devotion, piety and self-sacrifice—is not extinct. If it were there would be no use for the churches to keep their doors open. The minister who preaches the fundamental truths of religion and brings them home to the hearts of his hearers as truths which should be the greatest interest of life will neither lack hearers nor influence. There is a place for him in every community in the civilized world.

DIRTY CARS THE RESULT

Railway Officials Expect Settlement of Strike.

Des Moines, Ia., July 25.—While the striking carmen of the Rock Island at Des Moines joined the shop employes at a picnic yesterday, train after train passed through Des Moines with uncleaned coaches.

Windows were dirty, oranges and banana peels mingled with the dust on the seats and floors, and intense heat made the day coaches anything but comfortable.

No preparations have been made to fill the strikers places, and officials expect an adjustment within a few days. The strikers threaten to appeal to the interstate commerce commission.

HIVING A SWARM.

Methods Followed by a Successful Bee Keeper.

When bees get to hanging out on the hive, I raise it from the bottom board one inch, and then if they do not stop raise them higher, explains a bee keeper in Farm and Home. I think that raising them is a very good preventative of swarming. A certain percentage of colonies will swarm in spite of anything that may be done. It takes but little to induce swarming during a good honey harvest. Bees left to themselves will generally send out one swarm in a season, often a second swarm, sometimes a third.

In hiving swarms it frequently happens that the bees take wing when dumped in front of their new hive instead of crawling into it. We have had a few swarms go back and cluster on the same limb after they had been carried to the hive two or three times. We recently got the thought that a little spraying would overcome this difficulty. We have tried it on a few swarms with good results.

While the cluster is yet hanging on the tree take a small spray pump, or syringe, and wet the cluster of bees with one or two quarts of cold water, then take your swarm catcher shown in the cut and turn it up under the cluster and get them into it. They will cling together while you carry them to the hive, and when dumped in front of it they will not readily take wing again, but will run into it. Swarms that have been hived a few hours and seem restless, or cluster mostly on the outside of their hive, can also be made more tractable by a little spraying. Bees need a great quantityof water during summer, and the beekeeper can supply their needs in a few minutes where it would require hours for the bees to gather it themselves.

Put the new hive containing the swarm on the old stand, exactly where the old hive stood and place the old hive close beside the new one. The next morning as the bees go forth from this hive to work, they will nearly all return to the old place and enter the other hive, making that colony very strong, and in condition to store a great crop. The other colony will be so reduced in numbers that the bees will not be moved to swarm again and will fall in with the first queen that hatches and probably give much surplus. It will make a good strong colony by the close of the season.

CURFEW FOR THE NEGRO

STARTED BY ATTACK ON A PRIEST

Monroe City, Mo., July 25.—The curfew rings for negroes in Monroe City since a crowd of black men attacked the Rev. Fr. Thomas Mulien, pastor of Holy Rosary church. Many well known citizens have banded themselves together to keep the negroes from the streets at night.

While the citizens have no stipulated organization, they maintain an agreement to make the negroes obey them. Placards have been posted, warning negroes that if they are not off the streets at 8:30 p. m. each day the must "suffer the consequences."

A bell is rung at this time each night, and now all Monroe City negroes wend their way homeward when the curfew rings.

Two negroes of Shelbina heard of Monroe City's curfew and determined to show their friends here that they would not obey it. The negroes came from Shelbina several nights ago. One of them, known in Shelbina as a desperado, tore down one of the placards. The marshal caught him in the act and locked him up.

The negro was released at midnight, in time to catch a train for Shelbina, but before he could reach the station, a crowd of citizens seized him and, carrying him to the eastern edge of town, gave him forty-nine lashes. The desperado's companion was found and the two negroes were told to take the first train for Shelbina and never come back. They have not been in Monroe City since.

Several nights ago a crowd of drunken negroes were quarreling in front of the Rev. Fr. Mullen's residence. When he tried to quiet the prowlers the priest was struck on the head with a whisky bottle and injured.

The boys of Monroe City began the campaign to keep the negroes off the streets at night, but when they carried their methods to the extreme, older citizens took the matter in hand. The city council has discussed the trouble, without taking action.

Stoutsville, eight miles southwest of here, will not allow a negro to stay in town. Monroe City is settled largely by southerners.

THE DAIRY

Varying Types Which Are Desirable in the Dairy Cow.

The illustrations show some of the types of udder that are more or less desirable in the dairy cow. At A is shown as clearly as possible an ideal udder. The udder need not be over large. It should have sufficient capacity, however, to allow the continued growth of numerous cells for the manufacture of fat and its emulsification with the other constituents of milk. It should be evenly balanced before and behind, and the central suture should be well developed and strongly attached to the body. It should be covered with soft, fine hair, be free from fleshiness and closely attached to the body. It should come well forward on the stomach, stand out well behind the thigh, and be carried well up on the posterior portion of the body. It should, of course, have good circumference and if properly proportioned it will add beauty as well as utility to the cow.

At B is shown the udder as it should collapse on itself, like a glove, after the milk has been extracted. A poorly balanced udder is shown at C; it is hung too far forward on the stomach, and the teats are not evenly placed, resulting in a great inconvenience in milking. At D may be seen an udder deficient in the front part; at E an udder that is also lacking in balance, the teats are not evenly placed, and there is not sufficient development of the anterior region. At F is shown a small udder. There is not enough room here to permit the rapid elaboration of milk, which is of prime importance, as it is a well-known fact that a comparatively small quantity of milk is in the udder when milking commences. It is likewise thought by scientists that the ability of a cow to produce milk abundantly is determined by the number of cells, and hence the area available for the distribution of blood and other fluids through the udder tissues is too restricted in this instance. A small udder is therefore a poor sign of deep milking powers, though a large udder, owing to the character of tissues that may enter into its formation, is not always a sign of a good milker. At G is shown an udder much cut up, with very large and poorly placed teats; it is what may be termed a restricted udder, though rather elongated. At H appears another form of udder often met with, which, like that shown at G, is somewhat funnel-shaped in character. It has not sufficient rotundity, does not come well forward on the stomach, and is lacking in development in the posterior region.

DAIRY NOTES.

The scrub farmer will keep scrub stock.

Starving the young animals in the dairy saves feed, but that is all.

The savage dog has no license on the farm and especially around the dairy.

A few good rules consistently followed will accomplish greater results than much wisdom and little practice.

It is a mighty poor cow that will not respond to good care and good food. She should be sold to the butcher forthwith.

Milk with dry hands. The man who milks with wet hands is usually very careless as well in the other details of the dairy business.

A man who abuses his stock has about as much chance of reaching that Better Land as the Golden Rule has of being worked to death.

It's a pretty good plan to have arrangements made so that the stock can get in out of the storm should one come up while the family is away.

An exchange tells about a man who becomes ill at the smell of butter. Now, we feel sorry for such a man. Either he has not had any of the real article or he has a complex nervous system that we hope isn't contagious.

The first, and all important, point in selecting a cow is to note the size of the udder; whether it is large, uniformly placed with teats placed at the proper distance, to note whether the udder is flabby and not fleshy, which is particularly apparent immediately after milking.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER PRAISING PE-RU-NA.

MRS. GERTRUDE McKIERNAN, 216 Neosho street, Emporia, Kas., writes:

"I suffered very much with a severe cold in the head and was always complaining of feeling tired and drowsy. When my mother suggested and insisted on my taking a few bottles of Peruna, I did so, and in a short time I felt like a new person. My mother praises it very highly and so do I."

Confidence in Pe-ru-na.

Mrs. M. F. Jones, Burning Springs, Ky., writes:

"We have been using Peruna for some time and have no hesitancy in recommending it for the thousand and one ailments of humanity.

"Peruna has gained full confidence and a permanent stay in our home."

DENOUNCES THE SYSTEM

Attorney Darrow Makes Great Assault Upon State of Society.

Boise, Idaho, July 25.—In resuming his address to the Haywood jury this morning Clarence Darrow took up the defense of Jack Simpkins' flight after the arrest of Orchard. The attorney's voice was hoarse as the result of yesterday's long effort, and he spoke today only with the greatest effort.

Darrow in commenting on Simpkins for remaining in hiding during the present trial, brought out a bold accusation against the jury when he said: "Possibly a year hence every man who has not been hanged can get a fair trial in Boise."

Darrow continued his strong note of abuse of Orchard and condemnation of the Pinkertons. Reaching the labor troubles in Colorado, he threw aside all restraint, and in spite of a reminder from the court, he rose to even greater heights than yesterday in his assault upon the existing order, past and present.

He will finish this afternoon, after which Borah will begin the last speech for the state.

TRANSFERS AS WEDDING FEE.

Peculiar Emolument Offered to City Pastor.

The pastor of a little Lutheran church up town was called upon the other day to perform a hurried wedding ceremony, says the New York Press. As the couple left the bridegroom thrust a fat envelope into the clergyman's hands. The grateful smile that immediately overspread the clergyman's face gave place to a look of chagrin when later the envelope was found to contain a roll of green street car transfers.

"Why don't you have a regular fee, say two or three dollars, and collect it in advance?" asked a friend to whom he indignantly told the story.

"Because," explained the minister, "even though a mean trick like this is sometimes played on me, I come out better in the long run by leaving it to the other's generosity. My people being mostly poor, they generally give me one or two dollars; but an occasional $10 or $20 pulls up the average. And once, the year of the Pan-American fair, an actor who came in here to be married, said he could give me nothing but a pass to Buffalo and the fair. I gladly accepted, and that is the only outing my wife and I have had for years."

ANOTHER COMET 'SCARE'

THURSDAY NIGHT IT WILL BE AT THE NEAREST POINT TO THE EARTH.

T WAS DISCOVERED JUNE 9, LAST

Will Be the Last Opportunity to See an Important Sky Wanderer, It Is Claimed, Until the Year 1910.

Washington, July 24.—Opportunity for another "comet" scare will be afforded tomorrow, when, according to local observers, the Daniel comet will make its nearest approach to the earth, being but a mere matter of 70,000,000 miles away. The celestial visitor is now said to be steadily approaching and can be seen tonight and tomorrow night with the naked eye. It will rise about 1:30 o'clock in the constellation of Tarsus.

This comet was discovered on the 9th of June by Prof. Daniel, of Princeton University, who later lost track of it. On June 22 it was re-discovered by Prof. R. T. Crawford, of the University of California observatory. Since that time it has been steadily growing brighter and for the last few nights has been plainly visible through an opera glass. Its location tonight, when it may be seen by anyone who care to look, will be near the bright star Albedam. According to the orbit computed by the government scientists, the planet is moving in a plane inclined nine degrees to the ecliptic. It will make its nearest approach to the sun on Sept. 3, when it will be less than 50,000,000 miles away.

Washington astronomers say that this will be the last opportunity to see an important sky-wanderer until 1910, when Halley's comet is due to make its nearest approach to the earth on May 16. In February and March of that year it will be nearly stationary in the constellation of Pisces. At that time it will be faintly visible to the naked eye. In April, 1910, it will be in conjunction with the sun, becoming then a morning star, visible shortly before sunrise. The maximum of brightness will be reached in May and June, when it will appear as a shining light in the heavens.

The Halley comet appears at intervals of about seventy-five years. It was first observed, so far as history records, eleven years before the christian era, and it is delineated in the Bayeux tapestry in commemoration of its visit in the year of the Norman conquest. In 1545 it caused great alarm and brought forth a paperstitious Italian people.

The appearance of a new celestial visitor has led to a revival of the discussion regarding comets prevalent last March, when alleged scientific men gave forth many sensational interviews regarding the possibilities of a collision with the Marchette comet. At that time a statement purporting to come from Prof. Maeucci, the distinguished astronomer of the Vesuvius observatory, was published in nearly every paper in the world, containing the astounding announcement that the Marchette comet would strike the earth or come so near as to consume all the atmosphere.

While this dire prediction was not fulfilled, there are many Washington scientists who believe that such a catastrophe is by no means impossible and that it has occurred before in the world's history. It is alleged pal bull to quiet the fears of the su that life has been totally extinguished more than once by fires generated by passing comets, and that the growth of humna, animal and vegetable life had to begin all over again, requiring millions of years to reach its present development. That the terrestrial atmosphere is of a highly inflammable character there is no doubt, and many astronomers allege tht the tails of comets are made up of acetyline gas. If that is the case close contact with a comet's caudal appendage would likely be distinctly unpleasant for the inhabitants of the earth. The billions of feet of gas in a comet's tail would, if passing close enough, generate sufficient heat to cause the oceans and rivers to vanish in a moment in a cloud of steam, and instantly destrop everything that breathes.

A TRIP FOR ENGINEERS

AMERICAN INSTITUTE TO CONCLUDE ITS BUSINESS SESSION TODAY.

PAY A VISIT TO COBALT, CANADA

Two Lumbermen, McKinley and Darragh, Were the First to Discover the Hidden Wealth of the Mines.

Toronto, Ont., July 24.—Delegates in attendance at the convention of the American Institute of Mining Engineers will conclude the business of the session today and during the coming week will make excursions to Cobalt, the mining districts of southeastern Ontario and other points of scientific interest in the province.

Of greatest interest to the engineers and mine experts gathered here from all parts of North America will be the visit at Cobalt, despite the recent strike that has temporarily put an end to the industrial activities of Canada's richest silver mines.

Not many years ago the Cobalt district was an almost uninhabited stretch of barren, rocky country, free of vegetation and apparently worthless. Since then Cobalt has made many millionaires and will likely create many more.

Two lumbermen, McKinley and Darragh, were the first to discover the hidden wealth of Cobalt. Like many other great discoveries, the finding of silver in the barren hills was an accident. A log which McKinley had been chopping rolled over and disclosed beneath a mass of oxidized ore. Examining it closely, the lumberman excitedly called his partner. "Lead, by jimmy!" he shouted. Before saying anything about their find the men filed on a couple of claims. Then a sample was sent to a chemist, who reported that the "lead" was silver of an exceptionally good quality, running 2,300 ounces to the ton. Since the lucky day when McKinley overturned the log and found a fortune hidden beneath, the McKinley-Darragh mine has produced millions of dollars in silver and will doubtless yield as much more.

Most remarkable of all the many tales of lucky strikes in the Cobalt district is that of the building of the Temiskaming & Northern Ontario railroad. In the grading of this road the laborers threw aside hundreds of dollars worth of silver with each shovelful of dirt. It was only after rumors of silver finds had begun to circulate that the contractors commenced to investigate and within a week had found $200,000 worth of silver scattered along the right of way.

A RHODE ISLAND CLAM BAKE

New York, July 24.—Special trains on the New York Central railway today carried the staff of the New York railway company to Brewster, N. Y., to pay the annual visit to the country home of President H. H. Vreeland.

In accordance with his established custom, President Vreeland will give his employes a Rhode Island clam bake. In the afternoon Mrs. Vreeland will be the hostess at an informal luncheon at the Rest-a-While, the country home of the millionaire railroad magnate, where hospitality will be dispensed with a lavish hand.

WHERE'S ROAD TO GO?

STATE HIGHWAY ENGINEER IN KANSAS CITY ON OFFICIAL BUSINESS.

LOCATING EAST AND WEST ROAD

Three Routes Under Investigation—Chief Obstacle in Middle Route is the Need of a New Bridge Across the Missouri.

Curtis Hill, state highway engineer, was in Kansas City a short time this morning, but left for Jefferson City to investigate the possibilities of the "southern route," says Monday's Kansas City Times.

Mr. Hill is acting under directions of the state board of agriculture and is mapping out, in a general way, a route for the proposed road from Kansas City to St. Louis. Not much encouragement has been offered for a road on the south side of the Missouri from Jefferson City east, and it now seems probable that at least half of the road will be on the north side of the Missouri. But there are three possible routes for the west half of the road and these, for convenience, have been distinguished as the northern, middle and southern routes. Mr. Hill came from west St. Louis on what is called the middle route.

In a general way the northern route would cross the Missouri river at St. Charles and run through the county seat towns all the way from St. Charles to Liberty, crossing the river again at Kansas City, on the Hannibal bridge or the ferry until better accommodations can be provided. The southern route would cross the Missouri on the toll bridge at Jefferson City, climb the hills on what is known as the "ten mile drive" out of Jefferson City, already a rock road, follow the high ground into Moniteau county, where the five mile district roads would bring it easily into California, running west from there, probably by way of Sedalia and Warrensburg, and connecting with the Jackson county rock road system somewhere north of Pleasant Hill. Mr. Hill is working in that direction now, but has not completed the making of his plans.

The middle route he has practically surveyed and in a general way has canvassed. There are two things which must go together, finding a practicable route and people who are willing to stand the expense of building the road. There is nothing to gain finding a good route if the people who own the farms along such a route are not willing to contribute their share to the expense of road building.

The middle route runs through counties that are abundantly able to build the road and have expressed generally a willingness to do it.

But one important problem confronts them. A bridge must be built across the Missouri river between Howard and Saline counties probably in the neighborhood of Arrow Rock. It is estimated that the bridge would cost $150,000.

Saline county people say they will have no difficulty raising the money for the actual building of the road, but the two counties are not prepared to build the bridge at their own expense without help from the other counties concerned. They may ultimately do it by issuing bonds, but the two counties are conservative, and bonds are not popular in either of them. The bridge question is the most important obstacle in the way of the middle route being given preference. A toll bridge was suggested to Mr. Hill while he was at Marshall, but the highway engineer takes the ground that toll bridges, like toll roads, are out of date and the state ought not to encourage their building. The Jefferson City bridge and the Hannibal bridge at Kansas City, both toll bridges, are already built, so they may as well be used until the public can provide something better.

DARROW'S STRONG PLEA

ADDRESS WAS IMPASSIONED ONE

Wants No Compromise, but Asks Jury to Either Free the Defendant or Hang Him by the Neck.

Boise, Idaho, July 24.—Clarence Darrow, for the defense, this morning began the closing address for his side of the case in the Haywood trial. The court room was crowded.

Mr. Darrow in opening declared the defendant is in Idaho as an alien, brought fifteen hundred miles from his home into a community and before a jury which does not view a life of industry as the men accused of the murder of Governor Steunenberg have been taught to look at it.

Darrow asked for no compromise. "This murder was cold-blooded, deliberate and cowardly in the extreme," said he. "If this man, sitting in his office 1,500 miles away, employed an assassin to do this cowardly act, then you ought to hang him by the neck until he is dead, but for God's sake, men, do not compromise. If you believe the story that has been told against this man beyond all reasonable doubt, then take him and hang him.

"He fought many a hard fight against the persecutors who are hounding him into this court. He has fought them on the open battle field, and he is not a coward. If he has to die, he will lie as he has lived with his face to the foe.

"Bill Haywood is either innocent or guilty If he be guilty I have nothing to say, but, men, this case is a case of Orchard from beginning to end. There is nothing at all left in the evidence without him."

Darrow launched into a lengthy and bitter denunciation of Attorney Hawley. He assailed him as a hired man actuated by no other motive than to get the money of the state of Idaho that he might build another addition to his house.

LEAGUE TWICE BEATEN

SIX SALOON KEEPERS AND HOTEL PROPRIETORS WERE DISCHARGED.

POLITICS IS ENTERING CRUSADE

Society's Counsel Says Prosecutor May Be Mandamused for Refusing Warrants in the Mound City.

(From Wednesday's Daily.)

St. Louis, Mo., July 24.—In three departments of the city government the Missouri Law Enforcement League has met with reverses in attempts to prosecute suspected violaters of the Sunday-closing order and hotelkeepers charged with keeping improper houses.

The precedent was set by Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Falkenhainer Tuesday, when he refused to issue a warrant for the arrest of Michael Mooney, who has a saloon at No. 1006 Chestnut street. Justice O'Hallaron, sitting in the Dayton street police court, for Judge Pollard, yesterday discharged a clerk and proprietor of a hotel on Locust street and Leffingwell avenue, who were arrested on evidence collected by the league on a charge of selling liquor without a license.

Excise Commissioner Mulvihill followed suit, and for want of evidence dismissed six saloonkeepers charged with violations by representatives of the Law Enforcement League.

The men were before the excise commissioner on charges of keeping disorderly houses. They are: Butler & Steger, No. 2900 Morgan street; Charles Eggling, No. 2801 Franklin avenue; A. J. Cueny, No. 1401 North Grand avenue; James Smith, No. 2800 Locust street; William Hoeltger, No. 2700 Olive street; John Jackson, No. 827 North Ewing; Michael Mooney was released, but cited to appear upon a date not named.

All evidence was collected by methods to which Mr. Falkenheimer took exception.

Judge O'Hallaron, in dismissing the case against the Locust street hotelkeeper, made no comment, and reasons for summary disposal of the complaints remain unassigned. Yesterday morning it was said politics had entered into the controversy, and that several politicians had called up headquarters of the the league and requested that the matter be dropped for a few days on the ground that it might be construed to mean the republican party was in favor of a general lid-lifting.

Owing to the heat yesterday the meeting of the executive board of the league did not take place, but Attorney Blair talked over matters with members, and said later they would file affidavits with Prosecuting Attorney Moss, and if warrants could not be obtained there the circuit court would be asked to issue a writ of mandamus, compelling issuance.

Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Falkenheimer is in receipt of a letter of commendation from the Missouri Christian Conference. It is signed by George C. Stoll, No. 3808 Finney avenue, secretary of the conference and administers a severe rebuke to the Reverend Mr. Lindsay, of the league, and his detectives. It says:

"If the directors of the Missouri Law Enforcement League encourage reprehensible methods and principle is cast to the wind, then the time has come for the press and public to denounce the organization. The Reverend Mr. Lindsay cannot expect to have the sympathy of the public with him when he resorts to nefarious and infamous tactics to get the support of the few people who are suffering from an attack of moral hysteria. I congratulate you."

A CHANGE IN THE NAME

Meeting of Retail Grocers' Association Last Night.

(From Thursday's Daily.)

The Retail Grocers' association met last night and changed its name to the Retail Merchants' association, so that in the future dry goods men, butchers and all persons engaged in any form of legitimate merchandising may be eligible to membership.

The reports of the committees on the recent convention held here showed that the receipts from the printed programs were $329, and there is still in the treasury $200, after paying all of the expenses of the state meeting.

A vote of thanks was returned the Sedalia Elks and local newspapers for courtesies extended during the convention.

It was decided to appoint a committee on advertising, one of the members to be a newspaper man, with a view to protecting the members from all "fake" advertising schemes.

A JURY FAILED TO AGREE

MEN DELIBERATE TWO DAYS IN CASE OF ILLINOISAN WHO SUED BANKER.

A WOMEN'S AFFECTIONS INVOLVED

Suit for Damages Followed Suit for Divorce, in Which Neither the Husband Nor the Wife Could Get Decree.

Marion, Ill., July 24.—The jury which heard the case of C. A. Bell, a former merchant, who sued Shannon Holland, president of the First National bank, for $20,000 damages, alleging the alienation of the affections of Mrs. Bell, has failed to agree and has been discharged.

The twelve men received the case at 10 p. m. Saturday, and after deliberating almost forty-eight hours, reported to the judge that they could not agree, and were discharged.

Bell's suit was the outgrowth of a notable divorce trial a year ago, in which a separation was denied to Bell, and Mrs. Bell lost on her cross bill. Following the divorce case, in which Bell accused Holland, Bell filed a petition in bankruptcy and Mrs. Bell departed for Marion.

During the alienation trial Bell introduced witnesses who swore that they had seen his wife and Holland together on many occasions. Holland took the stand and denied any misconduct between him and Mrs. Bell. He swore that there never had been any improper meetings betwen him and the former merchant's wife.

Holland offered testimony that Bell had spoken of his relations with other women, and a former sheriff of Williamson county testified for the defense that Bell had sought a compromise with Holland.

WATER POLO CONTESTS

SCORES OF HUMAN FISHES ARE CONTESTING FOR AQUATIC CHAMPIONSHIPS.

THE MEET WILL LAST THREE DAYS

Different Events Are Certain to Be Witnessed by Thousands at the Jamestown Exposition.

Norfolk, Va., July 25.—In the grand basin at Smith harbor, Discovery landing, between the government piers at the Jamestown exposition, scores of human fishes are contesting today for the acquatic championships of the United States. The ownership of no less than twenty-one amateur athletic union titles will be decided today, tomorrow and Saturday in what will be without exception the greatest swimming and water polo contests ever held in American waters. The most famous swimmers in the world are entered, and with the admiral conditions prevailing in the grand basin it is almost certain that past records in many events will be broken. The basin is 1,600 feet long and 200 feet wide, with a depth of 17 feet deep and is kept filled with running water direct from Hampton Roads.

The events scheduled to be decided during this three-days' meet embrace every variety of expert water work, including swimming, diving, plunging for distance and the variations of swimming on the back and breast. The latter two events, although highly regarded on the continent, have only of late years been taken up by swimmers in this country. The senior championhsips include all the classic distances from fifty yards to the mile, including a 200-yard relay, while the junior championships cover the same field, with the exception of the relay and water polo events.

All of the famous American swimmers from athletic clubs throughout the country, including the crack men of the rival Chicago and New York clubs, are present and there will be great disappointment if prevailing records of this country and Europe are not left far behind. The best possible conditions prevail for the meet, a quiet, protected course through salt water, which is much faster than fresh water.

Admittedly, the premier of this gathering of Neptune's sons is Charles K. Daniels, champion of the world, who represents the New York Athletic club. Immediately after winning fresh laurels at Jamestown, as he is confident of doing, he will take a steamship for England to defend the honors won by him in that country during the last two or three years, the English swimming authorities having postponed their championship meet in order that Daniels might have an opportunity to participate. In England he will meet the very best swimmers that Englnd and the continent can produce, but his many friends and admirers are sure that he will return with the title.

The principal rival of Daniels in the short distance events is Marquand Schwartz, of the Missouri Athletic club, St. Louis, who has given the champion some close calls in the past. Goodwin, Trubenbach and Lawrence, all of the New York Athletic club, are also showing up in good form for the short distance races. In the long distances, unless some "dark horse" is entered, Daniels will have it all his own way and will easily outclass all other entrants. H. J. Handy, of the Chicago Athletic club, the present holder of the 880-yard and mile outdoor championships, will likely capture all distance races in which Daniels is not entered. The Bartels brothers, of the Denver Athletic club, who won junior and intermediate championships at St. Louis last year, are also looked upon favorably in some of the events.

The diving contest will be a warm one and brings together many men of apparent equal ability, among them Bornaman and Hammond, of Chicago, and Lee and Coallaghan, of New York.

The water polo game, which will probably be witnessed by a crowd of many thousands, will be the real tug of war. If the strong rival teams of the Chicago and New York Athletic clubs get together again for the final events, as appears likely, the battle will be a royal one. Honors between the eastern and western teams during the last few years have been about even, the title fluctuating between them, and while there have been some disagreements, the rivalry has been at most times friendly and has done much to establish the game of water polo in this country as one of the most exciting games on the calendar of amateur athletics.

The junior championships have attracted many entrants and will attract even more attention than some of the senior events, owing to the greater uncertainty of the outcome. These events are a new institution, and this is the first time they have been held under the sanction of the Amateur Athletic union. While they were held in St. Louis last year in connection with the seniors, it was only in an experimental way, and only a few events were scheduled. Swimming authorities believe that this new class will arouse the interest of second grade and new swimmers, and the number of entries received justifies this opinion. To be eligible to compete in the junior championships a swimmer must have won a first ,second or third place in a senior or intermediate championship event.

Many good swimmers who have heretofore been discouraged from even entering the seniors are taking part in the junior events.

KILLS ONE; INJURES 12

CHAUTAUQUA GROUNDS IN ILLINOIS ARE STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

TENTS WERE DAMAGED BY STORM

Hillsboro, Ill., July 25.—Mrs. W. E. Risk, of Hillsboro, was killed and a dozen other persons injured when lightning struck the Litchfield-Hillsboro Chautauqua grounds Tuesday night.

Among the others injured were Mrs. C. W. Bliss, brother of Clinton Bliss, who was stunned, and Mrs. C. M. Wool, who received a severe shock. Several other persons felt the shock, but their injuries are not considered dangerous.

The storm came early in the night, and was accompanied by a heavy wind. Much damage was done to tents and buildings. The electrical display was very severe and drove those on the grounds into a panic. The downpour following caused many persons to become drenched.

OLD TIMERS ARE DUMPED

THEY HAVE BEEN PLAYING PROFESSIONAL BALL SINCE "HEC" WAS A PUP.

BACK TO THE MINOR LEAGUES NOW

Lave Cross, Jake Beckley, "Tommy" Corcoran and "Kid" Gleason, Who in Their Day Were Among the Top Notchers.

Philadelphia's release of "Kid" Gleason to the Jersey City club makes the fourth veteran of the game to be retired to the minor leagues this season and the old-time players have practically passed out of major league company.

Besides Gleason, Lave Cross, Jake Beckley and Tom Corcoran have gone back to the minor leagues this season. All four of these were at one time top-notch men in their departments and they were dropped only because increasing age had robbed them of some of their speed and dimmed their eyes at the bat.

Cross made his first appearance in major league company twenty years ago, when he caught for the Louisville club.

Beckley had about the same length of service in big league company, Jake beginning his career with Pittsburg.

Corcoran in his day was one of the greatest shortstops in the game and in length of service he ranks along with Beckley and Cross.

Gleason was a star pitcher in St. Louis so long ago that all except the oldest fans have forgotten the fact. All four have far outlived the average life of the major leaguers and still have a few years of service left in the minors at the very least.

During early wheat cutting there happened in this community two or three families, Fisher by name,from the wheat belt of Kansas. They were hunting for work, but got very little, because they wanted unreasonable wages for their hire. For a week or two they seemed to have a grand old time among their kin folks, but a-lack-a-day an officer came down upon them—and such a scattering! Jess Fisher was gobbled up by the law. A razor and a gun were taken from him and he was trundled back to Kansas to answer a charge of theft. How many of the crowd were wanted by the law is not known, but it is certain that none of them are in sight about here.

WEIGHT AND HEALTH

How many women—and men too—are suffering from a general decline in health which the ordinary remedies seem unable to check! How many husbands see their wives wasting away, steadily losing health and beauty, and are powerless to help! Consumption and other germ diseases find in these debilitated systems easy prey, for the lowered vitality is unequal to the task of fighting off the infection of these diseases to which most of us are almost daily exposed.

The symptoms indicating the decline which may have results so fatal could scarcely be better described than in the statement of Mrs. William Manley, of 92 Court street, Utica, N. Y. Her case is a typical one. She says:

"For six months after the birth of my baby, I suffered from sick, dizzy headaches, which seemed like a rush of blood to my forehead, just back of my eyes. Some days they twitched so I could hardly see and black spots floated before them. The least exertion brought on this sickness. My appetite was poor and I was often sick to my stomach.

"If I tried to work my feet soon became swollen, paining me terribly. I had sinking spells and grew pale and nervous. I was so thin that I weighed only 95 pounds.

"One day when at the drug store to get headache powders I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills instead. I soon noticed that my headache was disappearing and my nerves gradually grew stronger. The pills gave me a hearty appetite and I now weigh over 130 pounds. I believe the pills to be the best tonic and builder a woman can take, as they certainly helped me when my condition was critical and I have never been seriously ill since."

The great value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills lies in the fact that they actually make new blood and this carries health and strength to every portion of the body. The stomach is toned up, the nerves are strengthened, every organ is stimulated to do its work.

If you are ill and the treatment you are taking does not cure you, write for proof of what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done in similar cases.

Your druggist sells them or they will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

POPPED THE QUESTION

Six Hours After Meeting the Girl and an Elopement Followed.

Louisville, Ky., July 25.— Don Cupid made a record run yesterday in the romance of Twyman Kirkpatrick, of this city, and Miss Sylvia May Hinton, of St. Louis, who arrived in Louisville on a visit to Miss Ethel Morrison, of 900 Fourth avenue.

Kirkpatrick was invited by Miss Morrison to call on her visitor, and, shortly after arriving at the Morrison home, his heart yielded to the charms of the fair Missouri lassie and he immediately popped the question.

He was accepted by Miss Hinton, and, without taking the hostess into their confidence, the young couple eloped to Jeffersonville and were married, the ceremony being performed within six hours after the first introduction. The couple are on their honeymoon to parts unknown.

I will mail you free to prove merit, samples of my Dr. Shoop's Restorative, and my book on either dyspepsia, the heart or the kidneys. Troubles of the stomach, heart or kidneys are merely the symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the common error of treating symptoms only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment and not the cause. Weak stomach nerves—the inside nerves—mean stomach weakness, always. And the heart and kidneys as well have the controlling of inside nerves. Weaken these nerves and you inevitably have weak vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's Restorative has made its fame. No other remedy even claims to treat the inside nerves. Also for bloating, biliousness, bad breath or complexion, use Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Write Shoop, Racine, Wis. The Restorative is sold by the W. E. Bard Drug Co.

THE EAST AND WEST ROAD

Engineer to Examine Road Route South of the River.

Jefferson City, Mo., July 25.—State Highway Engineer Curtis Hill, of St. Louis, having thoroughly explored the route for a highway across the state from St. Louis to Kansas City north of the river, is now engaged in looking over the route south of the Missouri, and, with that end in view, left here yesterday afternoon in an automobile to look at the country between this city and Union, Franklin county.

He is following the line of the old state road between Jefferson City and St. Louis. While the topography of the country south of the river is, generally speaking, not so favorable to modern road building as it is north of the river, yet the superabundance of material right at hand for construction purposes is said to more than overbalance whatever advantages the northern route may possess.

Mr. Hill will set forth his views and recommendations at the meeting of the state board of agriculture, to be held in this city August 5.

CLYMER EASILY LEADS

THIS IS SURELY TRAVELING SOME

Nearly All the Leaders Took a Tumble the Past Week—The Standing of Several Other League Players.

Washington, July 25.—Otis Clymer, the Pittsburg castoff, and now a member of the Nationals, is leading the American league in hitting, having a grand average of .442 for the twelve games in which he has participated.

He has smashed out twenty-three hits, including four doubles, three triples, and a homer, and has an average of one run in the twelve games in which he has played. He has pilfered six bases, which places him first among the thieves.

Charley Jones is the only other local player batting at a .300 clip. Although Niles lost nineteen points, he still has a good lead over Flick, of Cleveland, for second position.

Nearly all of the leaders took a tumble last week, except Flick, Crawford and Cobb. The Detroit sluggers did not keep up the pace they started, while Pickering and Wallace, of St. Louis, both dropped out of the .300 class, as did Oldring, of Philadelphia. Dougherty was the new .300 arrival, so that instead of there being eleven .300 hitters, as was the case two weeks ago, there are but nine this week.

The leaders for each club are: Niles, St. Louis; Flick, Cleveland; Crowford, Detroit; Elberfeld, New York; Parent, Boston; Clymer, Washington; Dougherty, Chicago, and Nichols, Philadelphia.

Detroit is leading in batting, also in total bases, with Flick as still the boss of the slugers. Sam Crawford has taken the place of Flick as the leading run getter and is the leader with forty-six runs.

EVIDENCE OF GUILT WAS FOUND

It Is Estimated That Daniel S. Hunt, a Church Member, Opened and Rifled No Less Than 300 Letters.

Hammond. Ind., July 20.—Daniel E. Hunt, a veteran Hammond mail carrier and church member, was trapped with a decoy letter in the postoffice here yesterday by Inspector A. N. Burr, of Ft. Wayne, Ind., and charged with rifling the United States mails.

It developed that for the last six months Hunt has been rifling the letters of the Frank S. Betz Manufacturing company, a huge mail order house.

Hunt is estimated to have taken fully 300 letters containing money, checks, money orders nd drafts belonging to the company in the last few months.

He had six such letters and the decoy on his person when arrested. His method of obtaining the letters was to get to the office before the other carriers and rob the Betz mail.

Hunt's downfall is the astounding sensation of the community, where he is highly connected and has been respected.

THE STATE OR NATION?

NORTH CAROLINA THREATENS TO IMPEACH A FEDERAL JUDGE.

SITUATION IS GROWING SERIOUS

Quarrel Between Local and United States Courts Threatens to CauseTrouble at the Next Session of Congress.

Washington, July 25.—The North Carolina situation is becoming serious. There are few high administration officials in Washington at present, but those who are here intimate that there is probability of the impeachment of federal Judge J. C. Pritchard, who ordered the release of the Southern railway officials convicted by a state judge of violating the new state law providing 2¼-cent rate.

Several railroad ticket agents were arrested and accused of selling tickets at rates above the prescribed law. They were convicted in the state court. The case was appealed to the federal court, which freed the men. The state court resented the interference of the federal courts and Judge Pritchard stated that he would place state officials in contempt if they executed the orders of the state courts.

An intimation has been received here that immediately upon the reassembling of congress in December formal charges will be presented against the judge who now stands accused by the North Carolina governor of trying to paralyze the courts of that state and prevent the performance of their proper functions.

It is said that the complaint will be signed by the state officials and members of the judiciary, who will contend that the circuit judge's action is in open and gross violation of his powers; that he has attempted to override the wishes of the people, chain the legal machinery of North Carolina and hinder the executive power of the state in its enforcement of laws.

It is pointed out here by constitutional lawyers that if Judge Pritchard should be upheld in his contentions there would be no use, and in a short time would be no call, for state courts. Through his suspension of a police court sentence by a writ of habeas corpus, and the threatening of minor and high state authorities with a blanket order of contempt if they dared to execute the law as laid down by the legislature, Circuit Judge Pritchard has practically arrogated to himself all executive, legislative and judicial powers of the state.

They say if his stand is just in the rate case, he would have power to act similarly in any other or all cases with which he cared to meddle. The impeachment proceedings, if instituted, will originate in a resolution offered on the floor of the house of representatives in Washington.

The injunction will prevent all persons from complaining before magistrates or grand juries or other officers of the state charged with the administration of criminal laws, of any violation of the rate statute, and any one who shall dare question the force of this injunction will be hauled before the federal judge charged with contempt.

This bill will enjoin every solicitor of the state personally, but it is contended that solicitors are not necessary in the prosecution of the Southern railway for violations of the law or in other cases that the grand jury prosecutes.

Governor Glenn has been guilty of contempt, according to the Southern railway. The assistant attorney general, Mr. Sanford, has had conferences with both Judge Pritchard and Governor Glenn. It is understood that Sanford told the governor his plan of settling the entire controversy by submitting it to the supreme court of the United States, and making it a special order on the docket of that court.

Governor Glenn, it is also stated, absolutely refused to consider the plan, which is believed to have Mr. Roosevelt's sanction, and informed the president's emissary that he will back up the state's position with all the force at his command, both moral and material.

The governor's stand meets with general approval here, and great interest is manifested throughout the state in the final outcome of the case, which, however, is not by any means in sight, according to present indications.

Judge Pritchard may bring before him Judge Reynolds of the police court for contempt of his original injunction and others in issuing warrants against the agents of the railway company and trying them in his court. Judge Reynolds was put upon the stand by Judge Pritchard and interrogated with regard to his motives against the protest of counsel for the state.

AGAINST THE OPEN "SHOP"

United Hatters of America Threaten to Call General Strike.

New York, July 25.—The first general strike in twelve years of the United Hatters of America, involving about 20,000 men throughout the country, is now threatened against the open shop, which the National Fur Felt Hat Manufacturers' association proposes to introduce. The open shop declaration is contained in a resolution of the manufacturers to abolish the union label.

Conferences between the executive committee of the union and the association held at the Broadway Central, at which attempts were made to settle the trouble, have thus far been futile. The manufacturers have asked for furher time and will make a final decision Friday. A majority of the manufacturers, it is stated, are against the use of the union label.

President John A. Moffitt, of the United Hatters of America, would not predict whether there would be war or peace, but said that the situation was very serious.

It was stated for the union hatters that if the label is discarded the strike will take place on August 1.

Mrs. Beatrice La Wall asked that her marriage be annulled on the ground that when La Wall married her August 29, 1903, he had another wife.

Mrs. Mary La Wall, in her suit for divorce, told of her marriage in 1901 to La Wall, and Mrs. Beatrice La Wall, who was her chief witness, told of her subsequent marriage to him, and that they lived together until she discovered she was wife No. 2.

Mrs. Beatrice La Wall is authorized to resume her maiden name of Guest, and Mrs. Mary aL Wall her maiden name of Sanborn.

TWO GIRLS DENUDED

Huntsville, Ala., July 25.—An electric bolt yesterday afternoon played remarkable pranks at the homes of J. W. Delp and Roy Landers, in this city.

The bolt struck the chimney of the Landers residence, and, descending into the sitting room, shocked his daughter, Elsie, tearing off all her clothes and leaving her unconscious.

Numerous articles of furniture in the room were demolished, and then the bolt struck the Delp house. Delp's daughter was also denuded and left unconscious.

After hitting several articles in the room the bolt struck the chandelier and followed the gas pipe into the ground. A blue mark was left on the limb of each girl, but neither was seriously hurt.

PROF. HAU IS CONVICTED

GREAT CROWD DEMONSTRATES, DECLARING THE MAN IS INNOCENT.

TROOPS CHARGED THE RIOTERS

Mob Makes Hero of Daring Criminal—Moliter Family Unpopular at Karlsruhe—Hau Sentenced to Death, But to Appeal.

Karlsruhe, July 23.—Karl Hau, a brilliant young law professor of Washington, D. C., was condemned to death this morning after a five days' trial for the murder of his wife's mother, Frau Moliter, a wealthy resident of Baden-Baden, in that city, November 6, last.

The prisoner heard the verdict of the jury with perfect composure, and chatted smilingly with his counsel, after the judges withdrew to fix his sentence.

Upon the return of the judges, Hau arose, and, standing erect with folded arms, listened to the sentence without moving a muscle. A moment later he was hurried away to prison by half a dozen policeman.

The sentence is unpopular with the street crowds, which have been demonstrating openly for several days in Hau's favor, and against the Moliter family.

After the adjournment of court for an hour's recess, at 8 o'clock last evening, the women of the Moliter party were compelled to remain in one of the offices of the court house because it was dangerous to appear in the streets. The carriage waited for them in the court yard, and it was several hours before they were able to leave.

Meanwhile, enormous crowds had assembled in the streets adjacent to the court house. Cordons of police kept the crowds in check for an hour or more, but then lost control of them, the masses pushing and crushing forward to the doors with the evident intention of storming the entrance.

There were many shouts from the crowd of "Hau is not guilty," the voices penetrating the courtroom. Finally, two companies of infantry and a squadron of mounted police appeared on the scene and drove the rioters before them. The infantry with fixed bayonets cleared all the streets within 300 yards of the courthouse. A large number of arrests were made. One old woman was trampled down by the horses and it is reported that several persons were wounded.

The demonstration in favor of Hau appears to be due largely to the same maudlin sentiment which has made a hero out of many another accused of a daring crime. To the unthinking people Hau's daring trip to Baden-Baden made him appear a hero.

Another reason for the demonstrations that have taken place in the last few days appears in the state's attorney's manner of conducting the prosecution, and it is further explained by citizens that the Moliters are unpopular in Karlsruhe, having lived here until 1899.

Hau is only 25 years old. After teaching Roman law a year in George Washington university, Washington, he went back to Germany for the summer. Soon after Frau Moliter was shot he was arrested. His wife committed suicide soon after his arrest. It was said at the trial that there was a suicide pact between Hau and his wife.

THERE WAS A WEDDING

When Toledo Man Met the Fair Companion of His School Days.

New York, July 25.—There is a pretty romance back of the marriage of two young people which took place in Long Island City the other night. The principals were Miss Florence Muth, of that city, and George Schultz, of Toledo.

Recently Mr. Schultz came on here from his Ohio home to spend his vacation. He had formerly resided in Long Island City, and is a graduate of Public School No. 1 there. He had been there only a few days when he met Miss Muth.

There seemed to be something very pleasant about the meeting to them both, and here is the story. They were schoolmates in the public school, and young Schultz often carried Miss Muth's books home for her, and they were much in each other's company.

He graduated before his school girl friend, and in a short time, with his parents, moved to Toledo. Now he is in business there, and when he met Miss Muth, after a seven years' absence the love of his school days returned, and it did not take him long to say something about not wanting to go home alone.

At all events, they were hurried preparations for a wedding, and it took place at the bride's home in the presence of a few friends.

OBJECT OF INTEREST

Was Mrs. Hetty Green When She Visited Wall Street.

New York, July 25.—Very few in the financial district have not heard of Mrs. Hetty Green, but it is doubtful if two score men or women in that district know her by sight. She is not so much in evidence in the Wall street section as might be expected from her large interest in securities through the medium of loans. Until recently her headquarters were near Chambers street.

Yesterday she was in the office of J. P. Morgan & Co., and as she left the inner office, where she had presumably been doing business, she stood at head of the stairway leading to the street talking to one of the clerical force who had been attending to her.

In some mysterious way it was whispered around the corner that the unassuming woman in black on the steps was Mrs. Green. Within a minute this whisper had run through a crowd and a goodly number found it expedient to stand there until she came out.

She was entirely oblivious of the crowd, however, and did not even seem to know that she was an object of interest.

KILLED WITH A CLUB

Mike McGinley, the grocer, is a gentleman whose veracity has never been questioned. Here is a fish story he told the Democrat-Sentinel today:

"Many years ago I stopped over night with a farmer near Coffeyville, Kas. When I arose in the morning the farmer asked me if I'd like to have fresh fish for breakfast.

"I told him it would be all right with me, and he asked me to follow him. We went to a shallow pond not far from the house. He gave me a paddle and told me to stir up the water, and it would scare the fish from the bottom to the other side of the pond, when he would catch a mess for breakfast.

"I did as I was told, and almost instantly a number of fish jumped out of the water to the opposite bank, when the farmer killed the largest one with a club, and he had it for breakfast.

SIX MEN CHAINED TOGETHER

Accompanied by a Woman, Driven Through Streets.

Parkersburg, W. Va., July 25.—Handcuffed and chained together six male prisoners, accompanied by a woman convict, who was not manacled, were driven like sheep from the county jail to the depot, where they were placed on a train and taken to the Moundsville penitentiary.

One guard had them in charge and could handle them in no other way. Citizens were up in arms over the treatment, and hooted the officer as he kept prodding on the drive. The men were sent to prison for minor offenses.

The woman, Mrs. Etta Pickens, was given one year for bigamy. During her incarceration in the jail she was permitted to nurse and care for her three-months-old baby, and when it was torn away from her in the jail corridor and given to strangers the woman wept and tore her hair.

DUCHESS VS. COUNTESS

ALL SOCIAL PARIS AWAITING THE RESULT OF GREAT LEGAL BATTLE.

HOUSE RENT AND JEWELS AN ISSUE

Duchess Asks $2.000 as a Salve for Damages Sustained to Her Reputation — End Awaited With Much Interest.

Paris, July 22.—All social Paris is awaiting with the keenest anticipation the result of the legal battle waged between the American Countess Spottiswood-Mackin and the American Duchess de la Rochefoucauld. House rent and jewels and an incidental suit for libel are involved in the proceedings, which have been completed, and it is announced that the court will hand down its decision tomorrow.

The Countess Spottiswood-Mackin was Miss Sally Britton, of St. Louis, while the Duchess de la Rochefaucauld is a daughter of the late Senator Mitchell, of Oregon. The troubles between the two American title-owners, culminating in sensational litigation, originated in a dispute in 1903 over the claim of the countess to the recovery of rent from a house leased to the duchess, which the latter vacated on the ground that it was inadequately heated. As the controversy waged fiercer, the jewels of the duchess were attached in a libel suit brought against her by the countess.

In the recent suit the duchess has turned the tables and is now seeking the repayment of $800, the expense of living at a hotel while the heating of the house was deranged. She also asks for $2,000 as a salve for damage sustained to her reputation caused by the countess in entering a criminal complaint because the duchess removed her jewels when attachment proceedings were instituted in connection with the rent suit.

As a result of the bitter enmity existing between the two beautiful American women Parisian society has been split into factions, one sympathizing with the duchess and the other with the countess. The decision of the court tomorrow will by no means end the animosities growing out of the case.

RAILWAY IN ECUADOR

Stockholders Holding a Meeting in Jersey City, N. J.

New York, July 22.—Stockholders of the Guayaquil & Quito Railway company, now constructing a line in Ecuador, are holding a special meeting in Jersey City today to consider a proposal from the government of Ecuador under which to continue the construction and operation of the company's road.

The proposal submitted to the stockholders is a solution of the dispute between the company and the government, which is understood to have been the result of representations made by our own and the British foreign office to the Ecuadoran government.

At the meeting the stockholders authorized the officials to make whatever agreements will be necessary to complete the construction plans. The stock of the road is held mainly in New York and London.

GAVE ALL TO WIFE

And Now the Foolish Man Begs for a Place to Sleep.

Hamilton, Ohio, July 25.—Phillip Schmitt, an aged German printer, requested Director of the Poor A. Rothmell to give him a berth in the county infirmary.

Several years ago Schmitt married Mrs. Margaret Schlottermiller, and deeded to her his property, valued now at $10,000.

He is unable to work at his trade now because of old age, and Schmitt told Director Rothmell that his wife treated him cruelly. The police will investigate.

NOT A MAN IN THE TOWN

All Came to America and Women Fill Offices.

Budapest, July 25.—The lure of the United States as a land of opportunity and wealth to the people of Hungary has brought out a curious state of affairs in the little village of Kerisova, near Lugos, that at the last census had a population of 3,500 souls.

One by one the male residents of Kerisova heard the call across the water, and they emigrated in batches until such time as the mayor was the only adult male to remain by the village.

Finally he also succumber to the reports of good wages and golden chances in America sent back by his fellow townsmen, and packing his trunk he made his way to the emigrant ship at Fiume.

As a result of this exodus of males the women of Kerisova have just elected a young woman to the position of mayor, and other female residents have been elected to fill the remainder of the municipal offices. The statutes in Hungary provide that no female shall hold public office, and, acording to the letter of the law, the presence of the women in office is illegal.

HE KISSED THE GIRL

And Might Have Hugged Her, But Did Nothing Wrong.

Memphis, Tenn., July 25.—Major George L. Teat, who was arrested in Jackson, Miss., on the charge of attempting to criminally assault Miss Pressley, a belle of that place, while the latter was in his office has reached Memphis.

"I do not think that Miss Pressley and I were doing anything other than making other people jealous," he said, when asked for his version of the affair.

"I was kissing her and may have hugged her, but I certainly did not commit either act without her consent. Someone witnessed me kiss her and that seemed to start trouble. I have not acted in any way that would have compromised any girl that would have spurned my attentions.

"I promised to leave the city only on promise of her relatives that they would keep quiet and keep the matter out of the newspapers. I did this much for her sake."

LURED LITTLE GIRL AWAY

Chicago, July 25.—The most atrocious attack on a little white girl ever known in Chicago was reported yesterday from Sherman park, when an unidentified man attacked Ella Deverak, 9 years old, of 5015 Throop street.

The child was found unconscious by two men. She had been severely stabbed with a knife and left hidden in a clump of bushes. Two men found her there and she was hurried to her home. It is expected she will die.

The girl was lured to the bushes by a man who offered her a balloon and some popcorn. There he is said to have tried to choke her into unconsciousness, finally cutting her with a knife.

Residents of the district are aroused over the cowardly attack and are all searching for the man. Threats to lynch him if he is found are heard on every side.

THREW A CAT ON A WOMAN

Leavenworth Boy Created a Panic in the People's Theatre.

Leavenworth, Kas., July 25.—Al Simmons, a 16-year-old boy, started a panic at the People's theatre by throwing a lusty cat into the audience. The terror-stricken feline dropped on a woman's head.

For a moment the surrounding atmosphere was filled with fragments of millinery and artificial rosebuds. The crowd surged around the startled woman and a panic was narrowly averted.

Simmons was taken to the police station by Special Officer John McDonough. He was locked up in the city jail, but was later released.

NOTIFIED HER FATHER

That She Would End Her Life, Then Took Poison.

Springfield, Ohio, July 25.—"My sweetheart has quarreled with me. When you get this I will be dead."

This is the substance of a letter received yesterday by Wm. Logan, in this city, from his daughter, Genevieve Logan, in Cleveland.

Her unconscious form was found by friends and hurried to the hospital, where efforts were made to save her life, as she had taken carbolic acid.

Mr. Logan says she is still alive and will probably recover.

A WOMAN EATS NEEDLES

THIRD SOJOURN IN A HOSPITAL

Complained of Pains in Her Stomach and Heart, With a Stitch in Her Side, but Said It Was Only Old Trouble.

Miss Mollie Dressler, the human pin cushion, has broken out again, and in Fordham hospital, where she lies on a cot occasionally picking a needle from her elbow or knee, the doctors and nurses stand round her, eyeing her like the folks from Hohokus gaze on the ostrich in the museum, writes a New York correspondent.

This little 23-year-old woman seems to go to needles as a steady article of diet, and the needles after a week or so get a habit of popping out at unexpected moments and places, and causing Mollie much anguish, mental and other wise; so when she is getting over what the hospital folks have come to call one of her "needle jags," she remains in the seclusion of the hospital until she has worked all the little steel implements out of her system.

Mollie had been working for the past two weeks for Mrs. John Mounts of 3857 Third avenue, Bronx, and Mrs. Mounts has been wondering why all her needles were disappearing. She didn't know Mollie was the needle woman until yesterday when Miss Dressler complained of pains in her stomach and heart and of pains in her side. The latter suggested needles. Dr. Rickelhaupt hustled her up to Fordham hospital in an ambulance.

"It's the old trouble, doctor," said Mollie, with just a tinge of apology, and then rubbing a red spot on her cheek: "I do declare, there's one coming out now."

"One what?" queried the doctor, who did not recognize the visitor.

"Why, a needle, of course. I ate some three weeks ago and they oughtn't to have worked out for a week yet, but I guess the warm weather has brought them out ahead of time."

The news quickly spread through the hospital and they hustled Mollie to her old cot in ward 24. She declared it seemed quite like home.

"How many this time, Mollie?" asked the white coated doctor.

"Not many doctor," responded the patient, "maybe my appetite's fallen off. I think it's a packet of No .11's, then and there may be a few 12's—half a packet or so. Ten have come out already."

"No sixes this time ,eh?" asked the surgeon, recollecting the huge sewing needles they had extracted to the number of forty from Mollie the last time she was in Bellvue.

The patient shook her head. "No, these are the small kind," she said, turning over to take a nap. She stopped short for a moment, however, as one of the identical No. 11's she had referred to stole silently out of her left forearm.

The girl's sister, Mrs. Max Dressler, of 5893 Third avenue, explains Mollie's keenness for swallowing needles by saying that when she was a girl of 12 years she had the scarlet fever and in her torment would stick herself with needles. Later she was discovered swallowing needles with the sharp ends imbedded in pieces of apple or pear. Finally, she learned the knack of sending them down the alimentary canal without the aid of buffers.

CHARGES ON EXPRESS

Vigorous Protests to the State Railroad Commission.

St. Louis, Mo., July 25.—Vigorous protests to the state board of railroad and warehouse commissioners against the enforcement of the proposed new schedule of express rates, effecting a general reduction of 25 per cent, were made by representatives of all the leading express companies at a hearing held in St. Louis today.

The express companies pay to the state a tax of 1¼ per cent on their gross earnings, which is smaller than that paid by the insurance companies and the tax for last year brought in an aggregate sum of $14,000

The earnings of the six express companies doing business in the state, according to statements made by their officials, reached a total of $1,039,232.63 in the last year.

BOONVILLE'S BABY CASE

ANOTHER CHAPTER IN REGARD TO THE VINE CLAD CITY SENSATION.

WOMAN'S HUSBAND HAS HIS SAY

Says He Has Had Nothing to Do With Effie Love for Nineteen Months and Is Not the Father of the Dead Babe.

(Tuesday's Daily.)

The Democrat-Sentinel yesterday reproduced an article from the Boonville Democrat of Saturday in which it was stated that Mrs. Effie Osborne-Love, of this city, was the mother of the child born there a few weeks ago and buried after death in a crude box on the bluff on the Missouri river, and that Cecil Johnson, a married man of this city, was the father of the child.

This morning an individual representing himself to be Cecil Johnson called up the Democrat-Sentinel and asked that a reporter meet him at Fourth and Moniteau streets, as he had something he desired printed in the paper this afternoon.

Mr. Johnson was informed that no reporter was available at that moment, and that if he had anything to say for publication he could come to the Democrat-Sentinel office.

Mr. Johnson then asked if the Democrat-Sentinel man had seen the explanation of the Boonville baby case in the Capital of this morning, and was answered in the affirmative, whereupon he said he desired this paper to make like publication, and he would try to get around to the office.

At 1 o'clock this afternoon Mr. Johnson called at this office and denied that he was the father of Mrs. Love's child, but he admitted several other things that are suspicious to say the least.

For instance, he admitted that he was called up by 'phone by Mr. Fewel, of Boonville, at whose home Mrs. Love's baby was born, but he claimed he did not know what was wanted of him at the time.

He went to Boonville, where he found that Mrs. Love had given birth to a babe, which had died a few hours later. Mrs. Love has no claim on him, Johnson says, but despite this fact he footed the bills incident to the birth and burial of the babe, although he was not the party who interred it on the bluff overlooking the Big Muddy.

Mr. Johnson stated that the publication in yesterday's Democrat-Sentinel had caused him trouble at home, and there was no sure thing that his wife would not leave him, and that the Lord only knew what his father-in-law would do. For this reason he desired this paper to say nothing further regarding the case, and under no circumstances to connect him name with the scandal.

"Mrs. Effie Love, wife of E. I. Love, whose home is on East Broadway, was the mother of the baby about which there has been so much comment at Boonville. Mrs. Love and her husband are not living together and have not been for some time. Her maiden name was Osborn, and she is now with her parents at Seventeenth and Ohio. Mrs. Osborn, mother of Mrs. Effie Love, said to the Capital last night:

"'Effie went to Boonville to visit her brother at the reform school. She took with her her 18-months-old child and carried it from the town to the school, and back to the home of Mr. Fewel, manager of the telephone company there. When she got back she was sick and shortly afterward a child was born, prematurely. Two doctors were with her at the birth of the child. On the advice of friends a common box coffin was prepared and the little baby was interred privately and in an out-of-way spot.

"'There was nothing criminal in the transaction. Mr. Love was the father of the child, but he has not for a long time contributed to the support of his wife, and his living baby. She did not have the money to arrange for a funeral with undertakers, and under the circumstances it was not considered necessary.'

"Mrs. Love was asked by the Capital reporter if any blame attached to the gentleman mentioned in the Boonville papers and she said no—that her girl was all right and that only her recreant husband was to blame for her circumstances."

This morning the Democrat-Sentinel received a visit from Mr. Love, the divorced husband of the woman who gave birth to the babe in Boonville. He too, desired the Democrat-Sentinel to reproduce the Capital's article, but for a purpose entirely different from Mr. Johnson.

"You can say most emphatically for me," said Mr. Love, "that I am not the father of the child born to my divorced wife at Boonville recently. I do not say that Cecil Johnson is the father, but I want it stated in language as emphatic as you can make it that I am not.

"In proof of my statement it is only

NINE PEOPLE ARE SAVED

LATEST REPORTS SAY THAT COLUMBIA SURVIVORS REACH SHORE.

RESCUE OF OTHERS IS EXPECTED

Six Life Boats and Three Rafts Were Launched and Steamers May Pick Up Those Who Were on Board.

San Francisco, July 23.—It is now hoped that the loss of life on the Columbia, which sank Sunday night, is not so heavy as was at first reported. It is known that ninety-seven were saved by the steamer George W. Elder, and reports from Shelter Cove announce the arrival there of one boat with fifteen more passengers and crew, leaving the total death roll at ninety-eight.

It is said that before the Columbia sank six of her boats were launched, together with three life rafts. These have not yet heard been heard from and it is hoped that they may be picked up by steamers. Among the known saved not previously reported are Jacob Kuro, Coldwater, Kas.; Miss Ruby Cooper, Fayette, Mo.; Dwight Casner, Leads, S. D.

The steamer Pomona arrived in San Francisco shortly before noon today from Eureka, bringing from the latter place one surviving passenger of the Columbia and thirty-two members of the Columbia's crew who were saved. The passenger was Miss A. Leidell, of San Francisco.

The dock was crowded with people when the steamer arrived, the erroneous report having spread that she was bringing a number of the Columbia's passengers, and when the gang plank was lowered the officers had difficulty in restraining the eager men and women from clambering aboard.

When Miss Leidell landed and was asked by the newspaper men for a recital of her experiences, she broke into tears and shaking her head, said, "I don't want to say anything; I don't want to talk."

(Tuesday's Daily.)

Theodore Bunger, a boy in his teens, and son of the late Fred Bunger, was arraigned in Judge Rickman's court this forenoon, charged with stealing wire from the storeroom of the American Telegraph and Telephone Co. The crime was committed several days ago, but Bunger evaded arrest by hiding. He pleaded guilty to the charge, and was fined $10 and costs.

Deputy Constable Phalings figured out the amount of the costs, which he said amounted to $20.75. After figuring a second time he discovered he had forgotten the prosecuting attorney's fee, which added an additional $5, making a total of $25.75.

The mother of the boy paid the fine.

CHAUTAUQUA, SIXTH DAY

FAREWELL CONCERT BY LYRIC QUARTET AT 8 O'CLOCK THIS EVENING.

BOSTON LADY QUARTET NUMBERS

Tomorrow Afternoon and Night—Dr. Kokichi Morimoto Will Lecture on "The Yankees of the East" Wednesday Night.

(From Tuesday's Daily.)

The Chautauqua management announces with great pleasure the engagement of the Lyric quartet, already one of the successes of the session, for an extra concert tonight; an unusual opportunity for music lovers.

The ladies of the quartet will introduce several new selections, and will by request repeat several of their best songs, both sacred and secular. Their program will conclude with the specialty, "The Old Melodeon," many who heard it at Saturday afternoon's concert having asked for its repetition.

The attraction originally announced for this evening, an entertainment by Pauline Johnson, the Indian poetess and reader, cannot be given, owing to the fact that Miss Johnson was ordered by a Springfield physician, on consulting him after her recent appearance there, to cancel her further engagements for a time on account of a serious throat trouble.

No one was disappointed in the lecture of Dr. James Hedley at the Chautauqua last night on "The Worth of a Man." Nearly twenty-seven years of experience place Dr. Hedley among the few acknowledged leaders on the lyceum platform. He knows how to establish and maintain the relation of intimate confidence with everyone in his audience. His new lecture, which he gave last night, is of the best type of the popular lyceum lecture, full of both wisdom and wit. A re-engagement of Hedley would be looked on with favor by any audience.

Yesterday afternoon Dr. Eugene May delighted the audience with his travel lecture, "Up the Matterborn." His power of description was let loose upon every incident of the journey, from a dollar dinner of sixteen courses to the view from the Matterhorn's peak. Many were heard to commend the lecture most highly.

A preview of the Chautauqua program for the remainder of this week includes the Amphion quartet, four big, jolly fellows who combine musicianly execution with college boy fun and vigor; Prof. W. B. Patty, in a lecture on modern marvels of science, including illustration of wireless telegraphy, liquefaction and solidification of gases, and radium; Helen Vickery, whistler, and Elinor Lincoln, reader; Dr. J. M. Kersey, in a popular lecture; Olof Valley, the great Swedish basso, and his talented company; and Delavinn M. Hazlette, artist and traveler, with his remarkable illustrated lecture, "The Truth About Panama."

SHOT HIS SWEETHEART

BUSINESS MAN OF NEW YORK KILLED GIRL IN CROWDED STORE.

HE SUCCEEDED IN MAKING ESCAPE

New York, July 23.—Miss Esher Norling, 23 years of age, of Ridgefield Park, N. J., was shot and killed today, it is alleged, by Charles Warner, her former employer, just as she was entering a haberdashery store in Forty-second street, where she was employed as a bookkeeper.

Warner, it is charged, also fired several shots at A. R. Spicer, manager of the store, as he was escaping.

The police believe Warner's mind away, although he was chased by twenty policemen and a crowd of pedestrians. A messenger boy struck him with a brick and Warner turned and shot at him, but missed.

The police believe that Warner was unbalanced by his business reverses and other troubles.

Miss Norling said before dying that Warner had been paying her attentions and had been annoying her with his importunities. He is 50 years old.

ATTORNEY ROASTS ORCHARD

Richardson Ridiculed Testimony of Chief Witness in Haywood Trial.

Boise, Idaho, July 23. — Resuming his arguments this morning, Attorney Richardson reverted to the Bradley explosion in San Francisco briefly to call attention to the testimony of a witness who said that Orchard declared that "Bradley got what was coming to him, and there's a chap named Steunenberg who is going to get his also."

Richardson said: "This man Orchard was possessed of a mania to go out and kill. His testimony shows a desultory, maniacal method of pursuing his victims who were selected for death for some fancied grievance against himself or perhaps the organization to which he belonged.

"Orchard's is the most absurd story ever told on the face of the earth."

The attorney ridiculed Orchard's tale as to being told "to get" Banker Moffatt, and said:

"This creature, covered with the slime of his past crimes, comes here and would have you believe that Haywood was planning the murder of the man to whom he was entrusting the funds of the organization of which he was secretary and treasurer, upon David H. Moffatt, with whom he was on terms of almost intimate friendship."

FINES AND SUSPENSION

FOUR MEMBERS OF WEBB CITY'S BALL CLUB GOT IT JUST ABOUT RIGHT.

The Leader, Second Baseman Painter, Fined $100 and Suspended for the Season—Other Penalties Imposed.

After a full day's investigation following the assault Saturday at Webb City upon Umpire Guthrie, D. M. Shively, president of the Western association, last night made a statement to the Globe regarding the findings in the affray, says Monday's Joplin Globe. President Shively scored the murderous tactics of rowdy ball players and assessed fines and suspensions on the participants in the riot at Webb City.

The following is the signed statement made to the Globe by the president of the Western association:

"Umpire baiting in the Western association must cease. This has been the most strenuous season for the indicator men that we have ever had. Even last year, when the clubs engaged in the closest race ever witnessed in any league, there was not near the amount of trouble during the entire season that we have had already this year. I do not attribute it to any inferior quality of men, but on the contrary, believe that my this year's staff has been the best I have had since the formation of the league.

"I perhaps have been to blame somewhat, as I have been too lax with my duty in enforcing discipline.

"However, I thought I was doing right and getting along handsomely when I placed nominal fines and short suspensions on belligerent players. My views were changed after Saturday's trouble at Webb City and I have started on a new lead, which will be followed closely from this time forward.

"Tomorrow upon my return to Kansas City I will send out official notice to all club owners of my action in the Webb City trouble and shall accompany it with stringent warning to future umpire baiters.

"This is only a starter to what is coming in the future, and there will be other Western association players hunting employment in other lines if they do not cease the practice of assaulting umpires. I am sure the managers have awakened to the necessity of more stringent action and will support me in this connection.

"Next fall I propose to suggest a rule to the National association convention, that umpire baiters be treated as contract jumpers, which would mean disqualification forever. I have no doubt but what such legislation can be easily enacted, for I am not the only president who has had his troubles. Among others I can mention the Three I, Iowa State and Central leagues.

"The assault upon Umpire Guthrie, to my knowledge, has no parallel in professional baseball since its present form of government. It was wanton, disgraceful and almost to a degree murderous. I shall be forced to look with shame upon the rest of the baseball world that it should have occurred in the league which I represent.

"This league has established a reputation among the organization of minor leagues and has graduated players to the greater leagues. It has secured a place of honor, viz., membership on the national board of arbitration, the supreme court of minor league baseball, and its standing must be maintained. To this end I propose to eliminate all rowdy tactics. Saturday's disgraceful scene has gone through the entire press of the United States as next to murderous, and club owners everywhere must be given substantial proof that the Western association does not approve of such matters.

"My investigation, which consumed the entire day Sunday, showed that four Webb City players were undoubtedly mixed up in the affray. Of course, Painter, the second baseman, was the prime mover, but he was ably assisted by the others. I had many appeals for clemency for Larry Milton, and many of them came from men of the best standing, yet most all said that it was difficult to tell from the grandstand just how the fight was going. Milton himself proclaimed his innocence, but there was so much contradictory evidence that I could not clear Milton.

"Both Umpires Jacobs and Guthrie contended that Milton struck the latter, and in view of this fact I was compelled to take their statements as the best from obligations to the league and their positions on the field.

"I place all the blame at the door of the Webb City club, and do not attach any to the club owners or fans. Had not Painter, Olson and Collins, as the evidence showed, surrounded the umpire and started the

Mrs. Harry C. Robinson Is Arrested With Her Former Servant at Seattle—Has Been Leader in Church Work.

Seattle, Wash., July 23.—With her former Japanese servant, Mrs. Harry C. Robinson, wife of Rev. Harry C. Robinson, rector of St. John's Episcopal church of West Seattle, was arrested in a Tenderloin lodging house. She is aged 30 and he is 20.

The couple were charged wth disorderly conduct. The Japanese gave his name as Y. Steamota. At first the woman said her name was Mabel S. Parris, but the police learned that she was a woman of consequence.

After remaining in jail for five hours she telephoned her husband and was allowed to leave in his company.

Attention was attracted to the couple several days ago, when the police noticed a white woman with a Japanese on several occasions. Sunday night they were seen to go to the room of the Japanese in the lodging house.

When arrested Mrs. Robinson had a volume of Whittier's poems and a pocket edition of "Venus and Adonis."

"Let them say what they please," she told the chief of police. Rev. Mr. Robinson explained that his wife had been troubled with heart disease for years and attributed her actions to that. She has been a leader in church work.

AN OVEROOSE OF "DOPE"

Called Dr. W. J. Ferguson to the County Jail Last Night.

(Tuesday's Daily.)

Dr. W. J. Ferguson was summoned to the Pettis county jail at 10:30 o'clock last night to administer treatment to John Wells, a white man, awaiting trial in criminal court on the charget of robbery, who appeared to be dying from an overdose of morphine.

Wells is said to be a desperate man and frequently appears to be sick. At the hour stated, last night, Deputy Sheriff Henderson heard groans emanating from from inside the jail. Investigating, he found Wells lying in his cell, breathing hard and groaning as if about to die.

Dr. Ferguson administered an antidote and soon revived the patient. Later it was found that Wells had intentionally taken one-half grain of morphine, which he had secured from another prisoner who had been allowed the morphine owing to being a fiend for the "dope."

A GOOD ROADS APOSTLE

MR. CHARLES THATCHER, OF VIRGINIA, HAS ARRIVED IN SEDALIA.

HAS BURRO, DOG AND TEAM MULES

Working for National Highway—Automobilists Throughout the Entire Country Are Interested in Undertaking.

(From Tuesday's Daily.)

A plea for transcontinental highways, signed by thousands of persons interested in good roads, will be carried to President Roosevelt at Washington by Charles W. Thatcher, who is making a unique trip across the country.

Mr. Thatcher arrived in Sedalia at 8 o'clock this morning, he having camped just west of the city limits last night. He will remain here until tomorrow morning, when he departs for St. Louis, via Jefferson City, where he will call upon Gov. Folk.

Mr. Thatcher, a native of Virginia, is a sun-burned man, who wears a typical mountain costume and boasts that in the past thirteen months he has traveled 6,000 miles. He travels in a wagon that is decorated with signs advertising the Hearst newspapers and the Sedalia Democrat-Sentinel. With his two Spanish mules, a burro and a dog, his outfit was the cynosure of all eyes in Sedalia today, and hundreds have inspected it critically.

A recent issue of the Topeka Capital had the following article that tells of Mr. Thatcher's work:

One of the most curious outfits that ever entered Topeka was seen on the streets yesterday afternoon. It consisted of a light spring wagon, roughly covered with canvas from under which protruded the ends of several shot guns and rifles. A team of small and melancholy mules was attached to it. Alongside traveled a shaggy mountain burro, while an equally shaggy dog trotted along in the shady spot under the wagon. A tall, sturdy appearing youth, with several days' growth of stubble and the [illegible] travel on his fact, was the master of the caravan.

It was Charles W. Thatcher, an apostle of good roads, on his way from Denver to Kansas City, searching out and locating a road for automobiles that will be shorter than the most direct line of railroad between the two cities and which will also be free from sand, the bugaboo of the traveling autoist. With his outfit he has traveled through the desert of the great west and has searched out automobile roads through the passes of the Rockies. He is now locating one across the plains that he hopes the government in the next few years will convert into a magnificent stone highway.

"I am working for a transcontinental highway, to be built by the government and by prison labor," said Mr. Thatcher yesterday. "I would have the government use all of its prison labor in this work, and then ask the states through which the highway will pass to give some of their prison labor to the work. This will be greatly appreciated by labor, as it will divert prison labor and take prison made goods off the market. It will also enhance the value of property along such a highway several hundred per cent.

"Men of influence in Colorado and with the national government are going to assist me in trying to persuade the government to locate its rock road from Fort Riley to Fort Leavenworth so that it will run through Topeka and Lawrence, and there connect with the proposed rock road from Kansas City. This will make 140 miles of good rock road from Kansas City to Fort Riley."

TAKE THREE—

"The automobile route I am locating from Denver to Kansas City will be 540 miles long, which is eighty miles shorter than the most direct route by railroad. This route, so far as I have located it, extends southeast from Denver to Limon Junction, along the Union Pacific main line; from Limon to Colby, Kas., along the main line of the Rock Island, via Burlington and Goodland; from Colby southeast along the Union Pacific to three miles south of Mingo; then follows the meridianal section line east from Minga to Plainville, making a

A REVOLTING CRIME

Committed by Two Men Who Impersonated Policemen.

Palmer, Mass., July 22.—Lora Letendra. a vivacious 18-year-old Fall River girl, who eloped with Henry Moran because of parental opposition to Moran's attentions, was separated from Moran in Palmer, and criminally assaulted by Charles Thompson and Thomas Murphy.

Miss Letendra and Moran asked for a drink of water at Thompson's house. The men represented themselves to be police officers, and told Moran that it would be necessary to send Miss Letendra back to her home and that unless he departed he, too, would be arrested.

Miss Letendra was given a room in the house by herself. During the night Murphy entered the room. Miss Letendra, who weighs less than 100 pounds, fought for her honor for two hours. Thompson also assaulted her. Miss Letendra jumped from a second-story window, and was brought back to the house by Thompson. She finally became unconscious.

Thompson has admitted his guilt. Murphy, who confessed to his employer, has boasted that he chloroformed several young women.

DEATH OF MRS. JOHNS

PASSED AWAY AT HER HOME ON WEST SEVENTH STREET LAST NIGHT.

SHE HAD LIVED HERE 27 YEARS

Funeral Services Will Be Conducted at the Broadway Presbyterian Church at 4 O'clock Saturday Afternoon.

(From Friday's Daily.)

Mrs. Margaret A. Johns, wife of Samuel P. Johns, Sr., one of Sedalia's best known, most popular and influential citizens and business men, died of cancer of the left breast at her home, 706 West Seventh street, at 11:30 o'clock last night, aged 71 years.

Mrs. Johns was the daughter of William and Hannah White, of Perry county, Pa. She was born at that place on September 30, 1836. Her father sold his property in 1854, and with his family removed to Waveland, Ind., in Polk county.

There, while in her seventeenth year, Mrs. Johns became affiliated with the Seceder or Associate Reform Presbyterian church. On Feburary 1, 1859, she was united in marriage to Mr. Johns at Waveland, then removed to Terre Haute, Ind., where she joined a denomination known as the Old School Presbyterian church.

She and her husband remained at Terre Haute one year, then removed to Litchfield, Ill., in 1860. Five years later she and her family removed to Pana, Ill., where they remained until 1880, when they came to Sedalia, where they have resided since.

Four years ago symptoms of cancer developed. All efforts to eradicate the disease proved fruitless, and for the past two years she has been an invalid. For seven months Mrs. Johns had been bedfast, and for some time the family has been daily and hourly expecting the end.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Johns leaves the following children: William M., Sedalia; Samuel P., Jr., Seattle, Wash.; Robert M., Sedalia; Mrs. Margaret A. Emmert, Kensett, Ark. The oldest daughter, Laura A., died in 1881.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Broadway Presbyterian church at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, Rev. Dudley M. Clagget, the pastor, who is attending the encampment at Pertle Springs, having wired this noon that he would be here to officiate.

T. T. Gray, John Montgomery, John A. Ready, John A. Collins, W. S. Sneed and B. M. Lodge will serve as pall bearers. Interment will be in the city cemetery, and the music will be under the direction of Mrs. W. D. Steele and Miss Jessie Smith.

All of the children, with the exception of S. P., Jr., at Seattle, were with their mother at the time of her death, and she passed peacefully away. C. E. Emmert, a son-in-law, will arrive from Kensett tomorrow.

Mrs. Johns was truly a christian lady, the kind that Sedalia deeply regrets to lose. A kind, loving wife and mother, she will ever be remembered by her family and friends as one to emulate, and in her death the bereaved husband and children have the sympathy of the entire community.

HUMAN BRICK IS LOST

Fear Block Has Been Used for Building Purposes.

Pittsburg, July 20.—The human brick has been lost. Pittsburg friends of the late Herman Unger, of Boston. and formerly of Pittsburg, are much agitated to learn the whereabouts of the brick, composed of the ashes of their late friend. Fear is expressed that it has gone astray and been used by mistake with commercial brick in building construction.

Some time ago, when Unger died in Boston, the Odd Fellows of that place carried out the instructions of his will and had his body cremated, and with the aid of mortar had the ashes pressed into a brick. The brick was to be forwarded to Morris Nossokoff, of this city.

Nossokoff has not received the brick and cannot find a trace of it, though it has been shipped from Boston.

In his will Unger bequeathed himself in brick form to his friend. Nossokoff will probably go to Boston in an effort to locate the missing brick.

WHOOP-DEE DOODLE-DEE

STILL OTHERS ARE TO FOLLOW

Pittsburg, Pa., Victims of Epidemic Whoop Things Along and Arrange to Whoop Again at a Ball Game.

Pittsburg, July 22.—Pittsburg's whooping cough epidemic has been pressed into service as a hot weather social feature.

Mrs. W. H. Parker, of Grandview avenue, Duquesne Heights, gave a lawn fete, restricting her guest list to whooping cough patients.

Owing to the widespread epidemic of the disease here, the list was by no means a small one.

Mrs. Parker's son has had the whooping cough for three weeks. The weather contracted it for him. On behalf of the son she gave the lawn fete. Mothers who have contracted the disease from the children accompanied the youngsters, and several fathers were present to whoop things along.

During the serving of luncheon a creosote mixture was the most popular relish. To add to the gayety of the occasion, attractive prizes were offered to the children who whooped the longest and loudest and booby prizes to those who whooped the least.

The fete proved such a successful novelty that nearly all the guests proffered return invitations. As all the local physicians are prescribing outdoor exercise to fight the epidemic, a large delegation of whoopers are anxiously awaiting the return of the local baseball club, when they will go out in force and whoop vigorously.

BUGS ARE FOND OF MUSIC

NOTHING LIKE THEM IN SEDALIA

The Monster Insects Raised By Prof. Tower in Chicago Are Wonderfully Colored and Fond of Music.

Chicago, July 22.—Big bugs have hopped into prominence. They are fond of music and do things which refute the Darwinian theory, so it is declared. They are of enormous size and are wonderfully colored. They have been raised, after an exhaustive series of experiments at the university of Chicago and in Southern Mexico by Prof. Wiliam Lawrence Tower, of 618 Greenwood avenue.

A sensation has been sprung in the scientific world by the research work of Prof. Tower, who is an instructor in the department of embryology at the Midway institution.

The common potato bug was selected as the medium for Prof. Tower's scientific work. Out of this insect the Chicago savant has evolved a monster creature unlike the original and upon which he has written, under the patronage of Andrew Carnegie, a treatise entitled "An Investigation Into the Evolution of the Chrysomelid Beetles of the Genus Leptinitarsa."

Hidden behind the maze of scientific facts in the book lies, scientists say, a surprising refutation of the Darwin theory, which has stamped the work of Prof. Tower as on a par with that of Prof. Loeb, who succeeded in producing life chemically.

Prof. Tower noticed that the larger the bug grew the more sensitive they became to musical sounds. One of his large bugs, Prof. Tower explains, acted as though under a severe nervous shock when a tuning fork was sounded near it. First its legs became rigid, then the bug became as if dead and continued so until the vibrations of the musical tone has ceased.

BLOOD OF A WIFE

And Three Other Persons Pumped Into the Dying Man.

Chicago, July 22.—New and heroic treatment for typhoid fever was given to Dr. Carl H. Stone. when, a few hours before his death, the blood of four persons, including his wife and brother, H O. Stone, was transfused to the patient.

The eleventh hour attempt to save Dr. Stone's life came in the form of one of the most remarkable operations known to medical science, and failed only because of the patient's extreme weakness. He had suffered for three weeks with the fever.

More than a quart of blood was pumped from the bodies of Mrs. Stone, her brother-in-law, an attache at the Michael Reese hospital, where the operation was performed, and two neighbors, all of whom volunteered to yield their life fluid to the man who lay at the point of death.

The infusion was made by means of a silver tube. placed in a small incision over the artery in the wrist of each of those who volunteered, and the tube was connected in a like manner to Dr Stone's right wrist. Then, with the aid of a small air pump, Dr. Kohn forced the blood into the patient's body.

SOME NOTABLE STRIKES

SOME LABOR WARS THAT HAVE LASTED FOR YEARS AND COST MILLIONS.

LONDON DOCK TROUBLE OF 1888

A Strike in the Welsh Slate Quarries That Lasted Three Years—Other Serious Disturbances in Labor Ranks.

The worst strike—so far as results went—that England has seen for many years past lasted only a month, says London Answers. This was the great London dock strike of 1888, when 80,000 men went out for a penny an hour extra wages. London, as a port, has never recovered from the disastrous effect of that strike.

The longest first magnitude strike which has been seen in this country for a generation was that of the Amalgamated Society of Engineers in 1897. It began on July 3, and its object was an eight-hour day. By October there were 70,000 men idle. Enormous sums were distributed in strike pay, but the distress became very severe.

In November a conference was arranged between the employers and the representatives of the strikers, but it proved a failure. The men stuck to their demands; the masters could not see their way to accept them. Week after week through the dreary winter the miserable struggle went on, and the misery became appalling. Conference after conference came to nothing.

At last, on January 15, 1898, the men withdrew their demand for a 48-hour week, but even then it was not until the end of the month that work was generally resumed. That strike cost the country at least five millions, and possibly twice that amount.

It was in October, 1900, that the men employed by the late Lord Penrhyn in his enormous Welsh slate quarries at Bethseda struck in a body. The quarrel between them and their employer had begun in 1863, and there had been numerous partial strikes previous to the great one. This Bethseda strike was chiefly caused by low wages, and by the fact that the men were only paid once a month.

The strike of 1900 holds the record for being the longest strike which this country has seen for nearly half a century past. It went on until November, 1903. During those three long years £364,000 was lost in wages alone, and whereas at the beginning of it we imported no slate into this country, at the end ships were bringing in over 1,200 tons of foreign slate a week!

A very odd strike began in Stourbridge in 1902. The Glass union had gradually obtained such extraordinary and tyrannical powers that the masters at last declared that there must be a change. There was no question of wages. The men were quite content with their pay, while the masters would even have raised the wages had the union desired them to do so. But the men refused to allow new hands to be taken on, and—worse than that—presumed to dictate to the masters what glass should be made. As the union would not yield, the masters gave their hands notice to quit. There was no ill feeling—quite the contrary. The men worked faithfully up to the last hour, left quietly and went home to live on their strike pay. The strike lasted over a year, and has done irreparable harm to our flint glass industry. Austria has now seized what was once almost a monopoly of Stourbridge.

There have been many bitter conflicts between colliers and pit owners. The biggest which this country has seen was the South Wales strike of 1898. This strike was started by the boys who acted as hauliers at one of the principal collieries suddenly throwing up their work. One hundred thousand men came out, and not a pick was swung for 11 days. The longest British coal strike was one which began in 1820, in Earl Fitzwilliam's collieries. The original quarrel was about the use of safety lamps. The strike never ended, for Lord Fitzwilliams took the extraordinary step of closing his pits altogether. Another long strike was caused—of all extraordinary things—by a ghost. In 1873 the miners in a Warwickshire pit struck in a body because they had seen a ghost, and one and all declared that some disaster would ensue. They stayed out for nearly a year, at a cost of over £30,000, before the owner succeeded in persuading them that the so-called "luminous boy" was nothing but a mass of phosphorescent fungus.

ORDERED 8,000 CARS

Missouri Pacific Is Having That Number Built and Receiving Them.

E. A. Gould, general superintendent of the Missouri Pacific railroad, gave out the information this morning that his road had an order in with a St. Louis car manufacturer for the purchase of 8,000 freight cars, says Monday's Kansas City Post. Mr. Gould was at the Baltimore hotel when seen.

"The cars are being turned out as fast as it is possible to build them," said he. "For the past few days we have been getting them at the rate of almost one hundred a day. Our road expects to do its part toward putting a stop to the howl about car shortage. After the roads have plenty of cars then we expect the shippers to do their part toward relieving the situation. It at present is as much the fault of the shippers who load the cars heavily as it is the fault of the railroads. When the roads have plenty of cars at their disposal then the fault will be entirely that of the shipper.

Mr. Gould favors the tonnage basis for switching charges in preference to the car basis. He also says that there must be a stop put to the promiscuous snatching of cars by competitive railroads.

"When this is stopped and all of the roads have plenty of cars at demand I expect the cry of car shortage to cease," said he.

WENT DOWN WITH SHIP

COLLISION BETWEEN OCEAN GOERS

Five Minutes After They Struck One Vessel Had Sunk, Carrying a Majority of All on Board.

San Francisco, Cal., July 22.—The steamer Columbia, bound from San Francisco for Portland, collided with the lumber steamer San Pedro Saturday at midnight off Shelter Cove, Mendocino county, during a heavy fog.

The Columbia was cut down to the water's edge, and sank in about five minutes after being struck. About one hundred persons sank with her to a watery grave. The rest of those on board, numbering about eighty, were saved by clinging onto the San Pedro, from which vessel they were rescued some hours later by the steamer Roanoke.

Capt. P. A. Doran, of the Columbia, went down with his vessel.

The San Pedro was picked up by the steamer George W. Elder and towed into Eureka this morning.

The Columbia was an iron screw steamer of 2,700 tons and was owned by the San Francisco and Portland Steamship Co.

When the collision occurred all on board were asleep except the watch on duty, lookout and officer on the bridge.

Frantic efforts were made by the helmsmen on each vessel to avert the collision, but of no avail. Alarms were sounded and the terrified passengers scrambled from the state rooms in their nightclothes and made every effort to escape, but the time was too short to use the usual life-saving apparatus. A life raft was launched with a number of passsengers, but only a few of the entire number aboard were saved.

She said that she would kill Smith if it was the last act of her life.

HILL'S BUSINESS COLLEGE

Mr. C. S. Bedinger arrived this week and has been installed as head of the commercial department. He is a teacher of many years' experience in business colleges both east and west. He starts off with his work in a way that is a great satisfaction to the students and the school.

Hill's Business college has been fortunate in having connected with it some of the best penmen in the United States. Mr. S. W. Ransom, now of the Ransomerian School of Penmanship at Kansas City, was with us seven years, and this collegian was awarded first prize for penmanship by the Missouri State fair on his work. After Mr. Ransom's departure the pen art work was handled by his very able and well-known pupil, Mr. Francis B. Koock, who has been connected with the school until recently. In the person of Mr. Bedinger we have one of the strong teachers of penmanship and pen art work in the United States. His work has attracted considerable attention in the various penmanship journals, and it is the purpose of the school to emphasize this work with the students in both departments as it has never before.

Mr. William Bohling and Mr. E. A. Taylor recently left to accept positions in St. Louis. Mr. Taylor writes that the next day after his arrival he went to work in the auditor's office of the Missouri Pacific railway as bookkeeper, at $50 per month.

Mr. Charles Harvey and Mr. E. A. Hood, both rural school teachers, have completed their work in the commercial department and accepted public school positions for the coming year, with the expectation of returning and taking the rest of the combination course next spring.

We have just been notified by the Remington Typewriter company, at Kansas City that they have placed Miss Nelle Farnsworth, one of our recent graduates, in a good position at a very satisfactory salary.

Miss Mae Garrett has accepted a position as bookkeeper at Chasnoff's. She likes her work and is giving complete satisfaction.

We have the pleasure of receiving a visit from one of our former students, Mr. Sewell Nelson, of Wellington, Kansas. He left us in February to accept a stenographic position with the Santa Fe at $55 per month. He has had two promotions, is now receiving $65 and is scheduled for an advance of $5 August 1. Each time he has been promoted the office has called on us for another stenographer, and we now have three stenographers at that place. Mr. Hugh Hogan has accepted a position as clerk in the same office and none of them started at less than $50 per month, with good chances of promotion.

During the past week four students have taken advantage of our special rates, purchased their scholarship in advance and began on their mail course. If purchased at once, $45 will buy our regular $60 life scholarship in either the commercial or shorthand department and $70 will purchase our regular $90 combination life scholarship.

Those purchasing scholarships will be given the privilege of instruction by mail until they are ready to enter school. By taking advantage of the mail instruction you can save from four weeks to two months of actual work in school, which is equal to a further deduction of the amount of your board, room and incidental expenses for the time saved. This is an exceptional opportunity to purchase a scholarship in one of the best schools in the west at an exceedingly low price. Write for free catalogue and further information.

BAD GIRL COSTS $1,500

THE PROCESS REQUIRES FIVE YEARS AT THE STATE IN DUSTRIAL HOME.

AMAZING RESULTS ARE SECURED

Many Former Inmates of Institution Have Become Useful Citizens, According to Editor Walter Williams.

It costs the state of Missouri $1,500 in money and requires five years of time to make a good girl from a bad girl, writes Walter Williams in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. This is the estimate of the managers of the State Industrial Home for Girls, located at Chillicothe.

There are 162 girls in the home from all parts of the state. The county from which the girl is sent pays $75 a year for her maintenance. When a bad boy is sent to the Training School for Boys, at Boonville, also supported by the state, the county from which he is sent pays $120 a year for his support. The board believes that in view of the good work being done by the institutions and the increasing number of inmates it is only just that the state should put each on equal terms, and should meet all the expenses of both institutions.

For the salaries of the officers and teachers and for the support of the institution the legislature appropriated $37,000 for two years. It figured that the actual cost per pupil in the home, outside of county contributions, is 48 cents per day. Adding the county appropriations and counting out the expenses of the girls with whom the attempted reformation does not succeed, the managers estimate of $1,500 is the cost of making bad girls into good girls.

Is It Worth While?

Does it pay? No good citizen would reply otherwise than the answer of the Indiana farmer to Horace Mann: "Does it pay to build a $100,000 Y. M. C. A. building to save a boy?" "Yes," said the Hoosier farmer, "if it was my boy."

The Industrial Home for Girls is saving our girls, the girls of Missouri, and no person can visit the home without going away as its friend and well wisher. The home is located on a beautiful tract of land just at the boundary of the delightful country town of Chillicothe, in Livingston county. It was created by an act of the general assembly April 7, 1837. The superintendent and other officials live on the grounds. The campus has been converted by landscape gardening into a beautiful park like lawn, and the skill and work put upon it has abundantly paid.

A Missouri girl may get into the home in one of several ways. She may commit a felony if she is between the ages of 7 and 17 years; she may be sent by the trial judge to the Industrial Home until she is 21 years of age, or is paroled by the board upon good behavior. The original statute reads: "Each girl over the age of 7 and under the age of 17 years who shall be convicted of being a vagrant or of any offense not punishable with death or imprisonment for life, may, except in cases deemed incorrigible, be sent to said Industrial Home until she shall have reached the age of 21 years, if the court or magistrate before whom each conviction shall be had shall deem the girl so convicted a fit subject to be committed to such home, such sentence to be approved by the circuit court or probate judge before committed, and the age of the girl to be indorsed on the commitment."

Apprentice Plan Adopted.

Any girl may be bound as an apprentice to the Industrial Home as to any master, that is, she may be bound as apprentice to some approved industrial art, calling or trade until she reaches the age of 18 years or marriage. There is a provision in the statutes with reference to the binding out of apprentices which provides that in all indentures in the probate court for binding out any orphan or poor child as an apprentice there shall be inserted a clause to the following effect: That the master to whom such minor is bound shall cause to be given to such minor a common school education, and at the expiration of such apprenticeship shall give such apprentice a new Bible and two new suits of clothes, to be worth $50 and $12 in current money of the United States.

The attempts to escape have usually been made in the day time, but occasionally there is one at night. It is more difficult now since a patent automatic locker has been applied to the rooms, by which all the rooms on the hall are locked by a single bit of machinery. Last summer a girl got as far as Utica, ten miles away, clad only in a cotton garment, and she was arrested and returned to the home. Usually they are caught nearer to the school grounds.

The girl is taught to work and is given a common school education. No idlers are permitted. An effort will be made to put the younger girls, those from 7 to 12 years of age, in one of the cottages, separate from the older ones. This much needed reform is being urged by the state board of charities, of which Elder J. N. Crutcher, of Chillicothe, is a member. Girls are detailed to care for the house work, the laundry, the cooking and other domestic duties. Each girl must care for her own room. Each girl must learn to cook, to sew and to keep house. Some are taught stenography, a few have studied to be milliners and other occupations have been opened to them.

The girls are up at 5 o'clock in the morning, and except for meal hours and play time, they are at work the entire day, each day in the week, except Sunday. Breakfast is served at 5:30, dinner at 11:30—they call it dinner at the home—and supper at 5:30. On Sunday they must study the Bible, attend Sunday school and religious exercises.

There is no better Sunday school in Missouri than that of the State Industrial school, of which Miss Roberta Ray, daughter of former Supreme Judge Robert D. Ray, is superintendent. On Saturday evening Miss Ray holds a teachers' meeting. Ffteen of the girls act as teachers of the others. Ministers from the various churches of Chillicothe conduct religious services in the home. The general assembly has just given an appropriation of $500 for chaplain services, and it is planned to have regular preaching services by the various ministers each Sunday.

No girl is permitted to leave the school who can not read and write, though many come who do not know the alphabet, and frequently those who can not spell.

RECOGNITION IS DENIED

LAW ENFORCEMENT LEAGUE IN ST. LOUIS CANNOT SECURE ARRESTS

FOR VIOLATION OF SUNDAY LAW

The Mound City Has Twelve Hundred Policemen Who Were Sworn In to Enforce Laws of the City.

St. Louis, Mo., July 23.—The Missouri Law Enforcement league, Rev. S. I. Lindsay's new police auxiliary organization, was denied recognition Monday by Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Falkenhainer, who has charge of the issuance of warrants.

William Schnaker and Harry Cornell, employes of the league, lodged with the warrant officer a complaint against Michael J. Mooney, charged with selling them drinks Sunday in the saloon at 1006 Chestnut street. With them were Policemen Reardon and Quinn, who made the arrest after the detectives had called them in.

"I shall not issue any warrants on complaint of your league," Falkenhainer told the men. "You go beyond your rights in causing violations of the law, just to 'make a case.' The city has 1,200 policemen sworn to enforce the law, and if more are needed the police board should provide them.

"If those we have are not doing their duty, your league or any organization or individual has the right to complain to the police board, but that is as far as you have a right to go. You must not take the law into your own hands."

Unionist Says Railroad Attempted to Bribe Him.

Louisville, Ky., July 23—J. B. Buckalew, of Washington, D. C., third vice president of the International Association of Machinists, created a sensation during a meeting of machinists here yesterday, by declaring that he had been approached by an alleged representative of the Louisville & Nashville railroad, who offered him $10,000 to call off the strike now on in the local shops of the company. B. M. Starks, general manager of the road, when seen last night, entered an emphatic denial that any effort had been made to bribe Buckalew to call off the strike by anyone representing the road.

NEWS of the NATIONAL CAPITAL

BY ROBERT HITCHCOCK

Special to Democrat-Sentinel.

Washington, July 20.—Mrs. Justice Harlan is the leader in a new philanthrophic movement which has for its object the erection of a summer home for cats, where the feline pets may spend the summer away from the heat of the cities and the uncertainties of summer resorts for humans. Plans are now being made by the women interested for the purchase of a large tract of land, in a convenient place, on which will be erected an edifice especially designed for boarding handsome, delicate and expensive cats belonging to persons who regularly leave the cities during the summer and who at present either have to take their pets on long journeys or leave them at home in the uncertain care of servants. Mrs. Harlan, who originated the idea, is herself the owner of three beautiful Maltese cats valued at $1,000 each.

Roosevelt a Populist?

If you do not remember United States Senator William Alfred Peffer, you at least have not forgotten his whiskers. The bearded one was the representative of Kansas in the upper house of the national legislature at the time when Kansas was swept by hot winds, populism and grasshoppers. Asked as to what had become of the people's party, the ex-solon of the long hirsute appendage, replied: "One of the 'Pops' is in the White house now."

According to Senator Peffer, who is now nearing 76, the populists have been benevolently assimilated by the republicans. "The 'cranky notions' we were taunted about have now come to be recognized as conservative principles and policies by both the larger parties," he declared.

Senator Peffer retired from the senate, where he had been sent as the personal embodiment of bucolic unrest, a decade ago, and is now all but forgotten by the general public. At one time he was among the most noted men in the country and was universally regarded as the friend of the farmers of the country in their battle with the trusts and the combinations. He was the anointed one of the agriculturists sent to scourge the money changers from the temple. Papers opposed to his political program used him as a daily butt of the jokesmiths. All of his personal peculiarities, especially his long whiskers, were magnified manifold and the great ability he undoubtedly possessed was minimized. When he was in the senate he was its most conspicuous figure; when he dropped out, it was without even the tribute of a dull thud. For some time past he has been in Washington, engaged in the preparation of an index of the proceedings of congress since the beginning of the government, a work which will be of incalculable value. The task is now nearing completion and the aged ex-senator hopes to have the copy in the hands of the publisher by the last of the year.

Many of the former colleagues of Senator Peffer, both democrats and republicans, are firm friends of the former populist and place a high estimate upon his ability, often seeking his advice in legislative matters "Wthout having changed his opinions one jot, Peffer would now be looked upon as conservative if he were in the senate," said a prominent republican recently.

A Subway De Luxe.

The smallest subway in the world is now being built in Washington and will be in operation within four or five months. The underground road will be less than one-third of a mile in length and will connect the capitol building with the house of representatives office building. Two wide walks are being built in the subway, which will also contain a narrow gage electric line on which cars of a miniature pattern will be operated at frequent intervals while congress is in session. The object of this underground railway is to obviate the difficulty encountered by congressmen in going from their offices to the capitol. It is now necessary to cross a wide street in the capitol park, and this is always thronged with carriages and automobiles. As a result it sometimes requires twenty or more minutes for the legislators, few of whom are very spry, to get from office to capitol.

Reform Customs Service.

"To make the customs service less unpopular" is the slogan of Secretary Cortelyou in regard to the reforms now being made in the regulations governing the admission of foreign goods to the United States. While the precautions against smuggling will be as stringent as heretofore, the rules have been changed so that personal baggage may be searched with the least possible friction and inconvenience to the incoming passenger. Matters will hereafter be so arranged that the various delays which are so exasperating to the traveling public will be abolished. Uniform courtesy will hereafter be demanded of every custom officer—a requirement that is not new, but that has been very sparingly observed.

TURN DOWN MRS. SHONTS

By the Reids Stirs Up Social Sensation in London.

London, July 23.—There is renewed and more pronounced criticism by Americans in London on the way in which presentations at court are made by the American embassy. It is asserted that the presentations are "managed" by the titled American set or dictated by politics.

The king's state ball last Friday night was the most brilliant affair of the season and there was a warm struggle of fashionables in the American colony to obtain invitations.

Mrs. Theodore P. Shonts, who came to London in the spring with her two daughters and with a letter of introduction from President Roosevelt to Ambassador Reid, applied to the embassy vainly for invitations, but was informed that the list was full.

Mrs. Shonts is altogether eligible, because she and her daughters were presented at the spring court by the Reids. It is declared Mrs. Shonts has investigated and declares that all invitations are dictated to the embassy by a certain set.

LIFTED WOMAN'S PURSE

While Trying to Teach His Wife the Lesson of Being Careful.

Deftly taking the purse as he thought from the belt of his wife, what was his surprise when he got home with her to find his wife's purse intact, the one in his possession having been unconsciously taken from a stranger.

"I may not have the last word in the matter," the man said to his wife, "but let it be distinctly understood that I was right when I said it was dead easy for a thief to swipe a lady's purse on the street."

BIGGEST APPLE CONTRACT

Virginian to Send 25,000 Barrels of Pippins to London.

Richmond, Va., July 22.—C. E. Sydnor, of this city, one of the biggest apple men in the country, has just closed a contract with firms in London for the shipment of 25,000 barrels of pippins from this state before October 1.

The dealers in the city of New York, chagrined at being bested by a Virginia business man, are denying that Mr. Sydnor has any such contract. One of them, a man named White, has promised to give $50 to any charity which may be named by Sydnor if he can prove his claim for the order he has.

The papers have been forwarded to the New York man, and Mr. Sydnor is expecting a check for the money. The apples are to be placed on the boat at a cost of not to exceed $6.50 abarrel.

OUT OF A CAR WINDOW

The Man Dashed and Was Killed Beneath the Wheels.

Greenville, Ohio, July 23.—Section men found strewn along the Pennsylvania tracks the remains of George Seisridge, aged 31, of New York City.

He was traveling on a westbound train and had been engaged in conversation with Senator W. W. Hunt, of New York City.

While the senator's back was turned for a moment it is supposed he made a sudden dash through the window of the car and was struck by an east bound train on the other track.

When he was missed a search was made for him, to no avail, and it was only when the mangled and almost unrecognizable remains were found that the mystery of his disappearance was cleared up.

Identity was established through a paid-up insurance policy for $2,000 in favor of his brother. There was also found a through ticket to St. Louis and about $500 in currency. No cause is known for his act.

Material Has Not Arrived.

The new Masonic home at Seventh street and Osage avenue, which has been undergoing remodeling for several months, and which was to have been completed by May 15, is not yet finished, owing to the failure of material to arrive, and Contractors Johnson and Butler can furnish no definite statement as to when the home will be ready for occupancy.

WENT INSANE ON A CAR

Tore Up Things Generally and Injured a Passenger.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 23.—Frank A. Streeter, 322 Marshall avenue, Columbus, until recently a prosperous hardware merchant, went suddenly and violently insane on a Lake Shore electric car yesterday afternoon, nearly wrecked the interior of the car, created a panic among passengers and crew and severely injured one passenger.

Streeter was in camp at Cedar Point with A. M. Leach, his brother-in-law, and others. He had been an inmate of the state asyum at Columbus, six years ago, but was released as cured.

His friends thought they saw signs of returning insanity and decided to deliver him to the authorities here before he became violent. They started for this city with him at noon yesterday.

Near Rocky river his mind suddenly gave way. He arose in the car and began to preach. Finally he began to break windows, tore the fare register from the wall and struck one passenger a vicious blow in the face with a water jug. He was handcuffed and while two Lakewood officers sat on him on the floor of the car the crew bent themselves to the task of quieting the excited passengers.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect it.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. GAVE AN OVERALL PARTY

Miss Addie Everett Was the Hostess Friday Night.

One of the most unique entertainments ever enjoyed in this city was given by Miss Addie Everett, one of the city's charming young ladies, at her home on West Third street, Friday night, when twelve lady friends assembled at her home to participate in an "overall" party.

The affair was given in honor of Miss Maud Varner, an accomplished young lady of Otterville, who is Miss Everett's guest.

Each guest was attired in overalls, with shirt to match, and the affair was thoroughly enjoyed by all present.

The first prize, a hand-painted vase, was won by Miss Varner, she being declared the best-looking "man." Miss Nell Collins was awarded the first prize for answering the most questions regarding a man, her prize being a leather card case. Miss LaVerna McGinnis won second honors for answering the same questions, her prize being a hand-painted jug; while the consolation prize, a rubber doll, was awarded to Miss Mollie Bohon, she being declared the most comical "man."

Other diversions furnished ample amusement for the guests, and at a late hour refreshments of sandwiches, coffee, ices and cake were served, after which the guests returned home, voting Miss Everett a charming entertainer.

HOLD A FAIR AT LEETON

Exhibit Poultry, Sheep and Hogs Saturday, September 7.

At a meeting recently held in the Bank of Leeton by those interested in the fair to be held here the coming fall, the name "Leeton Farm Produce Exhibit" was adopted, and the date of holding the same was fixed for Saturday, September 7th, says the Leeton Times. The general parade was set for 10 o'clock of that day.

A set of rules and regulations was adopted, being the same as the Calhoun colt show, and will be printed for distribution.

It was ordered that the committee on arrangements prepare show rooms and booths for the exhibit of poultry, sheep and hogs.

Will Keep Loafers Away.

Charles Evans, cashier of the Sedalia Trust company, has installed an iron folding gate at the entrance of the steps leading to the institution, which gate is closed and locked at night, so as to keep people from lounging on the door steps.

Cough Caution

Never, positively never poison your lungs. If you cough—even from a simple cold only—you should always heal, soothe, and ease the irritated bronchial tubes. Don't blindly suppress it with a stupefying poison. It's strange how some things finally come about. For twenty years Dr. Shoop has constantly warned people not to take cough mixtures or prescriptions containing Opium, Chloroform, or similar poisons. And now—a little late though—Congress says "Put it on the label, if poisons are in your Cough Mixture." Good! Very good!! Hereafter this very reason mothers, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine, else it must by law be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance then, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and note the difference. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding

CHAUTAUQUA, FIFTH DAY

PROF. F. K. FARR'S BIBLE STUDY

"Psalms of Devotion" Tomorrow's Topic—In the Afternoon Hon. J. N. Tillman Will Talk on "College Life."

While no session of the Sedalia Chautauqua was held Sunday morning, an interested audience heard the popular Lyric quartet's prelude of sacred songs in the afternoon, followed by the lecture of Dr. Eugene May, of Washington, D. C., on "St. Paul in Rome."

Though quiet and almost reserved in manner, Dr. May is no mean word painter. He traced the footprints of the great Apostle through the Eternal City, and closed his lecture with an eloquent presentation of the contrast between Paul and Nero, the emperor who sentenced Paul to a martyr's doom.

Several who have been regular attendants at the Chautauqua declared Dr. May's address the best yet heard from its platform. This afternoon the same speaker delivered one of his charming travel lectures, "Up the Matterhorn"—a good subject for a July day in Sedalia.

The address of Mrs. La Salle Corbell Pickett last night held a large audience enthralled in closest attention, which was a greatest tribute to the speaker's power than any amount of applause could have been. Applause, when it came, was hearty, but the rush of the lecturer's narrative left little room for it.

Just before beginning her lecture, Mrs. Pickett was presented with a beautiful bouquet in the name of the local chapter of the Daughters of the Coniederacy.

Stately in presence, thoroughly at ease before her audience, and with full control of a voice easily heard to the limits of the tent, the widow of the great Confederate general had no difficulty in winning and holding attention as she reviewed the circumstances leading up to the battle of Gettysburg.

Her narration of "Pickett's charge" was vivid, full of detail, dramatic and pathetic, yet polished and nobly reserved. In delineating this turning point in a struggle which was itself a turning point of the whole war, Mrs. Pickett has the advantage of personal recollections and private papers of her late husband.

It is an unwritten chapter of history which she relates, for Pickett's report to Lee was lost and never recovered.

Prof. Farr's lecture on Bible study this morning was well attended and many expressed their interest in his presentation of the poetry of the Psalms. The Bible lectures, at 10 o'clock every morning, are free to the public.

Tomorrow afternoon Hon. J. N. Tillman, of Arkansas, will be heard in his latest lecture, "College Life." The president of the University of Arkansas knows his subject from all sides and should present it interestingly.

RETURNED FROM FRISCO

(Monday's Daily.)

John R. Dey, a Katy passenger conductor, and wife, returned Sunday from a two weeks' visit at San Francisco, Cal. While there, Mr. Day met W. T. Maddox, a former Katy train dispatcher of this city, who is now superintendent of the Los Angeles Street Railway company, and who is doing well.

Mr. Dey says 'Frisco is in a frightful condition. "Every labor organization is on a strike," said Mr. Dey. "The carmen teamsters, plumbers, printers, bricklayers and every other trade have trouble. If you ride in a vehicle you're called a scab, and if you ride on a street car you're called a scab, and the only thing for us to do was to stay at the hotel.

"Hundreds of buildings are seen throughout the city half finished, and a state of anarchy exists all the time. Visitors are requested to remain off the streets after 6 o'clock in the evening."

Mrs. Bagby and her friends are on their annual vacation and will be absent several weeks, visiting at interesting cities in the east.

THE MYSTERY IS SOLVED

BURIAL OF A GIRL BABY IN BOX ON THE BLUFF NEAR BOONVILLE.

SAID PARENTS LIVE IN SEDALIA

The facts surrounding the finding of the body of a litle girl babe buried in a crude box on the bluff overlooking the Missouri river on the Rudolph Toennes' farm just west of this city a few weeks ago has at last been solved by the authorities, who are now in full possession of all the details, says Saturday's Boonville Democrat.

Its mother was a Mrs. Effie Osborn, or Love, who was visiting here from Sedalia, and she gave birth to the babe in a house on Spring street, between Fourth and Fifth streets, in this city, on May 30, Decoration Day. A well-known physician, whose ethics are above reproach, attended her and placed the infant in an incubator, where it died two hours later.

The mother asked that her husband be called by telephone, and a man came and introduced himself as "Mr. Love," the husband and father, but it was learned later that his right name was Cecil Johnson, and that he was a well-known clerk in a prominent store there.

He took a fatherly interest in the welfare of the woman and the dead infant, and made arrangements for its burial. He had the box made at Cochran's carpenter shop and promised the mother that it should be taken back to Sedalia for interment. He left the house about 10 o'clock that night, bearing the body, and nothing was seen of him until next day, and the woman says she never suspected but that he had buried it as he promised.

The attending physician says that the child died a natural death and that there was no criminal circumstances surrounding it other than the fact that the parents were not married.

The unraveling of this mystery, through the prosecuting attorney, was caused by the unusual amount of publicity given it by the Daily Democrat, and reproduced by the Sedalia Democrat-Sentinel.

The lady with whom Mrs. Osborne was visiting, and later Mrs. Osborne herself, called up Prosecuting Attorney Johnston and confessed their connection with the case to avoid a possible more serious charge.

Johnson is a married man. He has a wife and three children, and was formerly a street car conductor. Up to a couple of days ago he had been employed as a clerk in an Ohio street grocery, but he laid off to look after some private business and had not returned today.

Mrs. Effie Osborn is the wife of Dick Osborn and was a former member of the Salvation Army.

CUT HIS THROAT, THEN RANG

St. Louis, July 22.—Louis D. Goodman, an attorney, 37 years old, who has been active in sociological work, cut his throat with a razor Sunday in his office. He slashed himself several times and probably will die.

THE EAST AND WEST ROAD

THE CONSTRUCTION DESCRIBED

Curtis Hill, state highway commissioner, arrived in Fayette last Friday, as chronicled in Sunday's Democrat-Sentinel, having driven overland from Columbia. Mr. Hill is on a tour of inspection, seeking the most feasible route for the proposed state road from St. Louis to Kansas City.

Mr. Hill stated that the route he would recommend would depend largely upon where the material is cheapest and the county most thickly settled. Wherever practical, the road will run through county seat towns. If either the north or central route is chosen the Missouri river will have to be bridged. If the southern route is selected, which the people of Pettis county hope will be the case, the Gasconade and Osage rivers will have to be bridged, and Mr. Hill stated that the cost of the two bridges on the southern route would equal that across the Missouri, while they would be in more peril at all times from overflows, because of the treachery of those waters.

The proposed highway will be eighteen feet wide, with a liberal allowance on each side for a nicely graveled dirt road, which will be largely used in good weather, as Mr. Hill stated there is no road that equals a well kept dirt road in good weather.

At this point Mr. Hill stated that the split log drag was the greatest device known for keeping the dirt roads in good condition. He advocated working county roads on the contract plan altogether, and said that force should be used if necessary to prevent county dirt roads being worked during the summer months. Dirt roads should never be worked while dry but while moist.

The right of way for the new state road will be sixty feet wide. Mr. Hill approximates the cost of building the road at $4,000 a mile. Farms alongside the road would pay the heaviest tax because of the most direct benefit. The further removed from the road the smaller the tax would be on farms.

Mr. Hill stated that such a road as will be built will last fifteen or twenty years before repairs will have to be made. The value of such a road is more local than otherwise, and after the value of such a road has been demonstrated, county courts will be besieged with petitions for rock roads in every direction in the county.

Mr. Hill stated that the state highway engineer was compelled by law to give all aid possible without any cost whatever to any and all counties desiring his services in the matter of suggestions, plans, estimates, etc., relative to the building of roads and bridges.

When asked the question, would a line of freight motor cars be run over the state highway Mr. Hill stated that there was always some person to take hold of such an enterprise and make it a success. He also stated that he thought the building of the highway would be an incentive for the construction of a cross-state trolley line, for civilization would follow the new road.

Prof. T. Berry Smith, of Fayette, suggests that if the central route is adopted that the road be called College avenue, because of the large number of college towns through which the road would pass.

Judge John R. Harrison, of Fayette, who helped frame the new road law, said he would give the right of way and $2,000 cash if the road passed his farm. Howard county hopes to be on the line of the road, if either the north or the central route is adopted.

A Marshall dispatch of the 21st says: State Highway Engineer Curtis Hill was in the city last night to meet the citizens and farmers of Saline county relative to the location of the cross-state road which is to be decided upon by Mr. Hill Aug. 5, when he returns to Jefferson City to meet the commission and Governor Folk.

Mr. Hill was inspecting the central route, which he stated, if built, would touch the county seat in each county, with the exception of Lafayette county, where it would pass through Higginsville. If the central route is chosen a bridge over the Missouri river at Arrow Rock will have to be constructed. This, Mr. Hill stated, would cost in the neighborhood of $150,000, and the revenue for that purpose was not in any way provided for at this time.

On Monday Mr. Hill will start on the inspection of the southern route and then go to the northern route. He stated it would have been much better if he could have had until fall to go over the routes. It is his duty, he said, to go to any part of the state to confer with the various counties concerning any roads to be built, and to do so at the expense of the state and not the county or individuals. His appointment is for four years and only a part of his time will be consumed in the construction and superintending of the state road.

Mr. Hill departed for Higginsville last night to confer with the citizens there.

The first meeting of the Methodist congregation since the remodeling of their church home was held on last Sunday. A special musical program was given, after which the church was cleared of indebtedness through subscriptions secured by the pastor, Rev. S. G. Welbourn. Rev. Welbourn is one of the most popular ministers who has ever occupied the pulpit in this church, and has just as many friends among the members of other churches as among his own parishioners, and it is largely through his efforts that the building stands completed as it is today.

Mr. Foster was for a number of years a resident of this city, when he was connected with the Sweet Springs Milling Co., giving up his position here to accept the management of the new mills at Higginsville. There is no more prominent family in Lafayette county than that of Miss Higgins, they having been identified with the city of Higginsville since its foundation.

one mile detour to the north around Henry school house to avoid some bad sand. This follows the old government trail from Denver as far as Plainville. It is along the watershed, so it is dry and almost level.

From Plainville the route extends east seven miles, and from there via Lincoln, following the Saline river, as the Colby branch of the Union Pacific, to Tescott. From Tescott it goes east four miles and then north three miles to avoid one mile of sand; then seven miles east andsouth one mile, taking the main road into Bennington to mark the way. From Bennington the road follows east along the section line through Talmadge to Junction City; thence via Fort Riley to Manhattan; then via Wabaunsee to Wamego, following the south side of the river to avoid bad sand on the other bank; then follows the railroad to a point beyond Belvue, where the road crosses the railroad track. The route follows the north road one mile and then runs east to St. Marys. From there the route follows the main traveled road into Topeka. I located another road on the south side of the river, via McFarland and Maple Hill, for those who want to avoid sand altogether, but it is rough.

"The people along the road in Kansas have done all they could to help me. Traveling in the manner I do I put myself on a level with the farmers, and they have extended me every courtesy. I have not had to buy a bit of horse feed since crossing the state line into Kansas. I am also specially indebted for assistance in my work to the mayor of Colby, S. S. Stotts, of Hill City; Mr. Ryan, of Lincoln, and James Ewart, of Minneapolis.

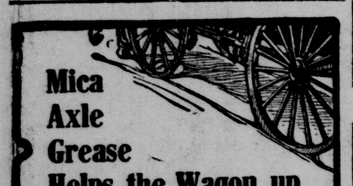

"This road I am now locating will in time, especially if the government converts it into rock road, bring an army of auto tourists through Kansas on their way to the remarkable scenery of the peerless Rockies, a mystic expanse of Nature's Wonderland far surpassing the Alps."

Mr. Thatcher will remain in Topeka until Sunday morning, when a detachment of local automobisists will escort him out of town on his way to Lawrence. Local autoists, as well as those along the route are taking a lively interest in his mission for good roads. From Kansas City he will travel with his unique outfit to Washington, D. C., where he expects to lay the results of his quest for good roads before the president and congress.

This adventurous young man boasts that for the past two years he has not slept under a roof. He has traveled through the mountains and deserts of the west. He is of a restless, roving disposition and apparently gains satisfaction from his nomadic life.

IT WAS A GREAT SPEECH

SENATOR LA FOLLETTE HELD AUDIENCE FOR THREE HOURS LAST NIGHT.

ADDRESS GREETED WITH APPLAUSE

Well toward 1,000 people sat for three hours at the Chautauqua last night and encouraged Senator La-Follette with frequent applause as he delivered his address on "Representative Government." The Wisconsin senator was earnest and even impassioned in his discourse, whose burden was the declaration that representative government as conceived by our fathers is now facing the greatest danger that has ever menaced it.

Senator La Follette was introduced at a few minutes after 8 o'clock, Judge Lamm presenting him to the audience. The speaker's first words were an evident reference to the utterances of Congressman Landis in recent addresses. "I grant all that may have been said to you concerning our present prosperity," said he, "but we need to fight for representative government. Eternal vigilance is the price of safety, and especially in a democracy is this true." Continuing, Senator LaFollette said in part:

"When, fifteen years ago, in a speech delivered in Wisconsin, I said. 'The basic principle of government is the will of the people,' some of the newspapers called me a populist next day. Yet this is the doctrine of Washington, of Madison, of Hamilton. I have been forced to believe that our government is changing. Its form remains the same, but its vital principle, representation of the will of the people, is disappearing. More than seventy years ago the Frenchman, De Tocqueville, said after a careful investigation, 'In the United States I never heard of a man spending his money to corrupt the people.' Twenty years ago the Englishman, James Bryce, in his great work upon our government devoted a whole chapter to the subject of corruption, and said, 'The great corporations are everywhere the bane of state politics.' Though I concede our present prosperity, still I believe that the greatest peril that ever confronted our government is here now. Benedict Arnold was not more guilty than any man who sells the confidence of the people who have elected him.

"The industrial and commercial development of our country falls into four periods. The first was that of individual effort and small partnerships. The second was that of corporations—a wonderful business device making possible the enlistment of large capital. Under this there was freedom, iddependence and open competition, resulting in fair prices. In the third period, the corporations in each line of business were united—doing away with competition and enabling them to dictate to every household the prices of its necessities.

"Thus there is not a man in America who can sell his wheat or beef or mutton or pork in a competitive market today. Six men in Chicago control the market for cattle. Their power dates back to a secret rebate agreement with the railroads in 1874. Consider the coal trust. Four railroads now own the three little fields which include all the anthracite coal of the country. As I desire to speak conservatively, I say only that the roads obtained control of this land by robbing the people who formerly owned it. The same conspiracy is at work to control the supply of soft coal. It is backed by officials of the Standard Oil company. They stop at nothing; they will gain their end unless the national government retains the title to all coal land now owned by it, and leases the land on strict conditions.

"Within the last six or eight years the fourth period has begun. The men who organized the trusts knew full well that they were acting in violation of law. They have perfected and strengthened their organization by a combination of combinations, a 'community of interests,' which is now controlled entirely by less than 100 men. 'The World's Work,' a conservative magazine, in its October, 1905, issue, gave the names of 78 of these men. These 78 hold 1,600 directorships in great corporations. Eight men of them control nine billions of the fifteen billions of railroad capital in this country—the six great systems which now comprise nine-tenths of the important railway mileage. A reliable railway manual states plainly, and shows in detail, that these six systems are bound together in one common interest."

Discussing the trust question further. the speaker said:

"John Sherman said in 1890 that the powers of the head of one of our great trusts were a kingly prerogative. If we would not permit an emperor, we ought not to permit an autocrat of trade. It is good old republican doctrine that competition is the handmaid of protection. The tariff is now one-sided and must soon be reformed."

On railway rate legislation Senator La Follette spoke at length. He called attention to the existence of a decision of the supreme court to the effect that no railroad could justly charge a high rate in order to pay dividends on fictitious capital, "watered" stock. Reviewing his own experiences in the senate, he read the roll call of 40 ayes and 27 nays on the motion to table his own vitally important amendments to the rate bill. Voices from the audience asked why Senator Stone did not vote, his name not appearing on either list. Senator La Follette answered that Senator Stone might have been paired. he did not know.

"What do I get for saying these things, Denunciation from many newspapers. As for my Chautauqua fee, a large part of it goes to print literature on these questions. Political preference? Is not the machine of my own party arrayed against me? This is what I shall receive: I will have a place in the history of this movement to restore free government, and no one can take it away from me." (Applause.)

Of unusual strength is the Chautauqua program for Sunday afernoon and evening. Rev. Dr. Eugene May, of Washington, D. C., one of the best known pulpit orators of his church, is to occupy the platform in the afternoon, delivering his lecture on the life of Paul, whom Dr. May chooses to name as "the mightiest Roman of them all."

The evening lecture is one which it would be difficult to parallel on the American platform at the present time. The widow of Gen Pickett, a perfect type of the Southern grande dame, makes upon her audiences no impression of physical weakness or of inability to cope with her subject. There is in her addresses no note of bitterness, and blue and gray alike have honored her wherever she has appeared.

On Monday Dr. May will be heard in one of his travel lectures, in which his power of word painting has full scope. The lecturer of Monday evening is perhaps the dean of the American lyceum platform. Dr. James Hedley, who for twenty-seven years has been delighting. amusing and instructing audiences everywhere. Any Chautauqua which can say "we have Hedley" is proud of it.

The Sedalia Chautauqua has so far been fortunate in the prompt arrival of all its "talent" and in the punctual carrying out of its program, almost to the minute.

The lecture Friday night was by Congressman C. B. Landis, the Indiana country editor who landed ten years ago where good editors sometimes go, and still enlivens the republican side of congress. Landis gave the large audience what he denominated "The Message of an Optimist." It happens that on this particular Chautauqua circuit he has been in every case precedede or followed by Senator La Follette. From some of Brer Landis's opening remarks it might be inferred that he wants it distinctly known that he takes a more roseate view of the past, the present and the future than does the Wisconsin senator. With the same homely wit and everyday wisdom that made his "The Man on the Corner" column in his own paper the most talked-about thing in Indiana once, Landis took the audience into his confidence, and leaving politics mostly aside, put everybody in a good humor with the world.

The Lyric quartet, which is to assist in the program of today and Monday, highly delighted a fair audience on Saturday afternoon. Those who allowed the threatened rain storm to keep them away would not have suffered inconvenience had they attended, for the Chautauqua's new tent easily shed the light showers. The quartet is composed of experienced solo singers, ladies whose voices blend with the perfection which comes only of long practice—seven years, in the case of these musicians. Solo and duet work by members of the quartet served as a pleasing variation in a program of just the right length. It concluded with a specialty number entitled, "The Old Melodeon," which was very much enjoyed. Four ladies meet together to "reminisce" about the days of their girlhood. when the old melodeon was the center of the "higher life" for the family, and the means through which all their aspirations were expressed.

WAS VERY NEARLY FATAL

ACCIDENT TO MR. AND MRS. A. E. LESLIE HAD VERY FORTUNATE OUTCOME.

THEIR BUGGY WAS RUN INTO

Mrs. Leslie Was Thrown Under Horse's Feet—Husband and Child Also Tipped From Vehicle Onto Paved Street.

(Sunday's Daily.)

Mrs. A. E. Leslie, wife of he proprietor of the Pilot grocery, at 1001 East Sixteenth street, and residing at 1003 East Sixteenth street, had a narrow escape from perhaps fatal injuries in a very dangerous accident, at the corner of Second and Ohio streets, at 7:30 o'clock Saturday night.

Mrs. Leslie, in company with her husband and five-year-old daughter, was seated in a buggy to which was hitched one horse. The vehicle was standing near the curbing on the north side of Second street, about halfway between the front and rear end of the Collins Furniture company's store.

Regardless of the corner or the number of people on the thoroughfare the driver made a sharp turn, attempting to go east on Second street. Owing to the unusually fast speed of the team, he was unable to stop them and crashed headlong into the vehicle occupied by Mr. Leslie, wife and daughter.

The buggy was overturned Mr. Leslie being thrown to the pavement, likewise his daughter, while Mrs. Leslie was pitched between the horse and shafts of the vehicle.

Her screams attracted the attention of hundreds of pedestrians on the street, and her husband, assisted by another man, carried her to the Sedalia Drug company's store, where Dr. E. Nasse made an examination of her injuries, pronouncing them severe bruises and contusions, but fortunately no fracture of any bones.

Mr. Pfeiffer, when he collided with the buggy, did not stop his team, but merely drove on, according to eyewitnesses.

From people who saw the accident, it is learned that it was almost a miracle that all three occupants of the buggy were not crushed to death.

TRUST MAGNATE TO WED

IS TO MARRY MRS. WILLIAM INMAN

Said to Be One of the Most Beautiful Women of the South—Both Have Had Previous Matrimonial Experiences.

Special to the Democrat-Sentinel.

New York, July 20.—According to reports received here Jas. B Duke, president of the "tobacco trust," now being probed by the government, will be married next week in Europe.

The prospective bride is Mrs. William Inman, a beautiful society woman of Atlanta, to whom the nicotine king has been attentive for many months.

The honeymoon, it is said, will be spent in a tour of Europe in a big Marcedes touring car, which Duke recently presented to Mrs. Inman, and which is reported to have cost $20,000.

Mrs. Inman is one of Dixie's most famous women. As Natalie Holt, of Macon, Ga., she was admitted the most beautiful woman of Georgia.

Her charms captivated William Inman, a wealthy cotton man of Atlanta, and they were married. Inman died three years ago and soon afterward his widow began the social career that has made her a well known character in the society of New York and Washington, as well as in the South, and will shortly culminate in the complete conquest of one of America's richest men.

Duke's previous marital experience was marked by sensations. His wife was Mrs. Lillian N. McCreedy, a New York widow, who had secured a divorce especially to marry Duke, and who was in turn divorced by him.

Frank I. Hunton, a well-known New York clubman, was named as corespondent in Duke's suit for divorce, and the testimony adduced at the trial created a sensation in New York social circles.

THREAD IS 10 CENTS

Advance in Price Works Hardship to Garment Workers.

Chicago, July 22.—News of the second advance in the price of cotton thread, this time making the price 10 cents a spool, caused grief in the ranks of the garment workers.

Many of the men are required to buy their own thread, the price per piece under the contract including the findings, and these complained that even the little difference indicated by the increase would materially reduce their earning power.

Settlement workers said many of the men, women and children now toiling over garments have to work far into the night in order to eke out an existence, and that the added burden will mean much more than would appear on the surface.

The general belief is that where the shops furnish the thread the contract price will be cut enough to meet the additional cost, thus making the toiler the loser.

DEFENSE HAS BEGUN

Opening Address for Haywood Started This Morning By His Attorney.

Boise, July 22.—"The event of December 30, 1905, resulting in the death of Governor Steunenberg, cast consternation over the entire civilized world."

With these words Attorney E. F. Richardson began today the opening address of the defense of Haywood. On account of the heat, Judge Wood announced that it had been decided not to hold a session of court in the afternoons, but only in the mornings and evenings. There was a large throng present when court opened. Richardson plunged directly into the death of Steunenberg.

Attorney Richardson enlarged on the excellent character and consistent philanthropy of the Western Federation of Miners, and dwelt upon the patient suffering of the labor union under the lash of capital and the perjury and perfidy of Harry Orchard. He contended that that portion of the press which depends upon the prosperous and capitalistic class had, following the Steunenberg assassination, judged the leaders of the Western Federation of Miners without a hearing.

"We of the defense," said Richardson, "do not believe there is any justification for such an act, and we shall not attempt to justify it. We do not believe it can be justified from any point of view."

He said that among other things he would devote his address to was the impeachment of Orchard, the state's chief witness.

PLANNED TO ESCAPE

Daring Plot by Only Survivor of the Biddle Gang.

Pittsburg Pa., July 22.—Walter Dorman, alias Robert Wilcox, only survivor of the Biddle brothers' band of burglars, murderers and holdup men, who terrorized Pittsburg and vicinity five years ago, came close to escaping from the Western penitentiary here.

Dorman has been acting as janitor and organist of the prison chapel. He recently applied for a pardon. and since he "squealed" on his pals, the Biddles, and received a life sentence he has been considered a most model prisoner.

Hidden in the chapel the guards found a rope ladder and a number of saws, and, upon investigation, discovered that Dorman had filed two bars of his cell. He denied the stuff belonged to him, but as no prisoner had free use of the chapel, the warden ordered the prisoner placed in a dungeon.

SKULL WAS BROKEN

By Bayonet of a Soldier Leaning From a Car Window.

Owensboro, Ky., July 22.—John Arnold, a bridge carpenter on the Louisville, Henderson and St. Louis railroad, is in a serious condition at his home at Sample as the result of being hit on the head with a bayonet by a member of the Third Kentucky regiment.

It is said that one of the soldiers leaned out of the window and struck Arnold a blow on the head with his bayonet. His skull was crushed and it was necessary to remove several pieces of shattered bone. Had it not been for a fellow workman he would have fallen from the bridge. The affair is being investigated.

CHARGED WITH FRAUD

TWO MEN ALLEGED TO BE WORKING A BOGUS DIRECTORY SCHEME.

THEY ARE IN TROUBLE IN OHIO

Fled From Court Room, but the Forger Was Captured by Officers and Lawyers, Despite His Counsel.

Akron, O., July 22.—Following a sensational scene in Probate Judge Pardee's court room, Judge Doyle, in the common pleas court, summoned a special grand jury which indicted James Laughran and James Lee on a charge of having presented forged paper for payment.

The accused have indulged in a merry fight with the law since landing in Akron two months ago. They were arrested May 19 for attempting to collect large sums on promisory notes, alleged to have been forged, purporting to be for directory advertising.

Five days later they were bound over to the grand jury, and demanded to be taken before an examining court. In spite of the efforts of Attorney James P. Oliver, their counsel, Lee was held again to the grand jury.

Saturday James Laughran was discharged by Judge Pardee, who held that the affidavit upon which he was arrester was defective. The man made a break to escape from the court room, but Detective Eckerman, armed with a similar affidavit issued from Justice Nash's court, grabbed him at the door. The two men fought their way down stairs, where they were surrounded by the opposing counsel and a crowd.

Yelling to his client to fight himself free, Attorney William Spencer, who is assisting Oliver in the defense, threw himself upon that officer. The prosecuting attorney and Attorney S. G. Rogers, his assistant, also pitched in, and Eckerman finally emerged from the battle triumphant, still holding his prisoner. Laughran was locked up in the city prison, only to be taken before the special grand jury and again jailed.

The two men are alleged to be members of a gang working a directory fraud all over the country.

SHOT HOLE IN FLOOR

"Billy" Griffith Did at His Home Saturday Afternoon.

(From Sunday's Daily.)

"Billy" Griffith, formerly proprietor of Griffith's billiard and pool parlors, recently employed as night watchman at the Missouri Pacific shops, was arrested Saturday afternoon by Officers Baley and Redmon, pending trial for shooting a shotgun in the kitchen at his home.

About 4:45 o'clock Saturday afternoon people in the vicinity of Pacific street and Ohio avenue heard the report of a gun. They ran to the Griffith dwelling and found Griffith in the kitchen of his home, partially under the influence of liquor. In the floor of the kitchen was a hole made by the cartridge from the gun, while Griffith's wife was absent.

Officer Baley located her in the neighborhood and at her request he was arrested. Griffith explained that the shooting was accidental, but an investigation is being made.

NEITHER LIGHTS NOR CARS

Water Company Was Making Connection on South Ohio Street.

At 7:30 o'clock last night L. P. Andrews, president of the City Water Co., placed a force of men at work connecting the water main from Washington avenue with the Ohio street main at Twentieth street.

Owing to the position of the main, which runs under the street car company's track, it was necessary to shut off the current pulling the street cars, and from that time until 6 o'clock this morning the street cars were not in operation.

At 8:35 o'clock the street lights and lights in different churches, Chautauqua, drug stores and Airdome were shut off, leaving the places in darkness. At the Airdome and Chautauqua gasoline torches were substituted, not, however, until about 9:30 o'clock.

YOUNG SOCIETY GIRL

Died Following a Criminal Operation, Says the Coroner.

Anderson, Ind., July 22.—Following the death of Miss Blanche Mead, aged 17 years, after an illness of only a few hours, Coroner Fankboner investigated, and, after an autopsy, declared that she had died from the effects of an operation. In her dying moments she had told her mother of the cause of her suffering, but refused to tell who was responsible for it.

The coroner secured evidence which he says will warrant arrests. Miss Mead was very popular in High school and society. She was in a theatre party the night before she died, and apparently happy and well. She was the daughter of G. C. Mead, a business man.

CONDEMNED TO DIE

Murderer of Three Men Seeks Solitude That He May Pray.

Louisville, Ky., July 22.—With but one thought in his mind, the mystery behind the scaffold, and wishing to make his peace with God, Clarence Sturgeon, under sentence for the murder of three men at Eleventh and Jefferson streets one year ago, has asked Jailer John R. Pfanz to separate him from the other prisoners, that he may spend his time reading his Bible and in prayer.

Since he has taken up religion Sturgeon says he no longer is troubled with horrible dreams of the terrible tragedy for which he is soon to pay the penalty, or of the subsequent suicide of the woman in the case. The date of the execution has not been fixed by the governor.

CALL HER A MURDERESS

A SENSATIONAL MURDER TRIAL

Woman of Whom Dead Sister Was Madly Jealous is Almost Stripped of Clothes By Crowd in Germany.

Carlsruhe, Germany, July 20.—Charging her with having aided the murderer of her mother, shouting that she had been the mistress of her sister's husband, while insults of the vilest sorts were heaped upon her, a mob outside the courthouse where the trial of Carl Hau is on, made a determined attack yesterday upon Olga Moliter, daughter of the prisoner's alleged victim.

The police had a terrible fight to drive back the mob. With her clothes nearly torn from her body, her hair disheveled and her face scratched and bleeding, the young woman finally escaped to the protection of a nearby house. There the police stood guard until the mob was dispersed.

Feeling runs high in certain ranks of society against Frau Moliter. Her appearance in the street, as she left the courthouse, was the signal for the attack on her by the mob, which had been unable to gain access to the crowded courtroom. The street demonstration followed a sensational scene in the courtroom, in which the girl was one of the principal actors.

Hau told Judge Eller that he had sent the mysterious telegram signed "Olga" to Frau Moliter, asking her to come to Paris, so that she would take Olga home. He said his wife was jealous of her sister and constantly created scenes. Olga was recalled, and she corroborated the prisoner.

Judge Eller aserted the explanation was weak. He warned Olga of the consequences of giving perjured testimony.

SIX ELOPE AND MARRY

Picnickers Flee and a Youngstown, Ohio, Pastor Acts.

Pittsburg, July 20.—"Someone dared us to get married, and none of us would take a dare, so here we are."

This was the song warbled by six young people as they returned from a picnic at Rock Springs, W. Va., to Pittsburg a few evenings ago.

They had started out to that picnic as six separate and distinct happy young people, but they came home in twos, married as hard and fast as a minister at Youngstown, Ohio, could tie them.

Each still insists that no one had any intention of getting married until someone—they can't tell who—dared them to go across the line into Ohio and get married.

All were employes of the Westinghouse works at East Pittsburg, and it was from the picnic of the Westinghouse employes that they ran away to get married.

HE SUED FOR DAMAGES

Because Bridal Party Had to Ride in an "Unfit Conveyance."

Louisville, Ky., July 22.—Failure to provide a suitable carriage for the conveyance of the bride, bridegroom and bridesmaids to and from the church was the basis of a suit filed against a local transfer company by E. V. Green, who alleges in his petition that he suffered humiliation to the extent of $2,500.

Green was married on June 27 last, and two days prior to the event, he alleges, he contracted with the defendant company to convey the wedding party to and from the church, but that an hour before the wedding he was notified that the company could not fulfill its contract.

He alleges that the bridal party was compelled to ride to the church in "an unfit and improper conveyance."

"WIFEY" HOME AT 3 A. M.

Scandal at Goshen, Ind., Threatens to Break Up Families.

Goshen, Ind., July 20.—A scandal that involves three prominent families of Goshen and Ligonier, and which threatens to break up half a dozen other families became public property when Mrs. Greeley Zimmerman stepped from the launch of Frank Miller at Wausee, the summer resort of Northern Indiana, at 3 o'clock in the morning, and was met at the wharf by her husband, her daughter, her husband's attorney, and his brother.

The launch party had been composed of Frank Miller, Frank Merrill, Mrs. Frank Prough, who is a sister of Mrs. Zimmerman, and Mrs. Zimmerma herself. It is said the meeting between Mrs. Zimmerman and her husband was sensational in the extreme.

Mr. Zimmerman is a merchant of Ligonier. He has instructed his attorney to bring suit for a divorce from his wife. Her sister is the wife of Frank Prough, of Goshen. Frank Miller is a young Goshen business man of local prominence, and has a wife and two children. Frank Merrill is a Goshen man, and bartender of the Inn.

WOMAN ACTS AS OLD HEN

"STORY" COMES FROM KENTUCKY

Feared She Would Not Get to Market With the First "Fries," but Scheme Worked and She Succeeded.

Glasgow, Ky., July 22.—The meanest man has been exploited in the newspapers until he has become ancient, but the most miserly woman in Kentucky, according to Hardin Allison, a traveling salesman, resides at Bonnieville, Hart county.

Allison, who has just made a trip through that section, says that a woman of that locality was stricken with rheumatism from exposure to the weather in a desperate effort to hord up money.

The fowls in her hennery refused to go to setting, and as the market for spring chickens was near at hand, she was considerably worried.

She had no incubator, and as she was bedfast, she could not have manipulated one even if she had had it.

After studying and worrying for many days, she decided to make an "old hen" or an incubator out of herself. She placed a number of eggs around her in the bed between her body and the clothing and awaited At the end of three weeks she hatched out eighteen strong healthy chickens. These she placed with an old hen which had just gone to setting.

Her reputation for putting the first spring chickens on the Bonnieville market was saved. Greed for money led her to hatch out another brood, and Mr. Allison is authority for the statement that the old woman is still hatching young chickens at the rate of a dozen and a half every three weeks.

THE DEATH ANGEL

Robs Alleged Homicide Simultaneously With His Acquittal.

Cairo, Ill., July 22.—At the same moment a jury voted to acquit Marvin Boren of a murder charge, the death angel invaded his home and removed his week-old baby. Boren did not know of its death until he reached home, when he utterly collapsed.

Boren killed Police Officer Patrick J. Doud, and his acquittal has resulted in the resignation of two officers, and others will follow. The claim is made by them that the verdict has set a precedent which will make their lives unsafe as long as they remain on the force.

CHURCH WAS LOOTED

Gold Pyx Containing Blessed Sacrament Taken by Thieves.

Louisville, Ky., July 22.—One of the boldest robberies on record was reported to the police department by Rev. Fr. Thomas A. York, pastor of St. Paul's church. He says that thieves forced an entrance into the church and stole money and ornaments to the value of $700.

The tabernacle on the altar was rifled, as were the money boxes at the entrance to the church, and in addition to this the vandals seized upon a gold pyx containing the blessed sacrament, and two gold cups, 10 inches high, which stood on the altar.

STORY OF OLD MURDER

THE LETTER OF DR. WILLIS P. KING

How Frank Drinkard Killed a Macon County Bully 27 Years Ago, Was Convicted, Sentenced and Escaped Imprisonment.

Dr. Willis P. King, for many years a resident of Sedalia, but now of Kansas City, had the following communication in this morning's issue of the Kansas City Journal:

(Twenty-seven years ago Frank Drinkard, a Macon county farmer, killed a man and was sentenced to ninety-nine years in prison. He escaped and his crime was practically forgotten until last week, when Sheriff Graves, of Macon county, went to Hobart, Okla., and arrested W. T. Davidson, a prominent citizen, as Drinkard. Mr. Davidson quickly convinced Sheriff Graves of his error, and the sheriff lost no time in getting back to Missouri to escape a suit for damages for false arrest.

In the light of the foregoing, the following story of Drinkard's crime, arrest, conviction and escape, is especially interesting.)

To the Journal:

I see by today's press dispatches that a man going by the name of W. T. Davidson was arrested for B. F. Drinkard or Frank Drinkard, who after being convicted of murder and sentenced to ninety nine years escaped from the Macon county jail about twenty-eight years ago.

I do not know whether this man is Frank Drinkard or not; but if it is he, then he was reared on a farm twelve miles west of Macon, and the farm of his deceased mother joined my father's farm. There were four children in the family, Frank and David and two girls. My father used to send me, when the weather was bitter cold, to chop wood and feed the few stock they had, as both Frank and David were younger than I. Frank joined my father's company and went into the southern army, and at the battle of Pea Ridge or Elk Horn Mountain he was shot through one leg below the knee, while far in advance of his company, squatted behind an old stump surrounded by sprouts. Three of my father's company were wounded in the same leg while sharpshooting from behind that old stump.

The bones below the knee were shattered and the leg was a long time getting well, and he always walked lame on that side. He came home after the war, married and had a large family of children.

Renter Was a Bully.

About 1879 or 1880 Frank had rented a large farm near the Chariton river, west of Macon. He sub-let a part of the ground to a man whose name I have forgotten. The neighbors all agreed in the statement that he was a big, rough, overbearing man, and was in the habit of riding roughshod over any man smaller than he, with whom he might have any difficulty. He had also been in the Union army, and there again was disagreement between Frank and him.

The neighbors stated that he bullied and tried to bulldoze Frank from the time he took the lease; that Frank in every way tried to get along peaceably, but the only way to have peace was to give this big bully his own way, right or wrong, about everything.

When the time came to gather the corn this man had raised Frank was not ready. Sickness or something else caused him to ask for a short delay.

But, no. This man was ready, and for him that was enough. He went into the field and with neither Frank nor anyone to represent him present, divided off the rows, counting off ten for himself and five for Frank, which was the custom and agreement. But this was not the trouble. Frank claimed that his renter gave himself all the advantage in selecting the point of beginning; and furthermore, that he gathered ears of corn here and there from Frank's rows, and that he drove over and broke down his ungathered corn.

After having found this out Frank forbid his coming into the field again until he (Frank) was ready to join him and protect his rights in the division. The man refused and a wordy war was the result.

Story of the Killing.

This man had to enter the field through a big gate near Frank's residence. The next time he came Frank went out carrying a common Indian rifle. What was said no one but the two knew. Frank fired and the big renter fell in his wagon. My sister, who lived near, came, visiting Frank's wife, and arrived on the scene just after the shot was fired. She climbed up on the wagon and stood on the "hounds" and raised the man up, and she swore that a big navy revolver fell out of his right hand as she did so.

Frank was arrested and tried for murder, and no better idea can be gotten of his defense than from what was afterward told me by Ben Eli Guthrie, the prosecuting attorney. Mr. Guthrie said that Frank Drinkard had a good defense which would have acquitted him if he had had a competent lawyer; but he said Frank's lawyer was not capable of conducting a hog case before a justice of the peace; tht he got the testimony all mixed and jumbled, omitted the best part of it, only awaiting the time, as such lawyers usually do, when he could get up and rip the blue empyrean with turgid rhetoric, and roar like the "Bulls of Bashan," expecting to acquit his client in that way; and as is also usual in such cases, he failed.

Frank was sentenced to the penitentiary for ninety-nine years, and was put in jail, awaiting an appeal, I believe.

One day, in the absence of the sheriff his wife came to feed the prisoners. Either as she came in or went out, Frank made a rush for the door. She slammed the door and caught the calf of his lame leg and bruised and cut it severely. Frank got away, however, and it being near night, he ran for the woods. Posses were formed by the officers and the "woods were scoured" that night. Frank told his friends that at one time he heard the posse and lay down beside a log and that one man came within five feet of him and he started to get up and surrender, when the man passed on. He found an old friend from the Emerald Isle before morning who helped him. After lingering in the Charitan hills for awhile he disappeared, and some time afterward his wife and children disappeared, as if they had been swallowed up by the earth.

For years I have known where Frank was and the name he is going under, but it is not W. T. Davidson.

AN UMPIRE WAS BEATEN

WEBB CITY PLAYERS DID THE HOODLUM ACT ON THE HOME GROUNDS.

LOST TO WICHITA TEAM, 2 TO 0

Umpire Guthrie Was Roughly Handled and It Is Now Up to President D. M. Shively to Get Busy Without Delay.

Because he fined a player, Umpire William Guthrie was mobbed by players on the Webb City team Saturday in the game with Wichita at Webb City.

After being kicked and beaten by players and spectators he was arrested and placed in jail, notwithstanding the plea of friends that he be sent to a hospital.

Meanwhile the other players had attacked Guthrie and Capt. Lawrence Milton, a member of the Webb City team, rushed to the scene from the coaching lines and hit the umpire from behind, knocked him down and kicked him.

By this time the 1,000 spectators had surged upon the field. Five policemen, with drawn revolvers, held the crowd from the helpless umpire, who lay unconscious on the ground.

Mike Jacks, who was umpiring bases, finished the game, which resulted in a victory for Wichita, 2 to 0. President Breese stated that he would prosecute the offending players and management under the baseball laws for not furnishing protection.

S.S.S. PURIFIES THE BLOOD

There is no other part of our physical system upon which so much depends as upon the blood. The muscles, nerves, bones, sinews, skin, and other portions of the body are sustained, developed and enabled to perform their different duties, because they are supplied with nourishment and healthful properties through the circulation. In various ways the blood becomes contaminated and polluted. A sluggish, inactive condition of the system, and torpid state of the avenues of bodily waste, will leave the refuse and waste matter of the body to sour and form uric and other acids, which are absorbed into the blood and Rheumatism, or some itching, disfiguring skin disease is the result. Muddy, sallow complexions, eruptions, splotches, pimples, etc., all show that some humor has taken root in the circulation and rendered it sour and unfit for nourishing the body. There is scarcely any disease which cannot be traced to the blood. Often the disease-tainted blood of parents is handed down to children and their lives are a continual battle against disease in some form, usually of a scrofulous nature. Rheumatism, Catarrh, Skin Diseases, Sores and Ulcers, Contagious Blood Poison, etc., are all deep-seated blood troubles, and until this vital fluid is purified they cannot be cured. For all blood diseases S. S. S. is the best remedy ever put upon the market. This great medicine is made of roots, herbs and barks of recognized blood-purifying and building-up properties. It goes down into the circulation and removes all poisons, impurities and humors, supplies the blood with the healthful properties it needs and completely cures blood diseases of every kind. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Skin Diseases, Sores and Ulcers, Contagious Blood Poison, etc., because it purifies the blood. Book on the blood and medical advice free.

SUIT FOR $250 DAMAGES

FLOWER & BARNETT AGAINST MISSOURI PACIFIC AND C., B. & Q. ROADS.

PURCHASED A CASE OF SKIRTS

Bought Them at Laporte, Michigan, But They Were Delayed More Than a Month, Hence the Suit for Damages.

(From Monday's Daily.)

Suit for $250 against the Missouri Pacific and C., B. & Q. railways was instituted by the Flower-Barnett Dry Goods company, through Attorneys Barnett & Barnett, in the Pettis county circuit court today.

In the petition plaintiffs state that in February, 1906, they purchased from the Buckingham Bros. Co., of Laporte, Mich., a case of skirts of the value of $150.45, for which they paid.

About March 1, 1906, the goods were delivered to the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern railway, to be carried by that road and the Chicago & Alton to St. Louis, where they were to be delivered to the Missouri Pacific, to be brought to the con... at Sedalia.

At the terminus of the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern railway, plaintiffs state that the C., B. &. Q. railway wrongfully took possession of said goods, later delivering them to the Missouri Pacific, which road delivered them to the plaintiff one month after the C., B. & Q. railway had released their possession, wherefore plaintiffs say they were damaged to the amount sued for, together with the costs of filing suit.

ARE ARGUING THE CASE

ATTORNEY HAWLEY FOR THE STATE CONTINUES HIS MASTERLY SUMMING UP.

MANY OBJECTIONS ARE BEING MADE

Told the July That the State Had Adams Ready, but That the Defense Was Afraid to Use Him.

Boise, Idaho, July 20.—Continuing this morning the opening argument in the Haywood case, James H. Hawley, chief prosecutor, first devoted his attention to the alleged atleged attempt to wreck a train on the Florence and Cripple Creek railroad. This was one of the incidents of the Colorado labor troubles testified to by Harry Orchard.

"This matter came out of Orchard's testimony," said Mr. Hawley, "but it was absolutelly immaterial to the issue here involved. But the defense has taken this incident and has tried to build up out of it a conspiracy on the part of the mine owners against the Western Federation of Miners. Orchard admitted that he had reported the alleged attempt to officers in the employ of the Mine Owners' association and to the railroad. The defense has brought two women here to testify they saw Orchard in one of the detective's rooms on many occasions. These women saw this man casually over five years ago, but they come here and swear positively as to Orchard's identity and to the number of his visits. Such evidence as this speaks for itself.

No Defense of Orchard.

"Orchard was undoubtedly trying to secure money from all the sources he could and I am not going to defend him for his double dealing in taking money from both the Western Federation of Miners and the railroad company. I am not here to paint Harry Orchard in anything but his true colors. There is only one claim that we make for him, and that is he told you the truth. This fact has been indelibly fixed by all the circumstances in this case."

Mr. Hawley said immediately after the train wrecking incident Orchard was found again in the Western Federation of Miners.

Taking up the matter of the attempted assassination of Governor Peabody, Mr. Hawley repeated much of the testimony of Orchard as to the plans he and Steve Adams laid to kill the governor. Orchard's testimony was amply corroborated, counsel declared, Miss Peabody herself taking the stand to testify to one of the most important incidents. The attorney told of Governor Peabody's activities in the Colorado labor troubles and declared that the strongest motives for his taking off was connected with the Wesern Federation of Miners.

No possible personal motive, said Mr. Hawley, could be attributed to either Steve Adams or Harry Orchard.

A Clash of Counsel.

While arguing this incident, Mr. Hawley soon precipitated a battle of words with Clarence Darrow, of the defense, in which "untruth" and "deliberate falsehood" were freely used on both sides.

"If," said Mr. Hawley, "there was a word of untruth in Orchard's testimony as to the attempts on Governor Peabody, who, of all men, was the best witness to so testify? A man who is now in the basement of this building, a man who stood in the esteem of the Western Federation of Miners second only to Orchard—Steve Adams. The prosecution brought this man to Boise so he could be used by the defense if it so desired."

"I object to that," shouted Mr. Darrow, jumping to his feet. "It is an absolute untruth, as counsel well knows and there is no such record in this case."

"If you say that what I have stated is untruth," replied Hawley, in anger, "you utter a deliberate falsehood."

Darrow Is Overruled.

Darrow renewed his objection, and then Judge Wood took a hand. He said he would instruct the jury to disregard all statements made by counsel not borne out by the evidence. Darrow urged that counsel be prevented from making any statements in regard to Steve Adams.

"I object to his saying he brought this man here to us," he continued.

"Your honor," said Hawley, "if you have ruled, I ask that Mr. Darrow be instructed to sit down."

"I object," said Darrow.

"It is the galled jade that winces," taunted Hawley.

"Then wince," shouted the opposing attorney.

"Oh, no, gentlemen, I have not winced," said Hawley, turning at last to the jury.

"Adams is here and he was brought into this court and shown to you. His appearance in this room gives the lie to the statement made by counsel that the facts are not as I have related them.

The Independence Explosion.

"There is just one other man who could deny Orchard's statements as to Governor Peabody. That man is George Pettibone. If he did not counsel the proposed murder, if he did not furnish the sawed off guns, why didn't they bring him here to say so? There is no evidence to contradict Harry Orchard. Does counsel expect to wipe out the facts by mere argument? They can not do so."

Carrying forward his address in chronological order, Mr. Hawley next took up the Independence depot explosion.

CARE IN EQUIPMENT.

Smoker, Veil and Gloves Should Be Ready for Handling of Bees.

While one might sometimes tear a hive to pieces without angering bees, nevertheless it would be unwise to undertake to do so without being prepared for other results. Not only should the smoker be lit and handy, but the apiarist himself should be equipped with some kind of an effective veil, so that in case they should become vengeful he will be able to give them his undivided attention. As to whether or not gloves should be worn depends upon the inclination of the man and upon his ability to endure the pain from the stings. Some men find it necessary to wear them always, while others manage better without them. If good fitting and of soft material they should not be bunglesome nor clumsy to work in. But a stiff, thick glove with open top would invariably be worse than none. For women, gloves are, of course, a necessity since their hands are naturally softer and more tender than are those of men.

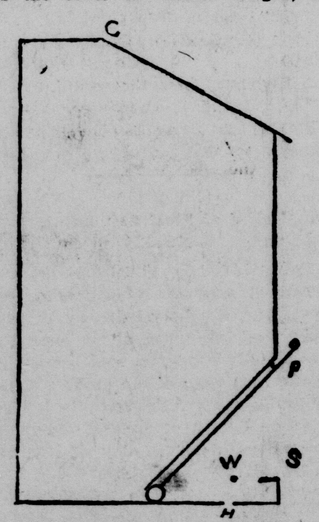

When a colony is to be examined let the apiarist, suitably prepared, and armed with a smoker, approach the hive directly yet quietly, and administer a few puffs of smoke at the entrance. This will frighten the bees and cause them to fill themselves with honey, after which they will be less inclined to sting. In about a minute the cover should be gently raised and a few more puffs blown in over the combs. After this the intended work may be proceeded with at once, using from time to time just what smoke is necessary to control the bees. In many instances, there will be no further occasion to use it at all, but in case they show signs of anger it is better to administer enough to cause them to rush back into the hive again, and when it must be done the quicker or better. But the object should be to control, not punish, therefore no more should ever be used than the occasion demands. In this, as in all other things, one should be guided by humane principles, and forbear to persecute.

For loosening and raising the frames there is no better tool than a common, broad, flat file, having, as all such have, a sharp tapering point designed to be thrust into a handle of some kind. It is this sharp point we use in this way, and prefer it to any special designed instrument we have ever seen.—Exchange.

KILLS A BOSOM FRIEND

"NO BLOW CAN HURT ME," SAYS A TEAMSTER AS HE BARES HIS CHEST.

FELL DEAD WHEN HIT OVER HEART

Police Released the Slayer in St. Louis When They Were Assured the Tragedy Resulted From Jest.

St. Louis, July 20.—A mighty blow from a fist killed Joseph Ritter at 1 p. m. yesterday. George Staat, his bosom friend, struck him, and Ritter fell limp and died.

Ritter lived at 2129 South Third street with his wife and two children. Staat lives at 319 Russell avenue. The killing occured in the yard of the Wurst Coal and Hauling company 2120 South Third street, where both worked as teamsters.

"No blow from a fist could hurt me," said Ritter, as he bared his chest. In good nature, Staat swung his arm and his fist struck Ritter over the heart.

Ritter and Staat led their horses from the stable to the watering trough. As they reached the door Ritter laughingly proclaimed his prowess, expanded a chest not overly large, and gave lief to all to test their strength.

In an equally playful spirit Staat took up the challenge, and his fist flew straight from the shoulder. It was not his most powerful blow, Staat said afterward.

"You could never hurt me with a blow like that,' said Ritter with a smile on his lips. He sank helplessly to the ground, his color changing as he grabbed the hoofs of his horse. Staat, his companion of years, yelled for aid and every means was used to revive Ritter.

Doctor Louis G. Tandy, of 317 Duchouquette street, was summoned. Ritter was dead, however, and the body, at the direction of his wife, was removed to the parlors of the Emil Wacker Undertaking company. Broadway and Lami street.

Both Staat and Ritter were young men of endurance, and Ritter had never been known to be sick or to suffer from heart trouble. The doctor thought an affection of the heart might explain the death. Staat is rather short and weighs 145 pounds. Ritter weighed about 120, was taller than his friend, and thin-faced.

Staat has been married only a month. The families often visited each other, and yesterday afternoon Staat's wife and mother were at the dead man's house, offering condolence.

The tragedy caused great excitemen in the neighborhood. Staat wanted to go to the Soulard street station and surrender himself to the police. His friends advised him to wait until the officers came.

Captain William Young released Staat when he heard his version of the affair and the explanation of Andy Wurst, Jr.

Richard Reano, of 2419 South Third street, and Benjamin Lampe, of 1635 North Seventeenth street, both teamsters, were eye-witnesses. They and Staat will appear this morning at the coroner's inquest.

fight, the fans would never have thought of swarming on the field to mob the umpire, and while perhaps a few spectators took a hand in the melee, the spike marks on the umpire's face and body show plainly who did the greater part of the damage. I trust that the fans of Webb City and every other city in the circuit will conceive of the disgrace that has befallen Webb City and the Western association, and will in the future exert their best efforts to suppress all such scenes.

"Webb City should not feel that it has been singled out, because others who start further trouble of this kind will get no less punishment, and maybe worse.

"My investigations seemed to me to warrant beyond a doubt the following punishments:

"Olson—Fine of $100.

HEADS OF APPLE TREES.

Locality Has Much to Do with Style of Growth.

Whether the heads of apple trees should be compact or sparsely formed depends to some extent on the locality in which the trees are grown. There are lands of sunshine and there are lands of cloudy skies. In the states where much cloudy weather exists during the growing season it is necessary for the trees to catch as much sunshine as possible, for the ripening of the fruit and especially for its coloring. In some of the states it is advisable to prune severely and thin out the branches to make it possible for the sun to get at the fruit. That condition is true of parts of New England and parts of the Pacific states toward the northwest. Even in the eastern part of the United States it pays to keep the heads of apple trees fairly well thinned out.

As we go west toward the Rocky mountains the conditions change in favor of the dense and compact heads. The sun shines eternally during the day time in several of the states west of the Missouri. The heat injures the fruit where it pours upon it unobstructed, and the sunlight is so abundant that it colors up the fruit with little or no trimming of the limbs.

The question of high and low heads is generally settled in favor of low heads, especially in the western states where the wind blows with great force. The low heads protect the fruit from being switched off and where the trees are close together the wind that blows upon an orchard is deflected upward by the thick, low heads, while if the heads are high it passes under the trees and through them to a great extent. This greatly increases the danger of the trees being broken by the wind.

There was a time when the whole sentiment was in favor of high headed trees, says Farmers' Review. The farmers wanted enough room under the trees so they could plow about them and drive about them easily with the farm team and with the farm implements. For several generations, therefore, the farmers planted their trees so they could use the ground for gardening. Those that remember the old New England orchards remember the tall-trunked trees, some of them so long that a good sized ladder was required to reach the first limbs. There was no danger of the horses hitting their heads when they plowed about them.

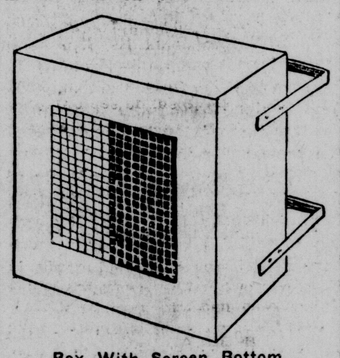

But few of those orchards are seen now. They passed away with the coming of a more intensive agriculture. Science pronounced them too expensive in the way of time required for harvesting their fruit. The High-Top Sweeting that bore apples at a long distance from the ground no longer has to be climbed and shaken to get the fruit. It is no more, but in its place stands a tree with head close to the ground and with a trunk so short that there is not room enough between it and the ground to do any climbing.

The modern mathematician has figured out that the low-headed tree costs far less to care for and gives as good general results, though its fruit may not be so highly colored. It is easy to trim, for the trimmer can reach about all the limbs from the ground. It is easy to spray, and less spraying material is thrown away than in the case of the taller tree. It costs little to gather its fruit, and the fruit is less bruised when gathered.

from old hoops, that will swing down out of the way at the ends. Use this box when gathering vegetables from theh garden and wash these by immersing in a tub of water or by pouring water over them.

Care in Feeding.

If the hogs are in a dry pen, start in by feeding them a little green clover at once. As soon as the corn is hip high, give them a little of it to eat. It may not add a single ounce of flesh to their carcasses, but it will accustom them to eating it so they can be fed a great deal of green corn when it becomes large enough. The one great mistake in feeding green corn is that the change from dry feed to it is made too quickly. By starting in gradually now with corn and green clover, this rapid change can be avoided.

Spray.

Do not forget to attend religiously to the spraying. The air and soil are filled with all kinds of insects and fruit disease germs and the only way the grower can combat these diseases is by the use of the spray pump.

DEATH REAPS HARVEST

WAS RESULT OF CARELESSNESS

Freight Disregarded Orders, Crashed Into an Excursion Train on Track That Was Level and Straight.

Salem, Mich., July 20.—From thirty to forty persons were killed and about 100 people injured this morning when a Pere Marquette excursion train of eleven coaches from Ionia, carrying the employes of the company's shops there on their annual excursion to Detroit, collided with a westbound freight train two miles east of this village, at Washburn crossing.

At 1:30 o'clock, twenty-nine bodies had been taken from the wreck and many more were known to be still in the ruins. Orders have been sent to Plymouth, four miles away, which is a division point of the railway, to make arrangements to care for thirty injured. General Superintendent Trump, of the Pere Marquette railway, said that the responsibility for the wreck rests with some employe who failed to obey orders.

On a Straight Level Track.

There were 800 persons crowded into the eleven coaches of the train, many of them women and children, all bound for a holiday in Detroit. They left their homes in Ionia at 6 o'clock this morning. The wreck occurred on a perfectly straight level piece of track. The heavy freight and passenger trains came together with enormous force and six of the eleven passenger cars were entirely wrecked.

When the uninjured persons recovered from the shock and crawled from the wreckage, they at once began extricating the dead and injured. Messengers were rushed to this village and to Plymouth and all the doctors from this place and neighboring villages were hurried to the scene. Farmers who heard the crash came to the rescue also. A special train was made up in the yards at Detroit and sent to the wreck, a distance of forty miles, with doctors, nurses, surgical instruments and cots. By the time the train arrived there were several scores of people waiting to receive medical attention and more than twenty bodies had been extricated and were lying on the grass beside the tracks.

Tells Story of the Wreck.

Mrs. Minnie Densmore, of Ionia, a passenger on the wrecked train, describing the horror, said:

"My husband and myself were in the sixth coach, right behind the first five in which the greatest loss of life occurred. There was a terrible crash, and the train came to a sudden stop, throwing us out of our seats. Instantly our car was filled with terror-stricken people trying to fight their way out. No one knew just what had happened, but every occupant of the car seemed to feel instinctively that there had been a tragedy and seemed to be filled with fear.

"Their clothes were torn and they inflicted severe bruises on one another in their mad efforts to get to the ground. That was before they realized that our car was not damaged and that they were not in danger themselves. When we got out of the coach we found the engine and the first five cars piled up beside the tracks, while shrieks of pain and cries for mercy filled the air."

Killed in First Five Cars.

The first five cars were well filled with people and it is in these that most of the bodies were found. The engineer of the train from Ionia was L. B. Alvord. He and his fireman jumped and it is assumed that they escaped with minor injuries. Conductor Bixley, of Ionia, is among the missing. Nineteen bodies were taken from the wreckage before the relief train came in from Detroit.

After arriving here with the wrecking train from Detroit and looking over the situation, General Superintendent Trump said that the blame for the wreck rests with the crew of the freight train which was a westbound local. It had orders, Mr. Trump says, to wait at Plymouth for the excursion train, which had the right of way. Instead it proceeded on towards Salem, and the collision resulted.

Many of the freight cars were piled up in the heap of wreckage, which is so great that it will take twelve hours to clear the track. It may be several hours before it is definitely known how many bodies comprise the entire list of dead. The surgeons at the scene are giving attention to the injured, who are being placed on the special train from Detroit.

Anxiety in Detroit.

FEED FOR HOGS.

Every farmer knows that clean food for hogs is of the utmost importance, especially in hot weather. Still, a great many will often permit the swill barrel to become filthy. This is very dangerous to the health of the hogs during summer. Doubtless diseases often start among many hogs from this source. There are many ills that affect hogs besides hog cholera, though some may think that hog cholera is the only thing to be guarded against. By the decay of vegetable and fleshy matter various poisons are elaborated, and we must guard against these as well as hog cholera. There is no doubt that animals as well as human beings are often killed by ptomaine poisoning.

Rotten swill is unfit for hogs as certainly as other rotten food. Some feed their hogs whey brought from the cheese factory. Often, as factory men know, the whey tanks are very dirty, not having been cleaned, perhaps, for months. The farmers who use this whey should make such a vigorous protest against dirty tanks that the factory men will see that they are cleaned often.

Some of the factories do not even have tanks, but have a row of barrels near the factory buildings into which the whey is run. These, says Orange Judd Farmer, are allowed to become almost putrid in the hot sun of summer. They swarm with flies, which may have been visiting the carcasses of dead hogs in the pastures of adjoining farms. Sometimes these hogs have died of cholera and sometimes of other contagious diseases. It is not a difficult matter to clean barrels often, and this should be done. It is all the easier to do if the cheese factory has a steam pipe, from which a hose can conduct the steam into the barrels.

If disease is to be kept off the farm, food of the hogs must be carefully watched, at least in summer. The matter is not so important in winter, as the flies are not carrying germs from one place to another, and contagious diseases will not spread with the same rapidity. Animals take in disease germs mostly through their respiratory organs or through the organs devoted to the elaboration of food. If the food is protected, much will be gained in the way of protection against disease.

TAKE CARE OF THE COLTS.

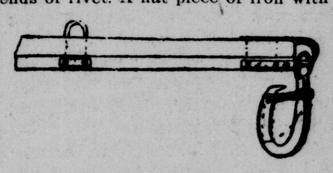

Faithfulness Now Will Be Repaid at Maturity of Animal.

Proper care and feed will increase the conformation, the constitution, and the size of horses fully as much as can be obtained by mating stallions and brood mares with a view of producing these qualities in the colt, says Spirit of the West. Good breeding is a valuable attribute and is demanded at the present time, but feed and care when the animal is young, is required to lay the foundation for a substantial structure that will not quiver or become exhausted with only moderate taxing of the constitution. Muscle and substance must be grown and developed strong and healthy to support stamina and energy, or these two qualities will give way when extra strength and hardship is required. The well fed and well cared for colt will show to advantage and sell to advantage any time it is offered alongside a colt that has been allowed to drift along for itself, without proper care and feed, favorable in some sections of the country to the production of horses, but sunshine and balmy breezes alone will never take the place of fine blue grass pasture, bright heavy oats, corn and fine clover or timothy hay, and a clean stall well bedded and well ventilated.

CLIPS OR TUGS STAY ON.

Home-Made Contrivance Which One Farmer Has Found Serviceable.

Have blacksmith bend flat piece of iron around singletree—old buggy tire will do. Bend it back six or eight inches and put two rivets through it. For center clip use staple made of three-eighths round iron. Put nuts on ends of rivet. A flat piece of iron with holes in it fits over the end of staple. Make the hook flat, one- quarter inch thick, five-eighths inch wide. Drill a hole near the end. Use 3-16 round iron for lock. Take a square bend, put in hole and rivet just enough so it will work rather tight. When it wears and works easy tighten again. Dotted lines show lock turned ready for hitching. I have used this on cultivator for ten years, writes a Pennsylvania farmer to Missouri Valley Farmer. The lock part is my own invention.

THE CHURCH DEDICATED

FIRST METHODIST EPISCOPAL OF SEDALIA ON SUNDAY MORNING

BY REVEREND EUGENE MAY, D. D.

There Was a Large Attendance and the Services Were Beautiful and Impressive—A Brief History of the Church.

(Monday's Daily.)

The First M. E. church of Sedalia, of which the Rev. S. S. Martin has been the popular pastor going on six years, was dedicated Sunday morning, the dedicatory sermon being preached by the Rev. Eugene May, D. D., of Washington, D. C.

There was a large attendance, not only of Methodists, but of other denominations as well, and of visitors who are in attendance at the Chautauqua. The program of exercises was as follows:

Organ prelude, Gounod.
"Unfold Ye Portals Everlasting."
Hymn 180.
Prayer by the pastor, Rev. Martin.
Anthem, Largo, Handel.
Scripture reading by Dr. May.
Gloria.
Violin solo, "Solitude," Ole Bull—Benjamin F. Clay.
Free will offering of about $75.
Solo, "Jerusalem," from Gounod's Gallia—Mrs. W. D. Steele.
Dedication.
Hymn 208.
Benediction, Rev. May.

The first M E. church was completed in 1891 at a cost of $40,000. The site, southeast corner of Fourth and Osage streets, was purchased April 14, 1887, but it was not until a year later that the corner stone was laid. The church was opened for public worship by Dr. H. G. Jackson, of Chicago, a former pastor, in 1891.

A Methodist church cannot be dedicated until it is entirely free of debt, and it was not until September 12, 1906, that the First M. E. church had wiped out every penny of indebtedness against it, thanks to the faithful work of the pastor and the officers of the church.

When to formally dedicate the church and by whom came next in order, and when it was learned that Rev. Eugene May, D. D., of the national capital, would be here in attendance at the Chautauqua on Sunday, July 22, it was determined to request him to dedicate the church. Rev. May readily consented, and the selection was a truly happy one, the services of yesterday being among the most beautiful and impressive in the history of the Methodist church in Sedalia.

In connection with yesterday's dedication the following statistics regarding the church are timely: The first Methodist sermon was preached in Sedalia in 1861 by Rev. Nathan Shumate, D. D. The church was organized with seven members in July, 1864, by Rev. C. E. Carpenter. The corner stone of the Ohio street church, where the Sedalia Hardware and Grocery Co. now stands, was laid in August, 1865. The church was dedicated by Bishop Bowman in June, 1868.

"UNWRITTEN" LAW UPHELD

Home Despoiler Should Be Killed, Says Texas Court.

Dallas, Texas, July 22.—R. L. Roberts, the contractor, who shot Morris Beeker, a former business partner, in the suburbs of Dallas Thursday night, was released on $15,000 bond Saturday by Julge Nelms, of the criminal court, on a habeas corpus hearing of the case.

Mrs. Roberts, 24 years old, wife of the defendant, gave testimony of her infatuation for Beeker, and how her husband had become reconciled with her because of their baby.

"The unwritten law should be a written law. The libertine who invades the sancitity of a home and despoiles it of its honor and happiness deserves death. The law should be so written that any husband or father should have the right to act in such a case without being subjected to punishment. The scoundrel who is guilty should be put to death by shooting or any other manner."

Will Erect $6,000 Dwelling.
